School Lunches Studied
Right Off Plate in School

What children actually eat—not just the menu for the day—determines the real nutritive value of their school lunch. This viewpoint has prompted nutritionists of the U. S. department of agriculture to make a study of school lunches right off the plate in two Maryland schools.

Twenty-eight lunches served at two seasons were the basis of this study by Dr. Millicent Hathaway and Dr. Frieda Meyer of the bureau of human nutrition and home economics. They are now analyzing chemically those meals served to children in the third to sixth grade, and have thus far checked up on three important vitamins.

Judging from the meals analyzed, vitamin C is low in many school lunches, except on days when orange juice is served. Including citrus fruit juice in the noon meal is a simple and effective way of assuring that the school child will get sufficient vitamin C, the nutritionists advise.

The B vitamin, thiamine, is probably the nutrient most often low in school lunches, they observe. Only one of the 28 lunches provided one-third of the day's needs of this vitamin as recommended for 12-year-olds by the national research council. Ten lunches provided enough thiamine for eight-year-old children. Peanut butter, dried beans, split pea soup and similar foods are good sources of this vitamin.

The lunches provided amply for the B vitamin riboflavin. Milk is credited with giving important aid in this respect. The nutritionists comment that it is well for school lunches to supply liberal amounts of riboflavin, since many youngsters get little milk at home.

Artificial Ponds on Farms
Yield New, Valuable Crop

Farmers in the United States are raising a new crop, along with the traditional corn and wheat. That crop is fish.

According to the 1948 printing of the Encyclopedia Britannica, thousands of farmers are engaging in fish culture at the present time in their own once-dry pastures.

A lakeside location is not necessary to fish culture. Artificial ponds have been constructed on tens of thousands of farms since 1940. Britannica reveals, statistics ranging from one-half acre to several acres in size, are stocked with large mouth bass and sunfish fingerlings in a ratio of 100 bass to 1,000 or 1,500 sunfish per acre. The ponds are then fertilized to produce natural food and may yield 200 to 300 pounds of fish per year.

Stocking these ponds with young fish is a job undertaken by federal and state fish hatcheries, operating at capacity to fill the increasing demand. Statistics in Britannica show several hundred hatcheries in active operation.

Empty Cotton Bags

Ingenious use has been made of empty cotton feed and flour bags by some home sewers. One woman in Memphis, Tenn., redecorated her whole house with bag fabric, using the empty bags to make curtains, slip covers, and tablecloths. Many home sewers report that they have outfitted their entire families in cotton bag garments. In 1947 approximately 750 million yards of cotton fabric was used in making bags. Had all this material been re-used by home sewers, there would have been fabric enough for more than 214 million dresses!

Every Bird Is Different

No two birds are exactly alike in appearance. They differ in size, in color, and in pattern. Sometimes even in a casual acquaintance with the birds on the lawn, there will be a few one can recognize individually, an especially bright bluejay, a robin with an unusually red breast, or a yellow warbler with extra-heavy chestnut breast markings. But even the sparrows that look exactly alike to a casual glance will, on closer study, turn out to be recognizable as individuals.

'Lowering' High Ceilings

When a room seems too high ceiled, carry ceiling color downward to the tops of the windows. This will help to "lower" the ceiling, especially if a darker tint than ordinarily is used for ceilings is used. Another way is to graduate the tinting of the wall by painting the lower third a dark color, the next third a lighter and the upper third of the wall an extremely light tint of the same color, with a narrow molding, or a thin line of metallic or bright colored paint for contrast, at the ceiling line.

Save Cabbage Leaves

There are saving ways to use outer leaves of cabbage that so often get thrown away. They can be saved and even used in cooked cabbage dishes or cole slaw if you treat them right. Just trim away any spotted or bruised places, sprinkle with water and crisp in the hydrator or other covered pan in the refrigerator. Remember that cabbage contains a high amount of vitamin C.

Musicians Wed at St. George's Study in New York this summer

The marriage of Miss Margaret Bradley to Mr. Bruce Harding was a delightful and solemn event witnessed by a full church at St. George's on Saturday afternoon. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of beige French crepe with large beige taffeta hat and carried pink sweetheart roses.

The ceremony, which was fully choral, was performed by Venerable Archdeacon W. G. O. Thompson. The anthem "O Lord Most Holy" by Cesar Frank was beautifully sung in obligato by the choir, Mr. Thomas Warnes taking the solo in his usual magnificent voice. The bride's mother, who is organist at St. George's, played the wedding music.

