THE MIXING BOWL
by Annellen HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Hello Homemakers! The word vegetable is the English derivative of two kindred Latin verbs, vegetare meaning to enliven and vegere, to be lively. Since vegetables give us much sustenance to keep us lively, we should never say that we don't like vegetables. Few people dislike asparagus (the fresh vegetable of the month) when it is cooked and served properly.

The water for cooking asparagus, 3 inches in a deep saucepan, should be boiling, the time of the boiling period should be 22 to 25 minutes, depending upon the quantity. This method retains the bright green colour and cooks asparagus until tender while saving the most nutritive value. We use the top part of the double boiler and place a couple of zinc sealer rings in the bottom to hold the stalks upright. In this way the tender tips are not overcooked.

Ingenuity in the seasoning of vegetables enhances their flavour and appetite appeal. Paprika will give a subtle flavour to chopped greens one day, and a look, a more daring one the next. Canned beets steeped in a hot mixture of vinegar, sugar and sweet marjoram for one day become a delicacy. Celery, cabbage and green onions, all cut fine and steamed together, make a one-dish vegetable that your neighbors will copy. Then, too, a good sauce which is "flippant" lends harmony to a meal. Finally, serve a hot vegetable steaming hot to be really tasty.

GOLDEN SAUCE — for Asparagus
Beat 2 egg yolks with 1 tsp. cold water, 1 tsp. lemon juice and 1/4 tsp. salt. Melt 2 tbsps. butter and stir in 2 tbsps. flour and stir until blended. Gradually add 1 cup of canned consommé or soup stock and cook until mixture thickens. Slowly pour the mixture over the beaten eggs. Cook over hot water stirring constantly. Season with a dash of cayenne pepper.

SOUR CREAM SAUCE
Melt 1 tsp. margarine or butter in the top of a double boiler over hot water. Add 2 tbsps. chopped chives and cook until tender. Mix in 1 tsp. flour until blended with fat. Stir in 1 cup sour cream and cook until thick. Add 1 tsp. sugar, 1/4 tsp. vinegar, 1/2 tsp. salt and a dash of pepper. Pour over cooked asparagus or cress and serve at once.

SPRING ONIONS WITH CHEESE
1 cup diced green onions
2 cups milk
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1 1/4 cups grated old cheese
3 eggs, beaten
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. salt
Dash cayenne pepper
Heat milk and gradually pour it over beaten eggs, stirring constantly. Add mustard, Worcestershire sauce, salt, pepper and mix thoroughly. Add green onions and cook 5 minutes. Serve in pastry shells or as topping for meat patties in place of one vegetable.

VEGETABLE VARIATIONS
1. Mash 6 cooked potatoes with 1/4 cup skim milk. Fold in 1/4 cup minced pineapple.
2. Mix 4 cups cooked shredded cabbage with 1/2 cup drained canned tomatoes. Sprinkle and mix in 1 tsp. caraway seeds, and salt and pepper to flavour.
3. Put cooked carrots through a ricer or mash with a potato masher. Season with salt, pepper and margarine. Add chopped fresh mint or cress.
4. Cook 2 cups noodles and serve with 1 tsp. chopped peppercorns and 2 tbsps. grated cheese.

Judge: "So your name's Joshua. You're not the Joshua who made the sun stand still, are you?"
Clippit: "Nawruh, Judge. Ah'm de Joshua dat made de moonshine." A dollar won't do as much as it once did. But we don't do as much for a dollar as we once did either.

The Adventures of Flitt the Butterfly

by Robin Wynn

THE FAREWELL PARTY FOR FLITT
Although I wasn't there myself, I got most of the details from Mr. Sunbeam. You remember that Flitt had been a very busy butterfly, watching over the people in the Green Forest and helping everyone in trouble. Now he was tired and decided to take a month's holiday at the sea-shore. All the little people in the Forest loved Flitt and so they decided to give him a farewell party.

Flitt made plans to leave on Thursday and was very busy getting packed and ready to go. But, all unknown to Flitt, the little people of the Green Forest were very busy, too, getting ready for their surprise party. The Beaver family had been busy cutting down trees to make a platform in the forest. The Green Garter Snake had the very important job of watching in case Flitt should come that way, which would spoil the surprise. You can bet that Mr. Green Garter Snake didn't do any snoozing.

The Spider family were very busy, too. Beside all the work of keeping the spider telephone in repair, they were making a special spider-web hammock, to carry Old Lady Rabbit to the party. Old Mr. Turtle said they could tie it between his head and his tail so it wouldn't jar Grandmother Rabbit one bit. You will remember that she was very frail and had to stay in bed all the time. Just imagine how excited she was, to be actually going to a party in the clearing!

Over in the cave at the edge of the Forest, where the Green Goblin made his home, an important meeting was taking place. Mr. Sunbeam, the Wise Old Owl, and the Green Goblin were trying to decide what kind of a farewell present they should give to Flitt. They thought and thought, and suddenly Mr. Sunbeam had an idea.

"Can you make a magic potion that would let Flitt go to the bottom of the Sea to visit Father Neptune, the King of the Ocean?" he asked the Green Goblin. Both the Wise Old Owl and Mr. Sunbeam knew the secret that the Green Goblin was an expert on magic.

The Green Goblin scratched his head, stroked his beard and really looked worried for a minute.

"It's a big job, Mr. Sunbeam, but I'll try. I'll need lots of help too," he said.

At once they began preparations for the magic potion.

