LEGION NOTES
WE WON'T apologize for the recent lack of Legion Notes, because everything has been very serene and there just hasn't been anything newsworthy happen (other than the Christmas Tree and the New Year's Eve party) which were both written up in the news columns of this paper.

THERE HAVE been a lot of comments about the new tables. Everyone seems to think that they add something to the looks of the room upstairs.

Quite a flattering article appeared in the Toronto Star about the Legion-sponsored "kid" hockey. It was written by that well-known Georgetown boy, Gord Alcott, now of Weston, the original promoter of organized kid hockey in Georgetown. We suspect he got the raw material for the article from Denny Wright, his brother-in-law and an active member of the Legion hockey committee. The article reads as follows:

KID HOCKEY WELL ORGANIZED
Gordon Alcott

An important hockey meeting took place last month in Weston. The first meeting of the little NHL — a hockey organization that has pledged itself to give organized hockey to every boy in his community within the age group of 8 to 13 years — was held. There were representatives from Wallaceburg, St. Catharines, Georgetown, Weston, Midland, New Toronto, Scarborough and Port Hope. These eight centres are operating leagues for some 2,000 young boys. Little NHL is spreading, and it is encouraging to see men giving up their time for the furtherance of kids' hockey in Ontario. Weston, for example, has 24 teams in its midget NHL, comprising some 250 boys. Georgetown was the first Ontario town to promote Little NHL away back in 1937, and they are carrying on in the same fine way with the Canadian Legion sponsoring and operating the Georgetown Little NHL.

In its second year of sponsorship, the Legion is looking after 150 boys of the ages 8 to 13 years in the Little NHL, a midget and a juvenile team. Last year, the Georgetown juveniles won the Ontario "C" championship.

The kids' teams are divided into three groups: Junior A, American league and NHL, with 14 teams represented in all. The Georgetown Legion does not stop with its own Georgetown boys, but has enlarged its league to embrace boys from the neighbouring towns of Norval, Limehouse, Stewarttown and Glen Williams.

All hockey uniforms and goal-keeping equipment are provided, and the Georgetown Memorial arena supplies free-ice time every Saturday morning for four hours. At the end of the playing season, crests are awarded to the winning teams and a banquet is thrown for all players and coaches.

Alf Sykes is the league president, with Legion president Les Clark giving his full support. The coaches are Legion personnel and include Dennis Wright, Herb Arnold, Bud James, Tom Beckett, Nels Robinson, Pat Patterson, Nick Garvin, Frank Connelly, Bill Collier, Gord King, Jack Kelley, Rocky Lorusso, Bill Latimer and George Sargent. Pat Patterson, referee-in-chief of the OHA, is also the chief referee of the Georgetown Little NHL.

And while we're on the subject, how about some of the chaps who are not working Saturday morning cropping down to give a hand at the arena. The boys are frightfully short-handed these days, and could sure use more help. (Also it would be a good boost for juvenile morale to see a few spectators out to these games). How about it fellows?

F.-O. Wilson Cited Queen's Honor List

A Georgetown airman, Flying Officer John P. Wilson was one of seven members of the Royal Canadian Air Force included in Queen Elizabeth's New Year's honours list. F.O. Wilson was given the Queen's commendation for valuable service in the air. The air force list brought to 21 the number of awards won by members of No. 428 Thunderbird Squadron since it began its Korean airlift operations July 27th, 1950. F.O. Wilson, whose mother, Mrs. Arthur R. Wilson lives on Victoria Street, left the Korean service last month to become assistant chief administration officer at Lachine RCAF Station, Quebec. Veteran of the second war, he spent two and a half years in a German prison camp. A Smith & Stone employee when he enlisted in January, 1941, he went overseas as a transport gunner in December, 1941, and was listed missing October 15th, 1942. He was commissioned an officer, he again enlisted in the air force, reverting in rank and working up to officer rank again. Two years after returning home,
