

U.N. Flag for Unified Headquarters

A United Nations flag, already a veteran of U.N. field missions, is given to Ambassador Warren Austin of the USA (left) by U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie (center) for use over the headquarters of the USA's General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, command-in-chief of the unified forces acting in behalf of U.N. in Korea. Looking on is Ambassador Arne Sunde of Norway, Security Council President for July. The blue-and-white flag was formerly used by U.N. military observers and the U.N. Mediator in Palestine.

WHAT COUNCIL DID

Petch—It said so last year in the Herald.

Tuck—I understand they will do everything except catch stray dogs.

Marshall—There is no reason they can't issue warrants for dogs at large.

Love—Or see the owner and warn him.

Tuck—The provincials have made mistakes and I have been against them until I heard the other side of the story. In most cases they have been in the right. I speak of one case where a man was warned concerning passing, stop signs and speeding. He got a ticket and couldn't take it and came to the mayor or I don't know who. One warning should be sufficient.

Hill—The letter says the contract will be terminated so what's the use of arguing.

Cleave—They want to terminate it and we should be happy to accept it.

Tuck—The question is, do we want provincials or our own men?

Hill—It doesn't matter what we want. They say they won't come in.

MacDonald—We'll pay local men ourselves and they'll be our men.

Cleave—I understood Knight to say we could terminate the contract any time. It's costing us $9,000 a year and we would save a lot of money with our own force.

Hill—It would cost us more the first year.

Tuck—I have no complaints against the three men on duty.

Petch—I have heard some.

Tuck—Me too, but nobody is right all the time.

Petch—Is it right that Knight tore up two summonses when he was here. As I understand it, the summonses were a straight case of spite work.

Cleave—Corporal Sheffield read a list of 18 summonses issued in the past month. What they were for I don't know. If he tore up any summonses I don't know which.

Petch—I got it first hand.

Hill—A policeman should issue a summons no matter who the person is.

McGilvray—That's what they have been doing.

Tuck—No provincial is going to watch one person just for spite. If I was pinched I would pay my fine and shut up.

Cleave—You can catch more flies with sugar than salt.

Hill—Courtesy is the first consideration.

McGilvray—That works both ways from what I heard.

Petch—Two summonses were in one establishment. There's no doubt it was a case of spite work. I would take it from this letter that we won't get too satisfactory policing till the end of the year.

Cleave—Inspector Knight said Sheffield was leaving before the end of the month and that we might get Corporal Reynolds back of we wanted him.

Marshall—I think we should go slow. We don't want to pay two police forces. If Knight puts it in writing then the contract can end any time then we can advertise for men.

Tuck—You are right when you say two men are sufficient here.

McGilvray—Let it ride for awhile. The public might want the provincials.

Cleave—I don't think they do, to be honest. Mr. Knight said he might help us in choosing a good man.

Hill—It doesn't matter what the people want. They are terminating the contract the end of the year.

Tuck—My only hope is that we get two men who are above reproach and never make mistakes.

Marshall—If we get the best men in the Dominion they will make mistakes. The present men are O.K. and I have no complaints, but we could get better men to enforce town-by-laws. Provincial police are not municipal police. I don't think Corporal Sheffield played fair with us. We got him his hooks and he's been trying to get away ever since.

Accepted a requisition of $7851 as Georgetown's share of high school costs for 1950 only as set out by a Board of Arbitration.

(Moved by McGillvray and Hale)

This is expected to settle a contentious question which was raised when Esqueusing Township disputed the sharing of costs on the old equalized assessment basis. When no agreement could be reached, Esqueusing asked for a board of arbitration which met last Thursday afternoon and was composed of the assessors from the five municipalities involved. Esqueusing had asked that Georgetown pay $8300, which was $1300 over the $7000 budgeted when the local tax rate was struck.

Assessor Joseph Gibbons reported to council that the arbitration board had suggested a compromise with Georgetown paying half of this extra charge and if it was accepted, the board would be dissolved and would not have to make any decision which by law is binding for five years.

After considerable discussion council decided to do this. Mr. Gibbons said he had not thought it proper for K. C. Lindsay, assessor of Esqueusing, to be at the

Clement-Gibson Wedding In Paisley Church, Guelph

Paisley Memorial Church, Guelph, was the scene of the wedding of Betty Colleen Gibson, daughter of Mrs. John Gibson of Acton, and the late Mr. Gibson, and William Boyne Clement, son of Mrs. Henry Clement of Milton and the late Mr. Clement, Rev. G. I. Vanloot officiated.

The bride wore a street length dress of pale blue satin with an apron of French blue lace, a large white lace picture hat with blue trimmings, and white accessories. Her corsage was of carnations and bridal roses. Mrs. Alfred Jacques, of Kitchener, her only attendant, was dressed in grey with a large pink picture hat and corsage of bridal pink roses. Mr. Jacques was groomsmen.

Twenty-four guests attended a reception in the Royal Hotel, where the bride's mother received wearing black faille with lace inserts and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother chose black sheer crepe with corsage of red roses. Guests came from Kitchener, Toronto, Milton, Acton, Brampton, Campbellville, Guelph and Hamilton.

For a motor trip to the east coast, the bride wore a figured silk jersey with matching hat and accessories. The couple will make their home in Milton. The bride was officiate nurse in Dr. J. B. Milne's office in town.

In the Field and In the Home MODERN EQUIPMENT Makes Easy Work of Harvesting

The ease, speed and economy of harvesting nowadays typifies the change in farming that has come with new and better equipment.

Through progress in implement engineering the burden of farm work has been transferred from muscles to machines—with decided advantages physically, socially and economically to those engaged in agriculture.

Latest machines like the Massey-Harris self-propelled combine have established a new appreciation of the importance of mechanization and a realization that farming with modern power machines is easier and more profitable.