First the Green Goblin got a great iron kettle and set it up on two big rocks in the caves. Next he sent his helper, Jinky, who was a very spry little rabbit, out to get some sunshine in a bottle, to put under the kettle. As soon as the kettle started to warm up, Mr. Green Goblin went to his shelves, taking a little of this and a little of that putting it all into the kettle until it was nearly full. Finally the big kettle began to steam and boil, going glurp, glurp, glurp. Gradually it boiled down to just a little in the bottom.

"Just one hour more to cook, and then we'll know if it is going to be a success or not," said the Green Goblin. "In the meantime, I need three drops of sweet cedar oil, right from the heart of the biggest cedar in the forest."

Quite naturally, the one they chose for the job was Mr. Wood-Worm, because he was the best wood-borer in the whole forest. When Mr. Wood-Worm heard that he was to have this important job, he got so excited that he went scooting up a tree near by and bumped his head on a branch, which nearly knocked him out. He came down again quickly, looking rather silly, but still very happy.

In the meantime, Father Squirrel had made a little pot to carry the sweet cedar oil in, using half a hazel nut with a bit of wire grass twisted thro' for a handle. Off went Mr. Wood-Worm carrying the little pot and whistling a merry tune.

It wasn't long before he was back with not three drops, but six drops of sweet cedar oil. When the Green Goblin told him what a good job he had done, You should have seen him stick out his chest and strut around. However, he had a reason to do so, and we can easily forgive him.

By this time the Magic Potion was ready for the final touches — the three drops of cedar oil and the pinch of fresh star dust. The Green Goblin put in the sweet cedar oil — there was a gurgling and a foaming which soon settled down. Now for the fresh star dust. Everyone just held his breath as the Green Goblin got the bottle of star dust down from the shelf. He took a tiny little pinch of it and threw it in.

Bang! There was a terrific hiss like a steam engine and a great cloud of thick heavy smoke curled up from the kettle and formed a great question mark! There it stayed in the air, as solid as a piece of hard tuff candy! As soon as they got over their fright, they looked at each other with very disappointed faces. Suddenly the Green Goblin was all smiles again.

"Now I know where I made my mistake! I needed fresh sunshine to go with the Star Dust. The next batch will be O.K.," he said.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

To all unilliterary minded peoples:
I am addressing this paragraph to all the schemes that are too stingy to spend a measly 75c or 50c on the case may be to go and see one of the greatest comedies ever presented in or near Georgetown. Just in case you're ignorant pennypinchers do not know what I am talking about let me elucidate. (Don't run for your dictionary it's not a swear word.)

Last Thursday and Friday nights the school put on a play, "June Mad". The first night there was an approximated nocrowd of 40 or 50 people. The second night there were about a hundred odd people there (No not odd people but a hundred odd). The opinion of the majority of these people was that the play was OK, infact, darn good considering.

The play went over very well and I'm sure all those people that went did not begrudge the 75 or 50 cents after seeing it. The majority of you dough-heads in town including those so-called students of GHS ought to be shot at sunrise for not attending a school affair. My opinion of you is that you don't even know the school exists in a social capacity and are too lazy to waddle to any social evenings to find out. I thank you.

About the play:
For about two weeks before the play took place there was feverish activity in Teen Tow Hall rehearsing and building the scenery. This stage committee was composed of Elling Berg, Jim Buck, Ron Denham, Jack Betke, and George McClure. These fellows are to be congratulated for their swell job in building the realistic stage and fixing the lighting. The costume department consisting of Miss Piercemy, Joan Latimer and Stella Semanyk rounded up some mighty fine costumes and did fine work back stage.

The cast — Moira Kelly, Jim Kirkwood, Rosemary Jordan, Bill MacCormack, Lorne McBride, Marlon Ashley, Dianne Cameron, Bill Hewitt, Bob Addy, Gray Merriam, Marilyn Bell, George McClure and Wanda Timbers all deserve a great deal of credit for the time they spent on getting ready for the play and the fine job of acting that all put forth.

Mr. Lambert is to be congratulated for his directing and for the extra work he did to get ready for it. Jack Gunning, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert did a swell job on make-up and should be in on the hand-shaking.

The property committee — Bill Arnold, Keith Scott, Alan Gillis, Jim McDonald and Don Hutchinson made the stage look very nice indeed and deserve a round of applause.

Ushers were Joyce McMillan, Ann Crabtree, Eleanor Spitzer and Elaine Pries. Programmes by the commercial department.

To all those who sold tickets and helped in any way to put this play over may I extend further congratulations. To all you people who DID NOT see the play this may sound like a lot of congratulating but everyone deserves it.

Both nights the play went over with very few slip ups and I am sure all those who went did not find their evening wasted.

It is to be hoped another affair of this sort will be a little better attended.

FORMER GEORGETOWN RECTOR MADE CANON

The Synod of Niagara convened at Christ's Church Cathedral, Hamilton, on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 3rd and 4th. Archdeacon W. G. O. Thompson, and Mr. Lindley Beaumont and Mr. Harvey Dewhurst attended from this parish. The Bishop, who was not in good health, presided only part of the time, and announced that he would soon be handing in his resignation to the House of Bishops. He honoured four of the Clergy of the Diocese with the title of Canon, one of whom was the former Rector of this parish, now Canon Fred H. Wase. The others so honoured were Canon S. A. Kirk, Guelph, Canon Coeligan, Niagara Falls, and Canon Allan Hill of Grace Church, St. Catharines.
