MOODIE PONIES

Since he has to buy oats and hay it's doubtful if the pony-raising hobby is as profitable as Mrs. Moodie told the Georgetown Herald. But it's a hobby that neither of her two girls would think of giving up.

Ponies are temperamental creatures, Mrs. Moodie states, and require careful handling. Even the most gentle specimen they ever had kicked someone in the shin one day because he didn't like the way their hair was parted. However, if well treated, ponies are just as safe around kiddies as the family dog.

Raised Six Children: Apart from raising ponies, Mr. and Mrs. Moodie found time to raise a large family and not content with that they've taken on two adopted children—twin boy and girl, Marion and Calvin, age two.

The Moodie family comprises Ronald, 31, Erin postmaster, Murray, 29, who operates his own Brampton bakery, Stuart, 27, inspector of blades at A. V. Roe, William, 25, and three girls—A. V. Roe, Bill, Jr., 15, the "Toby Boy"; Isabel, 13; Graeme, a hydro employee, who has been hospitalized for some time since falling out of a tree while working at Stewarttown; Ellen and Darlene, both Avro employees.

Bill Sr.'s brother, Bob Moodie of Schomberg, is also a horse enthusiast. His hobby is harness horses. Another brother Jack lives in Glen Williams.

The Moodies had their ponies at Georgetown Fair for several years and will return again this Saturday to provide amusement for the young people.

LIMEHOUSE

Acton, Limehouse Friends Fete Saturday Newlyweds

A pleasant evening was spent at Limehouse Memorial Hall Wednesday when Allan Ellerby and his bride-to-be were guests of honour at a miscellaneous shower. In opening a short program Mrs. Jack Roughley played for a sing-song and Nell Benton obliged with a piano solo. Mrs. Noble acting as chairman. After the couple were seated beneath a decorated arch Russell Miller read a short address and several young folks assisted in opening a number of useful and lovely gifts from friends in the community and from Acton Junior Farmers to which they belong. Allan made an appropriate reply expressing the thanks of himself and Olive. Following lunch Karn's Orchestra provided music for dancing.
