Signs of New School Beginning to Appear

The first work of laying out our new school (without a gymnasium) has begun. The architects have come and have been surveying and drawing plans of our new school and of the old one. We all hope that the Board of Education will quickly ratify the plans so that work can actually begin on it. There are bound to be a few snags but if everybody cooperates and works for the new school the sooner we will get it.

CADET NEWS & VIEWS

Ross McGillivray
There is great enthusiasm in the cadet corps this year with hope of winning top honors at the Inspection this spring. Last year Georgetown cadets placed second in their group in the whole of Ontario. Good numbers are turning out each night but there is still room for more. Two promotions over the Christmas holidays were Bob Tracey and Ross McGillivray to Corporals. Your demotion or promotion depends upon attendance, uniform and rifle firing. Rifle firing is Tuesday after 4:00 and after cadet parade and on Thursdays. Several cadets are trying for their crossed rifles and crown, which is worn on the uniform, for grouping, application and snap shooting. Last year's deadeye was Gerald Scott who received a crest for top marksmanship of 1952. Tests on the Bren, Sten and grenades were written this week and results will be published later.

TEACHERS PROMPT IN RETURNING PAPERS

Much to the surprise of the Middle School the exam papers written during the past two weeks were given back the next week. Some papers carried high marks to their owners and some carried low marks. The teachers here at GHS deserve a hand for the fine job they did translating certain students' handwriting into English with no extra charge.

CHOIR REPORT

Bev Hyde
Since Commencement will soon be here and also the festival the choir is supposed to begin some real hard work. So we expect, anyway. Double trios, quartettes, etc. are all beginning to take form and we hope to do quite well at both the Commencement and the Festival. Nothing much has happened for we have had only one class since before the exams. We hadn't lost any of our foolishness because of exams and we had, just as much fun as ever driving everyone mad.

Religion, Public Affairs Should be Closer: Bennett

"The present chaotic world situation is the result of our insistence on divorcing religion from public affairs," declared Miss Sybil Bennett, Q.C. in a stirring address delivered to the Women's Missionary Society of St. John's United Church in the church hall on Tuesday. Miss Bennett's subject was her observations of the church groups, in and outside the United Church, as she had encountered these in two trips across Canada from coast to coast. In her mind, she said, had been the question: "What is the relation of the people in various Canadian communities to their churches, and to religion in general?" She

After the results of the Christmas exams were announced many students were prophesying that unless they got better marks "next time" there would be one less in school. In the Middle School the students have just written their first formal set of exams and they are the first of a number of hurdles that have to be jumped. If you can manage the first hurdle you're ready for the second but if you didn't quite make the grade don't consider yourself a failure. The grass may look greener on the other side of the hill but if you have enough stamina and gumption you can make something of your school career. Don't forget that you came this far and why give in when you are almost there. Many students have not worked too hard up to now but after the first exams they realize that they have to settle down to work or fail. You may think that it's too hard to get down and study but if you make a little time each night for it, you can be as bright as the livewire. GHS has only one black eye and that is the deplorable amount of students who leave school. Don't ever become discouraged because you can't get ahead, the thinking that your going backwards. Realize now that you've got an important job to accomplish and you will be a lot better off next June.

Remember... there is no royal road to learning and if you've got enough intestinal fortitude to stick to it you can make a name for yourself and your school.

Two Different Ways Of Breaking the News

There are two different ways in which once glad students were notified of their results of exams. It seems that the teachers don't like to break our hearts in announcing the results to the class and so they hand you your paper like it was a secret document. On the other hand the big burly men teachers think that we are all of hardy stock and so they in a loud voice call out the marks amid red faces and screams of delight. Both methods have merits because the way of announcing the results in class makes the less fortunate want to get down and beat the next guy whereas the system of handing out the papers separately does not tend to make the lower mark students sink through the floor.

The next time that you see a Grade XI student you will notice that he looks shocked — well that is just the "aftermath."

The Lively Corpse

Lesna Cean

It was a great shock to Lucy Barnhart when she found the dead body of Christopher Stevens in her apartment. She stifled back a scream, then she hurried out of the apartment towards a pay phone. She said "Give me police headquarters, please." About two minutes later she met two detectives in the lobby and hurried them to her apartment. Another shock was in store for Lucy. Christopher Stevens' body was no longer there.

As Michael walked into his house he whistled to himself a merry little tune which ended abruptly in the middle of the fourth bar. With wide eyes he showed his surprise at what he saw. Sitting in the chair by the fireplace was Christopher Stevens. He was quite dead! Michael hurried towards the den and phoned the police. He greeted them with a cold look and showed them into the room where the body was. Well, it had been there, but it wasn't anymore.

Richard Greenwood stepped out of the shower and grabbed a towel from the rack. Then he walked into his bedroom. Reaching into the closet for his robe he felt something cold touch his hand. With fright he stepped back just in time to let Christopher Stevens' body fall flat on its face.

After phoning the police he nervously paced the living room floor. He heard the sirens from the police cars — then gunshots. About five minutes later a policeman stepped inside Richard's apartment. He went through into the bedroom and there he found no trace of a corpse. Which was not surprising!

The lively corpse had been caught and with it just below Richard's window lay another body. It was the body of an insane criminal convict. He had loved to carry corpses from one place to another.

9B REPORT

Terry Harley

A little while ago there appeared in the middle of our field a 'dot' of ice. The next day most of the crew came to school with their hockey sticks and thronged onto the small rink. Hockey at last! Now in most games the players keep a watchful eye on the puck, but not in our game. We have enough trouble hunting for the ice! The sun squeezed through the clouds and the ice turned to water, then to mud. Some of the more determined kind continued to play, hoping that the mud was just a mirage, but no luck! Since then that area has been under close observation of hockey minded school mates in hope that the ice will return. If it does, I can guarantee that it will be much like a Yukon gold rush.

Hornby Man Elected County Orange Head

Wor. Bro. L. Sampson of Hornby, L.O.L. 165, was elected master of Loyal Orange County Lodge when the annual meeting was held in Milton on Saturday.

The election and installation of officers was conducted by Wor. Bro. Fred McNally, Georgetown, oldest living past county master and connection. Reports from the primary lodges in the county showed a year of progress with an increased membership throughout the county.

New officers for 1953 are: Wor. Bro. Percy Hall, Milton, immediate past county master; Wor. Bro. L. Sampson, Hornby, county master; Wor. Bro. J. Fox, Acton, deputy county master; Wor. Bro. Bert Marchmont, Georgetown, chaplain; Wor. Bro. A. Kelly, Bronte, recording secretary; Wor. Bro. G. Collins, Campbellville, financial secretary; Wor. Bro. C. Beatty, Hornby, treasurer; Wor. Bro. F. Peacock, Milton, marshal; Bro. James McLennan, Hornby, lecturer; Wor. Bro. J. Wilson, Hornby, deputy lecturer.

The value of Canada's production of ski poles and fittings in 1950 amounted to $287,142 and should be even greater during the 1952-53 season since the sport is becoming ever more popular.

Introduced by Mrs. Clarence Hayes, and at the conclusion of her address, was thanked in a few appreciative words by Mrs. Howson of Cedarvale School.

Mrs. H. L. Hutt had prepared a prayer for our missionaries at home and abroad, and this was read by Mrs. G. Kidney.

A social half hour arranged by Mrs. R. H. Jones, Mrs. V. Stein and Mrs. G. Kidney brought a pleasant and profitable afternoon to a close.
