TOWN NAMED FOR THIS FARM'S OWNER

The August 20th Photo Quiz farm is one which is intimately associated with Georgetown's early history. The 57-acre plot pictured above on the northern side of the highway just out of town limits is now part of Harold Clave's farm. Originally, it was part of a large 1500-acre tract of land which was purchased by the Crown in the Kennedy family.

It passed from Charles Kennedy to his son, John, who in turn passed it to his son, George. The farm was sold to the late John McDonald in 1924. He built the present farm in 1931. Mr. McDonald left it to his daughter after his death in 1945.

The property passed through a number of hands after George Kennedy. Owners included William Cunningham, who now lives in town, the late James McKee and the late John McDonald, who bought it from the late John. Around 1924, he built the present farm in 1931. Mr. McDonald left it to his daughter after his death in 1945.

LARGE DAIRY SHOW FOR MILTON FAIR
When this news was being written on Friday evening, over 350 head of cattle had been entered for the Holstein, Jersey and Guernsey Shows at the Milton Fair on Saturday afternoon of this week. It would appear as if the Jersey and Guernsey shows will be well up to normal and the Black and White show may be the largest yet. The official judges are to be: Holsteins, Hardy Shore, Glanworth; Jerseys, Bert McGrath, Stouffville; Guernseys, Adam Calder, Glanford Station.
Some 52 Halton Calf Club members put on a preview at the Georgetown Fair a week ago, when the entire group gets out at Milton on Saturday it really should be an eye opener, not to suggest that the Georgetown effort was not worth the price of admission in itself. The young people will parade their calves in the respective rings at 12 noon. This will enable the club members to see something of the other features at the big county show. If you would like to see the young people in action, and who wouldn't we would advise you to have an early dinner and be on hand by noon.
