What Council Did

ON MONDAY, MAY 11th

Instructed the town foreman to turn the water on at the house recently erected by Miss Keyes on John Street.

The erection of this house had caused considerable controversy by both residents of the district and some council members, as it had been felt the house did not measure up to the standards set by the building by-law. At a previous meeting council held up water connections until the matter had been further aired.

Miss Keyes was present at Monday's meeting and said she felt that she had lived up to the by-law, and that when her house was completed she felt sure it would be a credit to the property.

Council asked if the Building Inspector had seen plans before a permit was issued, and Miss Keyes said he had. Mr. Adams confirmed this and when asked if he thought the building would have a value as required in the by-law, answered in the affirmative.

Mayor Armstrong said he had advice from two lawyers and that it was their opinion that council could do nothing as Miss Keyes had lived up to the by-law, and if the by-law had loop holes it was too late to do anything.

Councillor Goodlet insisted that plans for the completion of the building should be tabled, as he did not think the present set-up met the $5200 minimum as required by the by-law.

Councillor Allen said the construction of the building was not safe and that the house rested only on cement block piers, which a good wind could blow over.

"In my opinion, Mrs. Keyes has lived up to the by-law as far as we can ascertain, she has an application, and the only thing left for council to do now is to, back up the Building Inspector or get a new one," said councillor McGillivray.

Most councillors agreed that the building by-law needed its teeth sharpened up, and the mayor agreed to set aside a night to go into the by-law and make any alterations or additions.

The meeting was called to discuss town insurance with the agents and their representatives, but due to Mr. Cowan being unable to come, it was put over until the May 25th meeting.

Decided to have the old reservoir property at the foot of James Street surveyed with a view to developing it for building lots.

Will have two trees in front of the Presbyterian Church removed as they are a hazard.

Will have the roads graded and oiled as soon as conditions permit.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

WRITING EXAMS IN FIFTH FORM

Leona Conn
With such lovely weather it seems almost cruel to condemn the students to going to school.
Last Tuesday evening our choir concert came off quite well and we are all pleased to have such a nice crowd attend.

Preparations are being made for the students to attend the Guelph field meet. It is still not definite whether they will charter a bus for any students not taking an active part.

All last week fifth form were busy writing their exams and they will finish that ordeal by this coming Friday. After that they can begin to study for the departmental set which will begin in early June.

As there is no more news to relate to you all this week I will once more say Au revoir.

Peanut Day is Success Lions Club Nets $700

Georgetown Lions Club will net about $700 for welfare work, as a result of a successful Peanut Day on Saturday.

This was the third year that the club had brought the Planters Peanut float to town, preceded by an extensive sale of tinned nuts. A new feature this year was the sale of Mr. Peanut banks, and the attractive green and red banks were in brisk demand. Also contributing to the profits was a page advertisement in the Herald which was well-supported by merchants and industries who took advertising space in it.

A local high school student, Sandra Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Scott, was peanut queen, assisting the dancing peanut men who drew large crowds to see the float parked at the four corners on Main Street. The float also toured to Norval and Glen Williams in the early afternoon.

Each person purchasing peanuts was given a guessing slip to estimate the number of peanuts on the float. The sealed envelope was opened when the day was over and Tommy Henderson, Maple Ave., was within 39 of the correct answer, 172,334. His guest of 172,373 won him a case of Party-Pack nuts, while Bob McGill, Church Street, guessing 168,322 won second prize, a case of cocktail peanuts.

I.O.D.E. Films Shown At Chapter Meeting

Two films, "Queen Mary's Carpet" and "The House of Windsor" proved interesting and instructive for members of Countess of Strathmore Chapter IODE, at their meeting on Monday.

Mrs. W. G. O. Thompson was hostess and because of Archdeacon Thompson's illness, the meeting was held in St. George's Church instead of in her home as planned.

The Chapter will hold a Coronation garden tea in June at the home of Mrs. Arthur Beaumont, Glen Williams. Ten dollars was voted to the local coronation fund and a float will be entered in the parade.

Used clothing was handed in for a bale for the adopted northern school. Mrs. Ron Kitchen is in charge of packing the bale. Mrs. Harold Hancock, health clinic convener, is moving to Toronto and resigned her position and a new convener will be appointed. Overseas parcels were discussed. Two food parcels are sent each month, one to a needy family and the other to an elderly lady. A donation was made for maintenance of IODE workrooms.

The regent, Miss Jean Mackenzie, who is leaving soon to attend the coronation was presented with a diary "My Trip" and the good wishes of the chapter by Mrs. Sam Penrice. Thirty members were present and hostesses for the night were Marjorie Gault, Mrs. Denney Charles, Mrs. Edwin Hall, Mrs. Arthur Beaumont, Mrs. Edwin Wilson, Mrs. Ray Whitmee and Helen Macdonald.