There were large numbers of musicians from Toronto present for the occasion, including Mr. B. Hayunga Carman, with whom both bride and groom have studied for several years. It was indeed a joyous occasion shared by hosts of friends in and out of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding left for a short honeymoon, following which they will begin special musical studies at the Studio of Miss Ethel Newcomb, world-famed pianist and teacher of Vienna and New York. On their return in the early autumn, they will reside in Georgetown.

Williams-Curtis Wedding Is Saturday Event

On Saturday, June 30th, at the home of Rev. John M. Smith, Mr. Smith officiated at the marriage ceremony of Teresa Ann Curtis and David Parlee Williams. The bride, a former member of the Post Office staff, is the daughter of Mrs. Florence Curtis and the late James E. Curtis, and the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Williams.

The bride wore white nylon tulle with white accessories, and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis and fleur d'amaris. Attending her was her sister, Mrs. Walker Cleave, wearing pink crepe with white accessories and a corsage of Happy Day roses. Mr. Gordon Boudy, Toronto, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man.

A family reception was held afterwards at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Curtis received, wearing amethyst crepe and a corsage of variegated sweet peas and blue cornflowers. Mrs. Williams wore navy nylon sheer and a corsage of pink delight roses.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Muskoka, the bride wore a grey suit with white accessories. They will live in Georgetown, where the groom is employed with Georgetown Plumbing & Heating.

TEACHERS SOCIAL HOUR
MARKS SCHOOL CLOSING

On Thursday afternoon from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., the members of the staff enjoyed a social hour over a cup of tea. Those who provided the delicious refreshments were Miss Beatrice Hume, Mrs. James Evans, and Mrs. Joseph Dwyer. Tea was poured by Mrs. H. C. Wigglesworth. Conversation revealed that several teachers were planning motor vacation trips. Others have enrolled in summer courses. More fortunate will be found at their lakeside cottages. A few will be loyal to the home town during July and August. We are pleased to learn that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Warnes are planning a motor trip to South Porcupine towards the middle of July where they will visit his brother, Mr. Eric Warnes.

Attendance for the year has been good. In the month of June Miss Laura Scott's Grade 3 had 98.51 per cent. Best attendance for the year was recorded in Miss Norma Wetherhead's Grade 5 with 95.28 per cent and Grade 6 a close second with 95.26 per cent.

The Health Troopers, a Junior Red Cross group of Grade 6, packed a box of articles for children in a war-torn land. It contained various student supplies and many health helps.

Congratulations to Terry Harley of Grade 7 and Ross McGillivray of Grade 8 who won first and second prizes respectively in the essay contest sponsored by the Canadian Legion Branch 120. Awards of $15 and $10 come just in time for summer vacation.

It is hoped that each and every child will have a healthful and a happy holiday, and that the vacation will carry no news of tragedy in its wake.

Next Thursday will see the celebration of the Twelfth of July in Georgetown for the first time in over twenty years. A large crowd is expected.

ed and plans be worked out for pre-employment x-rays. He explained that TB is an infectious disease and not hereditary, and that all food handlers should be x-rayed periodically.

Order Compulsory X-Rays
For School Employees

Several classes of people are required to have chest x-rays by October 31st this year, it was learned at a recent meeting of Halton Tuberculosis and Health association. These include school teachers, office employees, maintenance men and bus drivers connected with schools. The cost of this will be borne by the association, but the responsibility for having it done rests with the various school boards in the county.

Dr. H. Stevens, Oakville, presided at the meeting which was held at the Milton Inn. E. J. O'Brien, executive secretary of the Ontario Tuberculosis Association, explained in detail the work that could be carried out by committees in rehabilitation, case finding and education.

Dr. S. A. Holling, secretary of the TB division of the Ontario Medical Advisory committee was also present. He suggested that all industries in the county be approached and plans be worked out for pre-employment x-rays. He explained that TB is an infectious disease and not hereditary, and that all food handlers should be x-rayed periodically.

Dr. J. M. Mather, Halton MOH, advised the meeting that Dr. J. W. McCutcheon, Milton, has been appointed to the medical advisory committee by Halton Medical Society.

Dr. Mather reported that there were 147 cases registered in Halton at the end of the year and 27 new cases had been found during the year. Four cases of active tuberculosis were discovered in one Halton family within the last six weeks.

Treasurer Stan Otton, Oakville, reported that $3853 was transferred from the Christmas Seal fund of Oakville Lions Club to the new organization. Oakville Lions have promoted this work for several years until the formation of the new association.
