WE'VE ALWAYS heard weird and wonderful tales about that time-honoured Scottish dish — Haggis . . . but never had an opportunity to try it. That is, until last Friday night when we attended a social evening held by the Lorne Scots Officers in Brampton Armouries. There was the Haggis, all sewn up in its traditional casing, carried aloft hot and steaming. It was broken open, and we tasted thereof, and much to our surprise, we must confess, we liked it.

All in all, we were treated to a liberal dose of Scottish tradition that evening. We danced, but not to an ordinary orchestra. There were three highland pipers supplying the music and two couples instructed the crowd in the intricacies of various Scottish dances. It was fun, the reels resembling our square dances somewhat (or rather, we were told our square dances are a very watered-down version of the Scottish dances. If you've ever tried to do one, you must admit they are very energetic. We would judge that to spend a whole evening doing Scottish reels would take a bit of practice . . .

We understand that the learning of the Scottish dances is an innovation for the Lorne Scots Mess parties and they intend to keep on with their instruction until they learn how to dance them skilfully. It will be a sight worth seeing when a party of a hundred or so join in doing the rhythmic steps . . .

Catching our breath from the dancing for a half hour or so, we played bingo, and Mrs. Frank Benner was lucky enough to win a turkey for having the grand finale "full house".

THE HARD UGLY fact that many Canadian boys including several from town, are already on their way to fight in another war, was born forcibly upon us that night, when his fellow officers said "Alo Revoir" to Grant Mimms, who started on the first lap of his journey to Korea on Sunday. Grant and his English wife, Barbara, have been living at Port Credit. Many of you will remember Grant, son of Mrs. H. R. Mimms, who lived in town until his teens, when the family moved to Toronto.

Chatting with him for a few moments, we learned that Beth and her husband are living in North Carolina, where her husband, William Stephens is a professor. He was once a member of the local school staff here in Georgetown . . . Another sister, Dorothy and two children are visiting with Beth just now, and upon their return will live in Branford, where her husband has taken a new position. Mrs. Mimms is still living in Toronto . . .

WE DIDN'T TAKE the small fry down to the big Santa Claus parade this year, so to make up for it, braved the crowds Saturday afternoon, and "did" Toyland. The way we felt when we got home, we're not sure but that Toyland "did" us. As one might expect, there were hordes of people, but the all-important messages were safely delivered to "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas" and the crowds didn't dampen the children's enthusiasm a whit . . .

There were lots of things to watch as we waited in the line-ups outside all the Toyland "concessions" . . . Parents reassuring the timid tinier tots . . . shining eyes and flushed cheeks of the excited more confident ones . . . people somewhere always looking for a lost hat or mitten . . . older brother or sister trying to cope with a suddenly balky younger one in a line-up, with parents left to look on helplessly from the other side of a roped-in area . . . the wailing of a frightened child being escorted to the "lost and found" department . . . the cheeky youngster on the Toyland Express thumping his nose to pals watching the miniature train toot by . . . the sudden stab of irritation brought on by a hurried push, and the pleasure kindled by a courteous act . . . everywhere noise and excitement . . . Golly, what a kaleidoscopic conglomeration! . . . But the kids said it was fun, so we guess it was . . .

Walking down Yonge Street afterwards, we got a whiff of some beautiful perfume, and turning to remark on it, discovered that all along the block, atomizers had been placed above the large show windows, which dispensed a continuous stream of expensive perfume to the four winds. That's really making atmosphere, isn't it?

BRINGING THE subject closer to home again — while shopping in a local store recently we were admiring some lovely costume jewellery, and were quite surprised to learn that it was being made here in Georgetown. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cummins, King Street, started the hobby of making costume jewellery about four months ago, and it has become quite a profitable one. At least Bill envisions it becoming quite profitable one day they build a plant all the profit from the sale of their jewellery has been turned back into buying stock. Mr. and Mrs. Cummins do not make the metal part of the brooches, earrings, pendants, etc. These are bought, and then the Cummins set the stones. Thus all their designs are original, and we might add, very beautiful. . . . You may recall that some months ago we told you about Bill and his wife arriving back in Canada, after his recovery from very serious burns suffered in an explosion in the lab of an oil plant in Arabia. He is now in the 14b of Alliance Paper Mills Ltd. and they live in Mrs. Florence Curtis' apartment on King Street . . .

NEW TENANTS for Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hamilton's apartment on Arletta Street are Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Brown. Mrs. Brown, a bride of this fall, was Barbara Needham of Norval before her marriage, a member of the Post Office staff, and her husband is employed at Smith & Stone Ltd. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Vince Jones have moved from their apartment at Berwick Hall, to the recently remodelled apartment in the house of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Benham on Market Street. Mr. and Mrs. Norman McDonald, who were married last Saturday, will live in the Berwick Hall apartment formerly occupied by the Jones . . .

And speaking of moving, we correct an error in last week's column. Mr. and Mrs. Wilf Mino have reited; rather than sold, their former home on King Street . . .

Working in Toronto now, is Miss Kathy Thompson, formerly on the switchboard at Alliance Paper Mills Ltd. Kathy is living with her mother in the city . . .

And Brock Bradley, who was with the Royal Bank staff, has changed his position, and is now with Triplett Instruments of Canada . . .

A WEEK AGO Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Malcolm and children Gail and Douglas moved into their attractive new home on Maple Avenue. On the same day, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Crichton and young son moved into their newly purchased home on Riverview Crescent, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm . . .

We welcome home Mrs. Ken Meers this week, back from a ten week visit in Leicester, England, with her mother, Mrs. Griswell. She returned on the S.S. Britannic, which docked at New York . . .

Busy Year Reported For Junior Auxiliary

St. John's Junior Auxiliary held their annual meeting last week at the home of their superintendent, Mrs. Mary Bailly. The secretary's report showed 8 members, 33 meetings held, average attendance, 62, 8 hymns were learned during the year, 3 verses of Scripture for roll call. The members took turns to choose the hymn and to conduct the prayer service which is used at every meeting. A story, or mission study followed. At the busy period scrap books were made and sewing. In June a parcel was sent to Winnipeg Flood Relief with 1 cot quilt and a baby's layette, and used clothing to make a complete baby's outfit. To the Dorcas room in Hamilton went 3 baby's outfits, 3 cot quilts, scrap books, coloring books, crayons, etc. The officers for 1951 are — Secretaries, Betty Humphreys and Jean Corley; Treasurers—Susan Canham, Ruby Tennant; Dorcas, Ann Humphreys, Doris Pickett; In charge of service books, and Study Books, Vera Pickett; Page, Mary Lawson; Rev. J. E. Maxwell who was present with Mrs. Maxwell, commended the branch on its activities and the results. Refreshments were served. We are sorry to know that Mrs.
