Four Attendants as Jane Early Marries

Many out-of-town guests attended the marriage on Saturday, September 16th of Margaret Jane Early, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arnold Early to Mr. John Alexander Mustard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Alexander Mustard of Toronto.

Standards of white gladioli decorated Knox Presbyterian Church where Rev. Ross K. Cameron of Toronto conducted the ceremony. Mr. Frederick M. Pollett was at the organ and Miss Marion Hepburn was soloist. She sang "Through the Years" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of brocaded cream satin fashioned with moulded basque, long fitted sleeves and bertha neckline studded with seed pearls. The full satin skirt fell to form a cathedral train and her finger-tip veil was held by a Juliet cap. She carried an all-white bouquet of roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. Robert G. Early was matron of honour for her sister-in-law and wore sapphire blue velvet. Miss Catherine Mustard, sister of the groom, Miss Joan Hall and Miss Elsie Bongard, cousins of the bride, wore gowns of pale blue velvet fashioned on the same lines as the bridal gown. The four attendants carried crescent cascades of red roses and stephanotis.

Mr. Warren Boyd Davis was groomsmen and the ushers were Robert Patterson and the bride's brothers, Robert and Donald Early. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. After a honeymoon in the north, Mr. and Mrs. Mustard will live in Toronto. The bride is a graduate of Branksome Hall and the School of Nursing of Wellesley Hospital. The groom is in his final year of the electrical engineering course at the University of Toronto.

Guy Wilson presided at the organ, and before and during the service Miss Trinka Tuinema of Inglewood sang "The Lord's Prayer," and "Because."

Mr. Bert van Vliet gave his daughter in marriage. Her graceful gown was of white nylon sheer over taffeta with long tapered sleeves, and she wore a tiny nylon bonnet with finger-tip veil and carried a cascade of rosebuds and pom-poms. Her attendants, Miss Agnes van Vliet as maid of honour, and Miss Betty Ciggar, bridesmaid were frocked in yellow and turquoise taffeta in similar styles and carried bronze pom-poms and roses. Mr. Neil van Vliet was groomsmen and the ushers were Mr. Dick van Vliet and Mr. Jacob Krijger. The reception was held in the basement of the church. American Priest Conducts Mission At Holy Cross

The mission held recently in Holy Cross Church was marked by large attendances at all the services during the week. The mission was conducted by Rev. Fr. Connell, Pastoral Father from West Springfield, Connecticut, with the assistance of Fr. Campa of the Franciscan Order, Fr. James Ford of Hespeler, Fr. Callahan of Rockwood, the pastor, Fr. V. J. Morgan and his nephew, Fr. Francis Morgan of Kitchener.

Fr. Connell had to leave before the end of the week to start a two-week mission in a Hamilton parish and his mission here was closed by Fr. Celestine of Pittsburgh who has recently succeeded Fr. Connell at the monastery in Toronto.

During the week morning masses were held at 5.45 and 7.45 and evening devotions at 7.30. Fr. Connell dealt with the doctrines of the Roman Catholic church, pointing out moral obligations, man's duty to God, to himself and his neighbour. Special instruction was given to the children in the afternoons. The church was beautifully decorated for the mission and the previous week new pews were installed in the gallery, completing a renovation which gives increased seating capacity.