Christian Family Day At Baptist Church

The Baptist Church observed "Christian Family Day" at the regular morning worship on Sunday. Various mothers of the congregation were wholly responsible for the entire service, with Mrs. E. Carter conducting it, and Mrs. Walter Peck offering the morning prayer. Mrs. W. Townend brought a helpful message entitled "Let's Pretend", presenting a most vivid picture of daily living symbolic to each member of a family from the pretense to the reality of life, stressing the need of Christianity in each home. The choir comprised of ladies, accompanied by Mrs. W. Thompson, sang the hymn "Happy the Home when God is There."

The pastor occupied the pulpit for the evening meditation, Mr. Barker's sermon "As The Dew" was centred upon the text from Hosea "I will be as the dew unto Israel." He based his theme upon the comparison of mystery of dew and of God's blessing, the restoring power of dew to the restoring power of God. Dew is heavier after the hottest day and God is greater after the greatest sin. Clouds bring a barrier to dew, and the barrier between God and the people is brought by the people. Above all, God is always willing to bless. The mixed quartette sang "Come My Soul My Suit Prepare."

Mr. Hornyansky explained the process of polychrome etching, in which this noted Canadian artist specializes.

Mr. Hornyansky introduced his subject by saying that in this age of machines, artistic creation is the only thing left for man's genius and it is important to nurture it.

The polychrome process creates a picture in etched lines on a metal plate and is extremely complicated as gradations of colour are achieved by etching the lines at various depths. The deeper the etching, the stronger the colour and for light tints the surface is barely scratched.

A completed plate is treated to give intaglio to make it hold ink. This process dots the plate with resin dust particles and when the fine 'screen' of 300 to 400 dots per inch results.

A number of prints can be made from one plate, each colour being reproduced separately. Each print is an original because there are fine differences in ink distribution. He gave a practical demonstration as he talked, showing the materials used in the process.

Mr. Hornyansky explained that polychrome etching was popular in France in the early 1800s, then fell into disuse and has only recently been revived. He had several etchings of his own with him, including one of particular local interest, a print of the old "Lower Mill" which he had been commissioned to do for Provincial Paper, Ltd.

Mrs. H. J. Newman, president of the Arts & Crafts of Georgetown, which sponsored his visit to town, introduced him from the platform.

Off Again, On Again

Baseball in Georgetown this year has been an undecided issue for the past six weeks.

The officers elected at the annual meeting either resigned shortly after or failed to take over their official duties. The urge to play ball has been very strong in many of the young lads around town and several have attended practices at the park, to find no one there with any authority to give them advice or encouragement.

In the meantime the schedule for the Halton County Association has been drawn up, with Georgetown being one of the teams. The season opens on May 16th with Georgetown at Port Credit and on May 18th (the holiday) Georgetown helps Milton open in the county town.

The opening game here is on Wednesday, May 20th, with the game scheduled for 6.30 p.m. when Milton will return to officially open the season in Georgetown Park.

In view of the organization difficulties, president Pete McMullen and secretary Jim Waldie of the Halton County league came to town and did their part in trying to keep baseball alive in Georgetown by getting some of the old officers, along with some new blood, to take over the reins and keep Georgetown on the map in the baseball world.

Officers elected to carry on are: Bob Lane, president; William Cromar, vice president; Corey Herrington, manager; Charles Jenner, secretary-treasurer; Pie Dillon, advertising.

George Chaplin is the new coach of the team, and under his guidance, a good season is looked for.

It was decided to once again sell Booster tickets for the opening game on May 20th. Tickets will be sold at 50c and 3 for $1.00, and to make them more attractive to the public, prizes have been donated by three merchants, Silver's Dept. Store, Richardson's Hardware, and Brill's Dept. Store. The club is hopeful that ticket sellers will meet with a good response and that there will be a good crowd on hand on May 20th to show the team that Georgetown is interested in baseball.

PAX BIBLE CLASS AT KNOX CHURCH

Paying their third visit to Georgetown, members of the Pax Bible Class of Weston Presbyterian Church provided a special evening service in Knox Church.

The group came to town with their leader, Gordon Alcott, former Georgetown, who preached the sermon. A 5-piece orchestra, a choir and male quartette is included in the Pax Group.

BAND PLAYS FOR CHURCH SERVICE

A program of sacred music was played by the Lorne Scots Band after the regular service in St. George's Anglican Church Sunday evening.

The band also played for the hymns during the service. A social hour was held afterwards in the church basement.

An educated man is one who has had a stimulus of knowledge and a good look at his own ignorance.
