What Council Did

ON MONDAY, OCTOBER 2nd
Gave a $200 bonus to Bob Lane on this year's garbage contract. (Moved by Hale and Hill.)
Mr. Lane appeared before council to say he was losing money on the contract due to rising costs and more garbage to pick up. Council was sympathetic and Mayor Cleave suggested a bonus to compensate Mr. Lane for additional work. Cr. Hale, thought grass, weeds, and corn stalks should not be picked up as garbage. Cr. McGillivray thought the contrary, saying people would dump them somewhere themselves if they weren't picked up. The mayor defined garbage as something which won't burn. Reeve Marshall's opinion was that the garbage-by-law should be made more strict and enforced.

Advised a number of applicants for farm land tax exemption that it would be necessary to file the application in writing between December 1st and 14th.

Will ask legal advice on a request by Miss Isabel Moore for relief from what she claimed was an excessive sewerage taxation on the Moore farm on the highway. The Misses Moore pay a total of $672 in taxes of which $182 is for sewerage tax which is based on frontage.

Mayor Cleave said he had been mayor when sewerage was first contemplated and council had been advised by the Department to use sewerage rental as a tax basis. A later council had seen fit to use frontage as the basis.

Mrs. A. C. Collins asked that Ontario Street be gravelled and John McDonald complained that overgrown brush made the road hazardous. The road committee promised to look into both matters.

Heard a report from Cliff Boutele, superintendent of Alliance Paper-Mill about progress to date in investigating a means of disposing of mill waste. An engineer had been hired to make a survey and was expected to begin work on October 4th.

Will reimburse the baseball club for $50 paid for rolling the diamond. (Moved by McDonald and Marshall.)

Fire Chief Harry Savings said that in view of a contemplated water main extension along Ewing Street, the brigade recommended a hydrant at the corner of Ewing and Arletta Street.

Received tentative approval from the Municipal Board for a $190,000 expenditure for a new public school. This allows the school board to proceed with sketch plans and tender calls.

Will put in a water main to service the new S. W. Orr home which is being built at the south end of Market Street. (Moved by Marshall and Petch)

Mr. Orr, in a letter, said he expected two or three more houses would be built along Market Street by next summer. The new service will extend about 600 ft. and will cost about $1200. Mayor Cleave remarked that he didn't know where the money would come from. Expansion this year and was beyond anything anticipated at the first of the year, and council had to keep up with it, he said.

Will put a street light at the corner of Valleyview Road and Charles Street. (Moved by Lyons and Hale.)

Gave third reading and passed the new parking by-law, consolidating existing parking regulations, and establishing angle parking on one side of Main Street and parallel on the other.

Asked the clerk to get legal advice as to how overnight parking on streets in the winter can be prohibited and if tenants can be made responsible for removing snow from the streets.

Passed a by-law providing for the removal of a tree on Chapel Street in front of the W. C. Cunningham residence. Mr. Cunningham will be given ten days notice and is entitled to recompense for his trouble if he planted or protected it.

Left with the road committee the question of putting in a sidewalk along the highway from Kay's Grocery to Norwandy Blvd. Up to the contractor who took the contract has been unable to obtain Granted Georgetown Recreation Commission permission to hold a mile of pennies on Saturday, October 14th.

Discussed changing election date to provide less time between nomination and elections. At present the by-law calls for nomination the last Friday in November and election the second Monday in December. Mayor Cleave said he didn't think the public liked the long period in between last year and suggested shortening the time by a week. The clerk was instructed to change the by-law if it could be done.

Increased the pay of hourly town employees by an additional 2c an hour, retroactive to September 1st.

(Moved by Hill and McGillivray, Tuck and Hale voted against).
Reeve Marshall suggested thought be given to establishing a basic wage so that new men taken on or hired for a short time would not receive the same wage as older employees. He also thought there wasn't enough spread between the foreman and the other men.

It isn't exactly "new" to the employees of Provincial Paper, Ltd. but for some time we have been hoping to reprint a series of pictures which appeared in an issue of the company magazine "Provincial Paper" several months ago. The pictures were unavailable at the time but were recently received from public relations director Lee Trenholm and they appear on page 8 of this issue.

The coating machine seen above is not a part of the laboratory but without it there would be no need for a lab. One of two mammoth machines in the local plant, uncoated raw stock is fed by automatic winders. After rollers apply the coating, the sheet runs upward past a machine-wide air "brush" jetting from a slit in a coupling pipe (centre). This pneumatically spreads, levels and smooths the coat. Thence a perforated suction apron (upper centre) lifts the sheet onto a conveyor that speeds it through a 300-foot drying chamber.

The new $50,000 laboratory serves not only the local mill but also Thorold, Millie Roches and Port Arthur. It is ultra modern in every respect and is forever striving to refine papers already fine and to develop new sheets to meet new demands of the printing and publishing industries.
