SPORTS ROUND-UP

by Steamboat Emmerson
Limehouse Blues, the team with all the supporters, fell prey to the fancy pitching of the Legion's own Scotty Patterson and bowed out in industrial softball last week. Chubby Stapleton has a good club which will undoubtedly cause some concern before the playoffs finish.

While some of the Limehouse heavy hitters failed to connect, the Legion scampered home with seven runs while the Blues only counted one. Limehouse went down two in a row and now have to wait until next year for another crack at the baseball crown.

While we're on the subject of Limehouse, it was a gap well filled when they entered a team and they always played a good game. It was a pleasure to meet them, win, lose or draw.

Norval, who have been standing by for a couple of weeks will play Combines Thursday night. Combines and Smith & Stone went the full three games before S&S took the count.

Last Thursday in the Glen Businessmen trimmed the home team 12-7 in a good fast ball game. In the return game Monday Glen were leading when the game was called in account of darkness.

Games scheduled . . .
Thursday—Bremen-Glen (at Glen)
Norval-Combines (at Park)
Every effort should be made to have the games started at 6:30 p.m. Home teams arrange for plate umpires and visiting team, base umpire.

A WINS CROCHETED SET

Miss Ethel Brownridge was winner of a crocheted chesterfield set raffled off by Mrs. F. Robinson. The draw was made at the Legion Hall on Friday with L. Dickenson as witness.

THE TIME CLOCK AND THE MAN

The time clock stood in a dingy, hall
At the end of a narrow lane,
Stamped the workers' cards at the whistle call.

The cards with their numbers and name.

Never a lie had the time clock told,
Treating them all the same,
Stamping the time for powers to behold.

The time when they left, and came,
And few understood this marvelous guard

That stood in the factory's aisle;
It was not noisy, asked no reward,
And its looks did not beguile.

But then one day in silence it stood
At the end of that much trod lane,
Defying them all, in stubborn mood
Refusing to tick again.

It is true Mr. Know-It-All looked wise,
but beat an embarrassed retreat,
And Chiefs Big-Wind, and Much-Loud-Noise,
But they all had to bow to defeat.

And then he came, a meek looking man,
Reserved, with little to say,
"I don't just know, but I'll do what I can,"
I'll use this bench, if I may."

Marvelous the work of that silent man
Fingers that seemed to see in that web-like maze for one short span,
Then "I think she'll go, said he."

"She's all right now, yes, O.K."
He donned his battered hat
"Look you up again in three months if I may No extra charge for that."

— Bill Taylor, Water St.

ensions. But it is with their former friends that these soldiers would find the greatest happiness.

Perhaps the most tragic comment is that written on the dossier completed by IRO for their identification. Against each name in turn, comes the words "Has no one who can help." Can the great Allied nations or their conscience allow themselves also to be categorized as "Unable to meet the obligation?"
