Chatting ... With Anne

This week we welcome to our town, and to our neighbourhood Mr. and Mrs. Hyde Parker from Galt. We are looking forward to some nice neighbourhood chats.

Found Charlie and Mrs. Chapman busy making beautiful the lawn of the Presbyterian Church. The church is looking lovely inside also. It has recently been decorated. The walls are bright and colorful. A new Communion table adds much to the appearance of the church. One window, in particular is beautiful. A lovely place to worship.

A son for Corporal and Mrs. Reg. Reynolds, Little Robert John arrived in Guelph General Hospital on July 20th. Congratulations and best wishes.

Thought I had seen just about everything this old town had to offer until I came across Whalton Emerson ploughing. Talk about the new look! That field had everything when Steamboat finished with it. Ah well, a man can but do his best, but, as one of my favourite teachers used to say, "His best is none too good."

Calvin Van Zant, Ruth Estman and Lois Orr are motoring for their holiday to their home town of Manitoulin.

We have with Mrs. Mary Jourdain this week, her sister, Mrs. Nordbye. Mrs. Nordbye comes from the west, and had to make a five day trip to get here. She enjoyed shopping at Silver's. Mrs. Nordbye and Mrs. Jourdain will take a week's holiday together.

Dropped in at Sunnyside to eat, and met an old Georgetown friend, Jean Merwick, working there. It is always nice to meet old friends.

Walker and Hazel Glasford are holidaying this week, and are spending the time working at their new home on Union St. They are very busy and are seemingly having fun as well.

We hear a lot about the way the taxi-boys run around with little regard for anyone. We drive a lot and find them all most courteous. This we saw—one rainy day, Ray Whitmore getting out of his cab, and in his shirt-sleeves in the rain, gently and carefully helping an elderly lady down a terrace into his cab, and seating her comfortably. It is the little things that make our life worthwhile.

John and Edna Armstrong with the boys, and Uncle Clarence are week-ending in Buffalo.

Attended a shower for Alice Addy. Mrs. W. Smith and Elsie Eby were joint hostesses. This shower was fun. A lot of the fun was due to the fact that Mrs. Kempshend was there. We played games and Alma Harlow and Minnie Burtenshaw sang. The lunch was daintily prepared. The bride-to-be was charming and happy. Many and beautiful were the gifts she received.

On Monday, in the Glen, Una Wheeler was hostess at a shower at the home of Mrs. Bert Hill for Alice. Twenty-six guests were present. The trimming department of the Alliance Paper Mill, where both Alice and Fred are employed, gave them a wool blue blanket. The sorting department gave them a white chenille bedspread. The United Church, where Alice is a member of the choir, gave them a peach wool blanket, and two cups and saucers. Our best wishes for your happiness Alice and Fred Engloby.

Was glad to see Joe Martin in our end of the town again. Mr. Martin who is a spry young eighty-three years old, is a favourite with all of us. He had a painful accident some time ago when he fell and hurt the ligaments of his leg.

No week of ours would be complete without dropping in to see our friend and neighbour Martha Lucas. We all do it. When we want an opinion about a new hat, where do we go? Over to Martha's. When we are unhappy about something, over to Martha's. When days have been good, and we are bubbling over with laughter, we share it all with Martha. She weeps over us in our sorrows, and laughs with us in our joys. She is our counselor and friend.

To Martha:
I don't know when I first began To call you "friend"; One day I only know,
The vague companionship that I'd seen grow
So imperceptibly, turned gold, and ran
In tune with all I'd thought, or dared to plan.
Since then, you've been to me like music, low,
Yet clear; a fire that throws its warm, bright glow
On me at on each woman, child,
and man,
And common thing that lies within its rays;
You've been like wholesome food
that staves the cry
Of hungry, groping minds; and like a star—
A self-sufficient star—you make me raise
My utmost being to a higher sky,
In tune, like you, with earth, yet wide, and far.

— Anne.

Georgetown Fair Sept. 17-18

TIME TO PREPARE

Now that summer's half gone, it's time to think of the Fall Fair, time to be getting your exhibits ready for the annual show sponsored here by the Esquesing Agricultural Society.

The Fall Fair is the show window for the district, where the best in produce, livestock, fanciwork, and handicraft compete for championship honours and where large crowds gather to enjoy a day of clean, wholesome entertainment. The fair is only as good as its exhibits and everyone should consider it their duty to help put it over—by exhibiting as well as attending.

Sept. 17 and 18 is the date to meet your friends at Georgetown Fair
