THE TROUT fishing officially opened on Saturday, and judging from the number of enthusiasts which the sport claims from town, there will be an equal number of "fishing widows" at home for the next few months. Nice compensation for hubby's absence, if the lady of the house happens to like fish, is the catch he brings home. A fresh-caught speckled trout pan-fried crispy-brown, ranks on a par with any gourmet's delicacy.

THE RESULTS OF THE Toronto Star's "Know Ontario" contest published last Friday revealed that three Georgetonians were winners. Although their prize-money is quite a sharp drop from the $10,000 awarded for first prize, it does not represent a corresponding drop in accuracy. From a possible 66, Miss Shirley Wright scored 60 correct answers, to win $5.00, while Douglas Sargent and William Thompson each won $3.00 with a score of 59 correct. To be in the money at all required a lot of brain cudgeling and we congratulate the winners. If our memory serves us rightly, Doug Sargent was also a winner in the last contest sponsored by the Star.

IT'S ONLY FAIR that we should "plug" the other Toronto evening daily - the Telegram, now, so that we won't appear to play favourites. Perhaps you read the article recently appearing therein, concerning Cooksville. It was one of a series of write-ups on small towns in the vicinity of Toronto by Dorothy Howarth, which we found very interesting. In telling about Cooksville's industries, she mentions the village's ceramic industry, Industrial Ceramics, Ltd. The founder and owner of the business is Howard Lawrence, who for several years was an electrical engineer on the staff of Smith and Stone Ltd. According to Miss Howarth's article, Mr. Lawrence started with the shell of a burned-out building in 1946, and with three employees started to manufacture hotel china, soup bowls, etc. A year ago, the plant, now employing fourteen, switched its production line entirely to industrial ceramics, in which they do a thriving business.

MEANT TO get round to mentioning it before this doubtless all our women readers received a very handy little Bank of Commerce booklet through the mail, several weeks ago. Hope you read it, if like most of us, you are a little hazy on correct banking procedure in all situations. As the booklet says, "It's simple when you know how!" Intended as a reference book especially for women bank customers, it should make a valuable source of information, to keep either in your purse or on your desk.

ON TUESDAY evening, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Farnell and Mr. and Mrs. James F. Evans attended a ceremony in Trinity United Church, Toronto, when Rev. R. C. Todd of Niagara Falls received his Bachelor of Divinity degree. Mr. Todd, who was the former pastor of St. John's Church here, was presented with the hood representing his B.D. degree, by St. John's Choir, before leaving for his new pastorate in Niagara.

HAD A GLIMPSE through a Toronto monthly magazine, "Toronto Calling", and noted a picture of actress Elaine Wodson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wodson of Toronto. If you remember, we wrote a little bit about Miss Wodson several weeks ago, noting that during her career of 16 years in the English legitimate theatre, she had attained quite a measure of fame. Many people in town know Elaine from the time she used to summer in Georgetown with her parents. We remember particularly a St. George's Church Fair, in which she "starred" in the dramatic production held as the evening Garden Party performance.

The picture we mentioned earlier, depicts Elaine as Mrs. Wilton in "John Gabriel Borkman" at the Arts Theatre, London, England. With her is Lyndon Brook, son of actor Clive Brook, as Erhart Borkman. As a member of the Howard and Wyndham Repertory Company, just before the war Elaine was in and played important roles in Scandinavian and British plays. The "Toronto Calling" article concludes "So we are proud to claim her as Toronto's own, a superb artist who holds audiences in the hollow of her hand. . . Although she would be last to admit it, greatness. May the day not be long away when Elaine Wodson will play to Torontonians . . . to charm us as she has a good part of Europe."

A VISIT WITH her son and daughter in law Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly, will be Mrs. J. D. Kelly's destination, when she boards a plane at Malton on Thursday for Winnipeg, Manitoba.

THE JUNIOR W.A. of St. George's entertained mothers, grandmothers and interested friends, recently, when Archdeacon W. G. O. Thompson presented the little girls with the awards which they have earned. Third stripe and blue badge were presented to Jean Penrice, Carolyn Blehn, Gillian Chapman, Jean Engleby, Ruth Hancock and Claire Bradley. Linda Mino received her armband and 1st and 2nd stripes; Margaret Eason her armband and 1st stripe, Jean Engleby, Barbara May Allan and Carolyn Blehn received 2nd stripes, and armbands were also awarded to Colleen Sheppard and Katherine Sorenson. After the presentation ceremony, the girls served tea and cookies to their guests under the direction of their leader Mrs. Harold Hancock.

VERY LIKELY a good many of you have already seen the original play "Grandma's Family Album", by Knox Church Young Ladies' Association. The first two performances we regretted missing very much, but at that time the flu was keeping the family pretty well house-bound. But we did finally succeed in seeing it last Wednesday night at St. George's when the Daughters of the Church sponsored the play. And we wouldn't have missed it for anything! It was well worth seeing. Mrs. Harold Hutchinson as "Grandma", whose reminiscing thru her album brings to life again friends of her youth, complete in the costume of their day, took her part perfectly. The costumes were all so good and the little skits and songs so well done, we'd like to describe them all if space permitted. Just to give you a little idea, however, of the play and its atmosphere. Mrs. Ross Duncan as the operatic soprano (singing to a phonograph background) had everyone literally in stitches as she exaggerated the frantic antics of an old-time coloratura. Many a famous comedian would envy her the laughs she evoked. Mrs. Sam Mackenzie appeared several times but we liked her best in the black saten bathing costume with polka-dot bathing hat and black stockings, so coy and modest! Then there was the "baby" whose disguise was so good we never did discover her identity, acting up naughtily in an old-fashioned wicker baby carriage which sported a little green umbrella-afair on top to shield baby from the sun. There were clever duets, quartettes and recitations, costumed impersonations, all excellent. On second thought we'd better stop right here. If th group should put on their play again we don't want to spoil it for those who have not yet seen it. Just shows what local talent can accomplish!

FARM NEWS

Tractor Maintenance Club Sponsored by Fair Board

The first meeting of the 1951 Halton Tractor Maintenance Club was held in the Municipal Building, Georgetown on Friday evening of last week. Ralph Gregg of the Extension Service of the Agricultural Engineering Dept. at the OAC assisted Agricultural Representative J. E. Whitelock in the organization of the Club. Eighteen junior farmers between the ages of 14 and 20 years, signed up as members of this project sponsored by the Esqueping Agricultural Society. An excellent lecture on tractor management was presented by Mr. Gregg. One of the older farmers present commented at the conclusion of the meeting, "this programme was well worth the while of any tractor operator, irrespective of age." The election of officers resulted as follows: President - Stuart Alexander, Vice President - Mitchell Hunter, Sec'y.-Treasurer - Barry Archer, Leader - Don Milton.

LIMEHOUSE

EUCHRE AND DANCE BALL SEASON START

A large attendance and a jolly atmosphere which featured the Limehouse Ball Club's euchre and dance held in the Memorial Hall on the 24th augurs well for another successful season.

Mrs. Cecil Hardie and Mrs. A. S. Wilson, respectively, won the first and second ladies' prizes, while Joe Scott and Fred Cox tied in the men's section, Joe taking first on the draw. The door prize was won by Garnet Sinclair.

The players took advantage of the warm week-end to engage in a preliminary warm-up, and this year the team should get off on the right foot when the league season opens.

Another sixteen sweaters have been ordered, and added to the sixteen already on hand, should put enough senior and junior players on parade to make Limehouse look like a big league training camp.
