Dial Equipment Installation Begins in New Bell Building

GLEN WILL HAVE INDIVIDUAL LINES

Installation of dial equipment and associated apparatus is now under way in the new Bell Telephone exchange building on the old Ruston property on Main Street in Georgetown, marking another step forward in the conversion of the community's telephone system to dial operation.

Installing the equipment is a lengthy and complicated undertaking. Skilled workers of the Northern Electric Company will be engaged in connecting and testing the delicate mechanisms until just prior to the conversion, scheduled for September.

Dial switches and complementary equipment will eventually take over the task of connecting all local telephone calls in Georgetown. Known as line-feeders, selectors and connectors, the switches will be set up on frames in long columns, and with their protective metal covers, will look like rows of canned goods on a grocer's shelves.

The switches act when they receive electric impulses sent out by the action of the dial turned by the telephone caller. As the digits are dialed, the switches seek out the line of the called party and make the connection. The precision-made switches must be kept in air-conditioned rooms because even a few specks of dust can interfere with their operation.

Equipment is arriving daily and Northern Electric craftsmen are already beginning the specialized task of assembling and connecting the intricate apparatus inside the building. Before the dial exchange will be ready for operation, thousands of individually-soldered connections will have to be made and miles of connecting wires put in place.

All telephone lines in Georgetown will be connected with the dial equipment well in advance of the cut-over, but the switches will be kept out of operation during the painstaking testing period by means of "blocking picks." At the time of the cut-over these picks will be removed simultaneously, so that all telephones can be converted to dial operation within less than two minutes.

While the installation work is already under way within the new exchange building, finishing touches are being made on the attractive one-storey structure itself. The building is of reinforced concrete construction, with brick walls and stone trim and measures 42 feet wide by 46 feet deep. It was erected by J. B. Mackenzie & Son of Georgetown.

Initial installation of dial equipment in the new building will be 1,900 terminals, each representing a telephone number, sufficient to provide service to all present subscribers, any who might be waiting for telephones, and to meet demand for some time to come.

W. O. Misener, Bell Telephone manager for this area, says that the overall conversion project is progressing according to schedule. In addition to the installation of the dial equipment, the extension of outside wires and cables and the adaptation of the existing network for use under the dial system are well under way.

In all, 135 additional telephone poles, 23,000 feet of aerial cable and 6,500 feet of underground cable are being constructed.

In addition to dial service, the extensive work program will provide for further expansion and improvement in service throughout the Georgetown district. Besides dial telephones, the community of Glen Williams will be provided with individual or two-party lines replacing the present multi-party service.

This summer a special crew of Bell Telephone installers will visit homes and offices in Georgetown to equip subscribers' telephones with dials so that customers will be able to use the new system immediately following the conversion.

Co-incident to the cut-over, two other important changes will take place. All telephone numbers will be changed to consist of two letters and five figures. Subscribers will be advised of their new numbers well in advance of the cut-over, and the numbers will be contained in a special supplementary directory which will be issued shortly before the cut-over, Mr. Misener said.

Actual time and date of the cut-over will be announced appreciably in advance of the change so that subscribers will be prepared for the inauguration of Georgetown's new and modern telephone service, the manager says.

ABITIBI MILL WINS FIVE SAFETY AWARDS

Presentation of the Ontario Pulp and Paper Makers' Safety Association award to the Fort William division of Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., brings to five the number of safety awards won by this Abitibi division on 1952 performance.

The Safety Association shield is awarded annually to the mill in Class A (mills having over 50,000 man-hours monthly) with the best safety record for the year.

J. T. Carey, mill manager, received the trophy from Fred W. Braun, vice president, Employers' Mutual Insurance Companies, Wisconsin, who addressed the 38th annual luncheon of the Ontario Safety group in Toronto.

The Fort William Abitibi mill not only had no lost-time accidents during 1952, but established a record of 500 consecutive days with no lost-time accidents.

Four other national and international safety honours won by the mill recently include:

- "Safest Mill in Canada" contest sponsored by Pulp & Paper Magazine of Canada for Class B mills of over 75,000 man-hours monthly.
- National Safety Council plaque, open to Group C mills in the United States and Canada.
- North-Western Branch of the Ontario Pulp and Paper Makers' Safety Association shield for period March 1, 1952, to August 31, 1952. This shield won for second time in competition with 11 other mills.
- Abitibi Challenge Cup for the 2nd quarter of 1952 in competition with other Abitibi mills.

Commenting on the clean sweep made by his mill, Mr. Carey said you cannot legislate a safety program. To be effective, it must be based on the active participation of all employees.

The Fort William division of Abitibi Power and Paper employs 280 people and has a productive capacity of 64,680 tons of newsprint yearly.

FARM NEWS

TIMOTHY NO LONGER JUST TIMOTHY

Halton farmers are commencing to ask for sources of Medon and Climax -- yes, they are new strains or varieties of timothy. They are also asking for sources of Oran Orchard Grass. These inquiries are indicative of further advancement in the field of agriculture.

To most of us, Timothy was just Timothy. However, ever since 1951, when a bus load of "Soil and Crop" enthusiasts visited the Kemptville Agricultural School and the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, we have periodically had members of the party inquiring "Where can I get some of that Climax timothy we saw in Eastern Ontario?"

Climax and Medon are new improved strains of timothy -- the former being originated at Ottawa, and the latter at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Both are much leafier than the old common sort and one would have to be a specialist indeed, to distinguish Climax from Medon. Today for the first time in this part of Ontario we saw both varieties offered for sale in one of our seed houses in the district. True, it is somewhat higher in price than the old standby, but in view of the fact that 3 or 4 lbs. per acre is all that is included in a mixture of legumes and grasses, the additional cost per acre would appear to be justified. These new improved strains unfortunately are not as prolific at setting seed as the old type and hence another reason why they command a higher price. Oran Orchard Grass, a somewhat later, more leafy strain than the common sort, is another comparatively new variety which is becoming more readily available. It would seem as if the day is almost past when on entering a seed store we'll simply ask: "How much is your No. 1 timothy?"

1953 SEEDING BEGINS

Tractors and seed drills were rolling on some of the earlier fields of Halton the early part of last week. In general, however, the land was hardly fit, and while a goodly number got out their cultivators, they found a few too many springy spots to enable them to make much progress. The heavy shower early on Friday morning put a stop to seeding operations for the time being.

LIMEHOUSE
