NEW BOOKS AT THE LIBRARY

SHOULD I RETIRE?

by George S. Preston, M.D.
121 pp.

Dr. Preston has already established a reputation for his ability to write, authoritatively, yet simply and interestingly about psychiatry. In his latest book, he deals not only with the problems of retirement but with the necessity of making adequate preparation for it. The emphasis should be not so much on what a person is retiring from but more on what he is retiring to. He gives many examples of both successful and disappointed case histories of retirements and discusses the root causes and problems of each.

A few chapter headings will perhaps suggest more of the problems discussed: Why do some of us overwork?; What about retired Women?; Single People?; What Kind of Body will I take into Retirement?; What about Money?

This should prove a stimulating book to all adult readers and has the merit of being both practical and readable.

VILLAGE LIFE

by Norman Wymer, pp. 187

This is the kind of book that at first sight might appear to be heavy going. It takes English village life from prehistoric through mediaeval times to the present day.

As a matter of fact it turns out to be a fascinating collection of stories, anecdotes, and old customs that often survive or are being revived. The reading of even a few pages will explain why this became one of the best sellers in 1951.

Mr. Wymer takes us into out of the way hamlets, where old crafts, native to the district, still survive. Besides the commoner crafts of wheelwright, ironsmith, cabinet maker, thatcher and such, he describes such occupations as rush-workers making their mats, baskets, and rugs, horsehair workers sorting all types of hair into lengths and colour groups to make upholstery for furniture, wigs for lawyers and theatres, whips, fishing lines and sporrans. Besides village crafts the book deals with village festivals, entertainments, superstitions and cooking among other topics. There are four colour plates and a large number of black and white photographs and reproductions of old prints.

THE PAPER PALACE

by Robert Harting
(A Book Society Choice)

This is a novel of the newspaper world that satirizes the unethical methods used to build up a modern big newspaper that deals in sensationalism.

City editor Wensley was curious as to how the Baron got his first $10,000 that turned him from a mediocre struggling reporter into the founder of a press that ballooned into Big Business and a title. He could find no clue until the Baron wanted an obituary on a dead Communist intellectual. So he put one of his ace columnists on a secret assignment to uncover the past connection if any, between the Baron and the dead man. The assignment

MACKENZIE NEWS

Cheer up — if you live through March you'll probably manage to live the rest of the year.

The newest and cheapest form of automatic heat is a Herco conversion unit on your present furnace. By filling up a hopper once a week and taking away two or three ash cans per week you will have a furnace that will do everything that oil will and at half the cost of operation. The cost of the conversion unit is $325.00 without installation. Herco also make warm air and hot air furnaces which we can show you in operation in our Georgetown and Acton mills. These burn Buckwheat Anthracite which is the cheapest and most plentiful, domestic fuel on the market. Come in and see our furnace in operation and see the new method of coal burning. See you at the Hockey games. J. B. MACKENZIE & SON
Lumber Coal
Building Supplies

leads the columnist into many queer and dangerous situations and introduces the wistful blonde who had acted as the intellectual's secretary. It all ends up very sadly for the columnist when he finally does uncover a very nasty bit of ancient scandal.

MOULDED IN EARTH

by Richard Vaughan

This is a novel about the Welsh hill farmers of forty or fifty years ago. The characters stand out vividly against the background of a disintegrating community and an old mountain feud that nothing but the tragic shedding of blood can quench.

Edwin Peale tells the story of his love for Gretta Ellis, the daughter of the enemy's house. During autumn and winter their love ripens in secret and stolen meetings. Finally they announce their love openly and the vicar publishes their banns. Both families are bitterly opposed and violence flares up. Parts of the book are sheer poetry rather than novel writing but Mr. Vaughan has succeeded admirably in presenting a deeply moving romance against a sombre mountain background.

JUVENILE FICTION

In response to the demand for juvenile books, the Board has placed some fifty-two new books in the junior section of the library during the past two weeks. These include all the L. M. Montgomery books in a reprint edition as well as many adventure and animal stories for both girls and boys.

Some of the titles just added are:

WAS SEED HOUSE CNR EMPLOYEE

Death came to William R. Chaplin at St. Joseph's Hospital, Guelph last Wednesday after a four month illness. Mr. Chaplin had been in hospital since last October, except for a week at home at New Year's. He was 72.

He was born in Essex County, England, where he farmed before coming to Canada in 1913. He farmed in Selgrove district, then lived at Cheltenham and Terra Cotta where he worked in the quarries and brick yards. He moved to Georgetown thirty years ago, and was employed for several years with the Canadian National Railways and the old Toronto Suburban Railway. Until two years ago he was employed at the Dominion Seed House.

Since the death of his wife, Florence M. Wright, in 1934, Mr. Chaplin had made his home with his son, George. He is survived by four children, Percy, Violet (Mrs. Bruce Bridgen), George and William, ten grandchildren and one great-grandchild. A sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Dodds and two brothers, Charles and Herbert live in Essex County, England.

Archdeacon W. G. O. Thompson conducted the funeral service on Saturday at the McClure Funeral Home. Pallbearers were Thomas Warnes, Herb Hughes, Mike Lorusso, George Alcott, Marshall Timbers and Walter Louth. Interment was made in Greenwood Cemetery, Georgetown.
