HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

by Lamb
 Well folks it looks as if GHS has passed another milestone in the Academic Road. Last Thursday was Commencement night and several Scholarships were awarded to outstanding students. Betty King won the fourth form scholarship of twenty bucks and also the Lions Club prize for outstanding ability of 25 dollars. Betty received this prize for the value of her exam marks during the year. Four of these marks were 100's in Algebra, History, English Literature and Geometry. The rest of her marks averaged well over ninety per cent. We think that Betty deserves a hand of congratulation for her record which very few students in the past have equalled.

Andrew "Andy" Molozzi also comes in line for ovation. Andy received the fifth form scholarship prize of twenty-five dollars and also the Dominion-Provincial Scholarship award which is valued about $400.00, a very neat sum indeed. Congratulations, Andy.

Captain James Kirkwood of the mighty GHS rugby team was on hand to receive the rugby cup, denoting Georgetown as the supreme Rugby team in the Milton, Acton, Georgetown area.

A dance was held in the school afterwards, of which we are only going to say it was a flop.

Christmas is coming, folks, but by the look of the amount of snow we have had to date, it will be a definite unseasonal Christmas. This lack of snow is worrying the first formers very much, because if there is no snow how is Santa Claus going to get here in his little sleigh. Don't worry, though, fellows, he'll use a helicopter. Remember only 27 shopping days left to Christmas.

And now once again we present for your edification and enjoyment the further adventures in the life of two eye tony. Today's episode Chapter five, entitled, "Wahoo, or Wooooe."

Sad as the story may seem, Tony and Molly are still looking for the money to pay for an operation for Tony's mother. He is reading a letter from her as we draw closer: "Dear Tony, I hurt something awful all over. I am going to get myself examined by another doctor. Yours truly, Maw."

Tony muses to himself "wonder if that other doctor could have anything to do with it. C'mon, Molly, we're going home."

Does Tony suspect the villainous doctor at last? Read next week and find out. Oh, yes, I promised you this week Tony would find some more money. Well, he did. Tony hit the jackpot on the Three cherries program. Our Sponsors have a word.

Do you feel run down when hit by a car. You do? Then use Dr. Stretch's elastic supporter with the new four way stretch.

Dance at Club Midtown this Friday, Old Town Hall, come one, come all!

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Alexander have returned to their home in Norval after spending ten days visiting with relatives at Sberkston.

Guests for the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy, Wesleyan Street, were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McKay of Port Egin.

—Set your clock back an hour Saturday midnight for Standard Time.

Jeremiah, A Spokesman of God

These past few weeks our lessons have been based on the words and life of Isaiah who brought a message of trust and confidence to the people of Israel who were living either under the domination of Assyria or under constant fear of her great power. Our lesson today has to do with Jeremiah, a spokesman of God who lived about 150 years later than the Assyrian power period. Babylon was then considered to be the world master. It was the task of Jeremiah to take God's word to the people of Judah. The prophet was well aware of the nation's evil and of the rampant social injustice. In the fulfilling of his mission, he cries out against such sin — "Woe unto him that buildeth his house by unrighteousness, and his chambers by wrong; that useth his neighbour's service without wages, and giveth him not for his work" — Jer. 22:13 — Jeremiah was not popular as he preached his message of urgency requesting a transformation in the life of the nation. Not till it was too late and Judah was swallowed up in defeat did the people realize that God would allow Jerusalem to be destroyed because of the waywardness of His people.

The Biblical Basis:
 Jer. 1:9-10, 18-19; Jer. 22: 1-3, 13, 14; Jer. 37:15-17

The first group of verses (9, 10, 18, 19 of Chapter 1) tells something of the prophet's call to the service of God. This young man was to be God's Messenger and God had prepared him for the task. In spite of his shyness and timidity he was to eloquently speak for God in the face of powerful opponents. He was destined to live a life of denouncing and destroying evil, and advocating and establishing God's will and purpose in the hearts of men. Such a life was bound to bring enmity from all sides and living for Jeremiah was anything but peaceful. Yet his record stands as testimony to his belief in God's promise "They shall fight against thee; but they shall not prevail against thee". Jer. 1:19.

In the verses chosen from the 22nd chapter we learn something of Jeremiah's outspoken criticism of social injustice. Loyalty and political power do not frighten him. In verses 13 and 14 we read his words directed at the king who was misusing his position and power for selfish gain — in this particular instance he was building a spacious palace with forced labour. The last passage shows the outcome of Jeremiah's emphatic and outspoken messages. He was imprisoned time and time again, but prison could not drive him to compromise, or silence his voice.

The Application:
 There is always something to be learned from a man who is called of God. This brief introduction to the prophet Jeremiah shows him as a man called of God for a specific task — a task which caused him to be detested by his fellowmen. We, who have the opportunity of looking back upon the man and his times see him standing out as a gigantic figure in a land of moral and spiritual dwarfism. It is not to be thought that Jeremiah revelled in his opposition and the enmity which his words aroused. He longed to be loved and appreciated by his fellowmen, but stronger still was his desire to be love and commended by God. Jeremiah could not be unfaithful to his call. He was a true spokesman of God who laboured on in a strength that was not his own.

It seems to me that there is challenge in this man for the Christian in our time. To stand out for the things we believe to be of the realm of God is not always easy. In these days it takes courage to cut across social injustice, political intrigue, materialistic philosophies, socially approved evils, and the plain ordinary every day sinning on which no one individual has the monopoly. In the face of that fact what about our Christian calling? Have we timidly allowed ourselves to be silenced? or are we willing to endure and to continue, although not in an un-Christian manner, to be loyal to our calling, confident that God has not lost His power to strengthen.

"God's purpose includes the selection; the consecration, the calling, and the empowering of an individual for His own hour."

"Even a young shrinking boy may be prepared by the touch of God to become a mighty messenger to sinning men."

"The way to power is still found in a deep, personal experience with the infinite."

"Religion may be tested by its results in producing the right sort of conduct and attitudes."
