Lions Campfire, Trip to Centre Island are Features

Georgetown's second annual Stay-at-Home Camp begins next Monday at 9:45 in the morning.
 The two week camp is under the direction of recreational director J.
 L. Self and is sponsored by the Lions Club, Ministerial Association and Recreation Commission. The camp runs from July 17 to July 28 with a full program of activity each day, except Saturdays and Sundays.

Many new features have been added to the program this year to make it better than ever. The enrolment is already equal to last year's and indications are that attendance will be even higher. All boys and girls ages six to fifteen who live within a radius of five miles of Georgetown are welcome to attend. Registration forms are still available at the Herald Office.

On Monday at 9:45 girls 6 - 10 are to go to the Presbyterian Church; boys 6 - 10 to the United Church; boys and girls 11 - 15 to the Baptist Church. The boys and Norval United Church.

 and the program also includes hikes, sports and movies.

J. L. Lambert's daily newspaper which proved so popular last year will be expanded this year, with extra and interesting news about characters around town. To campers the paper is free, to outsiders the price of 10c is well worth it.

 Put your orders in early.
 At this year's camp all boys and girls will be placed in Indian tribes and points will be awarded for each activity. The highest tribes at the end of the camp will
