1950 Tax Rate Struck at 68 Mills

Increased County Rate Ups Local Taxes

Georgetown's tax rate for 1950 is 68 mills. The new tax rate was struck at a special council meeting on Monday when the budget was presented by finance chairman Garfield McGilvray and adopted with a few minor changes.

The new rate is 4 mills above last year. Council has adhered closely to a policy of economy and no new major expenditures are contemplated. The higher tax rate has been caused by a $3,000 increase in county rate, a $1300 raise in public school costs and a $1400 tree trimming expenditure made by last year's council.

Foreman Gets Raise

Town foreman Ern Hyde was granted an increase in salary from $2300 to $2500 after some debate. A recorded vote was taken on a motion to make his salary $2400, made by Cr. Petch and Reeve Marshall. Mayor Cleave and Deputy Reeve MacDonald supported the motion, which was lost. The motion for $2500, made by Hill and Hale, was then carried.

Town Will Caretake Hall

Alex MacLaren and A. M. Baxter appeared for the Recreation Commission to explain why the GRC had established a small charge for use of the Old Town Hall. They said that if the town would look after the caretaking, it would not be necessary, and Mayor Cleave intimated that the town men would do the job. A majority of members expressed themselves as opposed to giving the GRC complete control of the hall and the park.

Some discussion took place on the oil furnace at the town hall and a Vacu-Draft will be tried in an attempt to make the furnace work better. Cr. Tuck had an estimate of $380 for repairing the roof, and a decision on this was left till a future meeting.

Seek New Garbage Dump

It is Reeve Marshall's opinion that the garbage dump will have to be moved from the park. Mayor Cleave said he was sure the town had used up the original half acre purchased for a dump. An offer has been made by Normand Snyder to dump garbage out of town at the present price of $9000 and Bob Lane, who holds the contract, has suggested another site in town. Council will look over this property.

Encourage New Industry

Cr. Petch, industrial chairman, suggested that he be allowed $200 for advertising for new industries for town. There has been no new industry established here for ten years, he said, and something should be done.

Library Renovations

Cr. Tuck pointed out that the library roof was in poor shape and that some plastering needed doing. No definite action was taken, but council will discuss the matter at a future meeting.

Calder was chairman and assisting artists were Ruth Davis, soprano and Harry Dyck, elocutionist.

The program was varied. Mr. Harrison played five groups. The Bach and Beethoven selections especially showed excellent technical ability. "Rondo" and "Funeral" March, parts of Beethoven's Sonata in A Flat Major, had been played by Mr. Harrison at the Kiwanis Music Festival in Toronto, where he received excellent marks.

Special mention should be made of the Paderewski Minuet, which was very lovely, and the Kullak Octave Study gave the audience a very difficult number, well rendered.

Mr. Dyck gave several humorous readings and Miss Davis sang in her usual sweet style. Her encore, an Irish Song was especially enjoyed.

Halton Farmers Do Not Favour Cooperative Farms

by Mrs. R. E. Ellenton
Forum Press Reporter

Halton farmers in general do not favour cooperative farming, according to forum reports of the last radio discussion "Can We Farm Cooperatively?" While there were a few things mentioned where members felt cooperation might be beneficial, Halton farmers pride themselves as being individualists, owning their own land and machinery.

Bannockburn thought a properly organized cooperative scheme would be beneficial to a young man starting farming with limited capital. Omagh thought the opposite, claiming a young man can buy second hand equipment and still be on his own.

Mount Nemo thinks weed control can best be handled by group action. Such items as wood cutting, lime spreading, hay baling, threshing, silo fillings and potato digging were mentioned by different forums. Others thought these could be best done by custom work, the farming owning his own machine.

The opinion of Boyne forum is that our farms are too large and too many families operate several farms jointly for any cooperative scheme to work. One group suggested they would like to experiment with cooperation in holidays.

SIX FORUMS WILL MEET AT STEWARTTOWN

Next Monday, as the wind-up to this season's series of farm forum broadcasts, six district forums will meet in Stewarttown Hall for a rally. Entertainment will include motion pictures, songs by Rev. Alex Calder, Ruth Davis and Jean Ruddle, a sing song and dancing. Desney Charles of Check Line Forum will be chairman. Forums participating are Check Line, Ashgrove, Stone School, Hornby, Pinegrove and Bannockburn.

LOCAL MEN VISIT PURINA RESEARCH FARM IN MISSOURI

Purina Research Farm, Gray Summit, Mo.

Wilfred Leslie and J. Herbert Reid were among a group of livestock and poultry breeders from Ontario who visited the Ralston Purina Research farm at Gray Summit, Missouri, near St. Louis last week.

The farm contains 738 acres where tests and experiments are conducted in the development of chow and sanitation products for livestock and poultry. Of particular interest to Canadian feeders was the Yorkshire hog unit. The animals were imported from Ontario and play an important part in Purina's research as well as helping to increase interest in this breed in the United States.

The dairy unit consists of grade Holsteins which are producing more than 14,000 pounds of milk per head annually. It was pointed out to the visitors that this is just an average herd that could be found on a farm anywhere in Canada or the States.

Other units inspected included the turkey growing unit, the broiler unit where 3-pound birds are raised in 10 weeks on 9 pounds of feed, the duck growing project, rabbitry, dog kennels, beef cattle units and the newly established pigeon loft.
