The Editor's Corner

A SENSIBLE PARK PLAN

It is encouraging to see the Georgetown Recreational Committee discussing taking over control of the park. In an editorial last year in this newspaper the suggestion was made that some group be given authority to make something of this natural asset which is really a bigger benefit to Georgetown than the arena. Proper development of facilities in the park can only be done by a group pledged to devote a great deal of time and thought to it and the make-up of the G.R.C. would lead one to believe that here we have the perfect group which is representative of all groups in the community.

A central planning organization could accomplish miracles in developing the park into a wonderful thing. Up to the present, a loose control has been exercised by council, with no long-term planning. Planned control can develop natural resources and improve facilities even as has been done at the arena by the Board of Parks. It is to be hoped that if the GRC approaches council they will be given this control.

A BETTER HERALD

This past few weeks we sometimes think the Herald is competing with the new Toronto Telegram in introducing new columns. This week we welcome back the staff side of the editor's family, who is taking over where Anne left off in providing a column of Chatting. She is no newcomer to the game, having been editor while yours truly did a three-year army stretch. Another new column is one which the Georgetown Recreational Committee will provide weekly to keep readers in touch with their activities. This week, Mrs. Harry Lewis is the writer, but we understand that Wheldon Emmerson is slated to do the chore from now on.

We hope that readers enjoy these additions to the pages of the Herald. It is constantly our endeavour to give you a better and better newspaper, and columns such as Along the Boards, Chatting, What's New, etc., are designed to give angles of news which it is impossible for one man to provide. At the present time the Herald has grown from a normal eight-page newspaper to ten and twelve. It is hoped that these can be continued and that eventually the Herald can take second place to no others in the weekly field.

POT POURRI

An informal "pre-preview" of the new Dodge took place on Main Street one morning last week when the local dealer, Dave Saxe, passed by with one of the new models which will be put under wraps until the official announcement. It is good to report that LeRoy "Andy" Dale, popular local lawyer who underwent a serious operation in Toronto some time ago, is out of hospital and convalescing at his farm near Brampton. New faces on Main Street include Charlotte McCullough, who replaced Kay Stockley at the Dominion Store when Kay moved up the street to McClure's, and John Farmer, erstwhile of Caldwell's Restaurant, who has also joined the McClure staff. The Correction Korner — the Jewish Farm referred to in a news item last week was located on the D. G. H. Wright farm property, not at Cedarvale School. The assessor has also drawn to our attention an error in Council News. Those claiming exemption for a portion of taxes on farm property within the municipality must apply within 14 days after September 30th and council must pass a by-law allowing this at least two months before the tax rate is struck. Ernie's Radio has moved from its former location in the Cordaro Building to the premises in the Roxy Theatre Building formerly occupied by Elsie's Beauty Shoppe. The new location gives Ernie more display room for his stock of electrical appliances. Compensating somewhat for the Tanners defeat by the Raiders in the semi-finals is the fact that Acton Juniors wear the hockey crown for the district, beating Georgetown in two straight games in the play-offs. The death of Ed McWhirter removes from the community a man who always was a good citizen. He will be particularly missed in the Lions Club, of which he was a staunch member. Possibilities of joining the High School Area, and the building of a new school to serve Georgetown, Acton and Esquesing are being investigated by the Board of Education. A meeting was held in Acton recently, another in Georgetown last week and tonight members of Esquesing Council, Georgetown Council and the Board are discussing the question at a meeting in the Municipal Building. "Beat Bridgeport" is the new battle cry of the Raiders, now that the Tanners have passed from the picture.

BOY SCOUTS, WOLF CUBS, HOLD PARENTS' NIGHT
In keeping with Boy Scout week
the local Boy Scout Troop and Wolf Cub Pack held a "Parent's Night"
on Friday evening, February 25th in the United Church. A lively sing-song opened the program after which the Cubs, rallied for the Grand Howl and the jungle dances of Baboo and Kaa. Several of the Cubs and Scouts then repeated their law and promise. Leaders Stewart Young, Reg Broomhead
and Rev. J. M. Smith conducted a program of group and shell games,
in some of which mothers and dads
were given a chance to participate.
The evening was concluded with a fine lunch prepared by the mothers and ladies of the church.
