DROWNING TRAGEDY SHOWS SWIMMING POOL NEED

Dear Sir:
On Sunday a tragic drowning occurred at Eason's Flats above Glen Williams. It seems the spring floods have made large holes in the river bottom and this, combined with the swift waters due to our late rains, and their muddy condition, has made the rivers unsuitable for swimming. Would-be rescuers were helpless and dived in vain in the muddy water to find the little girl who was drowned. It took four or five hours to finally locate her body.

A tragedy, yes, and the sad fact is that it is going to happen again if we do not act to counteract the possibility. With both the Norval and Glen dams washed out by floods the children are bound to use the river more.

Georgetown needs a swimming pool or a bigger cemetery.
Leonard Self, Recreational Director
