Tom Gard's Note Book

New bunk beds in the children's rooms at the cottage - presented a mattress problem. After much shopping in second-hand stores and at auctions, four of the right size were finally rounded up. We undertook to cover them with some faded chintz drapes put into discard after our decorating spree this spring. With the whole family working at it, the job was soon done. Now the surface of the mattresses can be kept fresh and clean - and the children can graduate from army cots.

It was a request for a new pin box after the cardboard one finally collapsed that reminded me I was out of shaving soap. What's the connection between pins and shaving soap? That empty soap tub would be just the thing to hold common pins. Right in the midst of the mattress-covering bee I took time off to clean it up and decorate the top with a few pine cones to serve as a handle. Junior suggested it would make a good penny bank - it might at that!

Does the lawnmower ever get in the way of the automobile when you drive into the garage? Does it take up too much room in the basement? Shown is a little idea I've found most useful to keep it right in place - a couple of inches above the floor. Be sure to nail the cleats securely so as to carry the weight.

Save That Garden Hose
Every year I vow something will be done to preserve the rubber garden hose. It gets more wear and tear being coiled and uncoiled and rots more from the sun and undrained water than from actual use. The idea I am eventually going to use is not original but it will be effective. Two pulleys will be placed under the eaves on the north side of the house. A rope attachment will accommodate a 20-foot length on each quite handily and then the hose will be dry and up out of the way when not in constant use.

NEW BOOKLET
You'll find more information on these and many other interesting ideas in the booklet "Around the Home Again", just published. Write for your copy to Tom Gard, c/o MOLSON'S (ONTARIO) LIMITED, P.O. Box 499, Adelaide St. Station, Toronto.
