Among the newer residents of town are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McGowan, who have bought one of the new Kestner houses on Oster Boulevard. They moved here from Lucan and Mr. McGowan is a commercial traveller. Daughter Gwyneth is employed with the A. V. Roe Company at Malton. Hard at work building a new house on the highway at the northern end of town is Frank Golden. Frank is doing much of the work himself and we admire him for tackling such a big job.

One of the nicest presents a mother could receive was given to Mrs. Henry Isley by her family in the form of a trip west. She left last Tuesday by plane from Malton and will make her headquarters in Regina, Saskatchewan, with her sister, Mrs. George Mills, visiting other friends in the west also. It was the first meeting of the sisters since Mrs. Mills visited here six years ago.

In case you're wondering why you don't see Riley Brethour around town so much these days, he has a new position in Toronto with the A. W. Farlinger real estate firm. Riley is all in love with his new job although it has the disadvantage of making it hard to commute as selling real estate is largely an evening occupation. One of the fine points of the business is the preparation of newspaper advertising and every advertisement is "fine-combed" to give the right twist to selling ideas. Once an advertisement draws enquiries the rest is up to Riley.

One of our local navy lads, O.J. Ralph Peck has reported for duty at H.M.C.S. Stadacona at Halifax after spending a furlough at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peck. Ralph took his initial training at Esquimaux, British Columbia.

Apologies to Jean Dickie for omitting her name from the column last week as a member of the Pipe Band party which performed at the Lions International convention in New York City. The girls had a marvelous time, and the two-way trip by air was a highlight in itself.

The new office layout of J. B. Mackenzie & Son is very "plish" from all reports. It will give more display space for building and roofing products which the firm handles and is also a good advertisement of the company's products.

"Yes, of course I'm lost, cried the bare young lady" is the intriguing heading for a feature story which appeared in the Ingersoll Tribune as the story concerns one of Georgetown's juvenile misses we will copy it in its entirety. The young lady in question was little Patsy Laws, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Laws, who was on vacation with her parents in Ingersoll at the time.

If someone tries to tell you the age of chivalry is dead, just tell him it isn't so. There's Constable Orval Huras to prove it. And he gets our medal for this week for rescuing a maiden in distress.

Constable Huras was looking after the community's interests in the vicinity of King and Oxford Sts. the other afternoon when he spotted a young lady walking towards him from the west end of town. She was wearing white shorts, socks and sport shoes. She was also carrying a bit of clothing under her arm. As she got a little closer, Constable Huras' eyes began to pop. The white shorts were bare skin. In fact, the young lady was another Lady Godiva, without benefit of a horse. Sun tan went down to her tummy, and began again at her hips. Her clothing consisted of socks and sport shoes. She carried her sun suit under her arm.

Constable Huras blushed as only a great, big burly policeman can blush at times like these.

"Lost," he choked, looking around to see how many people were seeing him in this unique situation.

"Yes," said the little lady, quite unconcerned. "You might get cold," suggested Constable Huras, settling down to the task of dressing a young lady right in the centre of one of the town's main intersections. Then he whisked her over to the police station and began to check on how many bare young ladies were being sought at that time. He soon located the parents, and everybody came down and blessed for Mr Huras and Lady Godiva.

And who was Lady Godiva?
Ah - we wouldn't think of telling.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR ERIN CONTRACTOR

Funeral services were held on July 7th for the late Charles Henry Smith at Erin United Church to Coningsby cemetery. Deceased who had been in failing health for some time, suffered a paralytic stroke a week previous to his death. He was removed to Guelph General Hospital where he passed away on July 5. A son of the late Jacob Smith and his wife Hannah Hindley, he was born almost eighty years ago in Erin Township where he resided throughout his life, having lived in Hillsburgh for some time and later in Erin Village.

The late Mr. Smith was a cement and stone contractor and had built a great many farm buildings and cement culverts throughout a wide district during his forty-five years of business. He was highly respected as an honest workman and a good citizen and was beloved by all for his ready wit and humour. In his younger days he was well known as a comedian and entertainer. He was a Liberal in politics and a faithful member of Erin United Church.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, the former, Ophelia V. Hyndman, and two sons and two daughters — Ariel (Mrs. Carl Dyer), Hillsburgh; Elda, (Mrs. Chester Anderson), Toronto; Roy A., Georgetown and Wilbur C., of Thornhill. Two sisters also survive — Mrs. Maud Howes, Erin and Mrs. Evangeline Robertson, Hillsburgh, and five grand children.

The pall-bearers were life-long friends of the deceased — Messrs. Roy, John, James and Earl Hindley, Alvin Root and Howard McArthur. The beautiful floral tributes were carried by Messrs. Roy Tinney, R. T. Elgie, Philip LeSueur, Alvin Fisher, Norris Sinclair, James Huron and James Leitch.

Every winter, the seal herds from the Bering/Sea desert the icy blasts and head south to California. After lazing around in the sunny southern waters for three or four months they swim north to the barren Pribilof Islands to spend the summer.

HENSALL COUNCILLOR MEETS TRAGIC DEATH

Melvin Moir, 38, of Hensall, Huron Co., who met his death in a highway accident on Tuesday evening of last week, at the intersection of Highways Nos. 5 and 24, north of Brantford, was a nephew of Dr. A. McAllister of Iowla.

The funeral at Hensall on No. 4 Highway north of London, on Thursday last, was one of the largest ever held in that village, from Melvin's Presbyterian Church, to Exeter, Cemetery.

Melvin was the youngest son of Peter Moir and Annie McAllister, both predeceasing their son.

"ROYAL" TREAT

(contributed)

The ladies of the W.A.P. of Limehouse Presbyterian Church believe that "a little nonsense now and then is washed by the wisest men" and offer a busy year in which they realized over $200 by their plays, and other activities, decided to have an evening's enjoyment. They journeyed to the Royal City of Guelph and treated themselves (not from association funds) to a chicken dinner at the Royal Hotel. Later the ladies tied themselves to the Royal Theatre where the picture "Mr. Belvedere Goes to College" provided plenty of amusement for the rest of the evening.

The ladies hope to make this an annual event, as July 20th is the birthday of the W.A. The two gentlemen who so kindly chauffeured the party, and to whom the ladies are very grateful, returned all home safely and in high spirits. "Why don't you laugh And let the world laugh too, And keep us mortals from getting blue; A laugh will always win, If you can't laugh, just grin."
