Justice System Explained
In Brampton Lawyer's Talk

Russel E. Prouse, Brampton lawyer, addressed Terra Cotta farmers club at their Monday meeting. Speaking on "Our Canadian System of Justice" his remarks were interesting and instructive.

Mrs. D. Davidson, Brampton, led a singsong and with her sister, Mrs. G. C. Williamson, sang humorous duets. More fun was added when a number of club members dressed up for a comic number.

Mrs. Clarence Anderson substituted for Mrs. J. McDonald in conducting the ladies meeting which preceded the joint meeting. "My Favourite Picnic Ground" was used for roll call. A paper given by Mrs. Wilfrid Leslie: "Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm" was prepared by Mrs. Arthur McKane.

Wilfrid Leslie presided at the joint meeting and Mrs. Lloyd Crichton thanked those who took part in the program. Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Thompson were hosts and Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDonald will entertain at the next meeting.

What Council Did

ON MONDAY, JUNE 1st

Were asked by Sam Tennant to have something done about dogs running at large in town. He reported his dog, which was tied, being badly mauled and killed by other dogs running at large.

The chairman of the police committee reported that the matter had been taken up with the police, and that in future if citizens would supply them with the names of the owners of dogs running at large, charges would be laid.

Dr. Bull, medical officer of health for the county of Halton, and Mr. Robson, county sanitary inspector addressed council in regards to the new plumbing code, as passed by the Ontario Legislature, and now being implemented by the County Health Department. The new system which became law on May 6th of this year, is introduced as a public health measure and protects both the plumber and the home owner. It was pointed out that poor plumbing could cause an epidemic, and it would also stop many short cuts in plumbing facilities.

Certain fees for inspections were set out in a tentative by-law placed before council.

Council agreed to give the matter further consideration before passing the by-law. County sanitary inspectors would make the necessary inspections.

Passed a motion transferring the property on which the Hydro substation on Guelph Street is situated to the local Commission, now that the town hall property has been sold.

Asked the Property Committee to bring in a recommendation in regards to construction and location of new lavatories in the park. Cost of materials not to exceed $500.

Discussed in detail the possibility of making a better approach on the roadway to the culvert on John Street. Turned down Mr. Perc Chaplin's price of $4,000 for 240 square feet of his property in order to round off the corner. Will do some filling on the west side of the road next to the creek in order to widen corner.

Gave the Bell Telephone Company permission to lay an underground cable through the subway. The subway will be closed while operations are in progress.

Decided to start the sidewalk building program by laying new walk on Water, Queen, Market and Young Streets.

Everest Climbers Inspire
St. John's Sermon Topic

J. D. G.

The theme for Sunday morning service at St. John's United Church was "Enemies of faith", under the texts, "Fight the good fight of faith", from Timothy, and from Ephesians, "We wrestle not against flesh and blood but against principalities and powers."

Rev. John M. Smith cited the triumph of the climbers of Mount Everest this past week as encouraging and heartening news, not because of the value of the achievement itself, but because it shows that there are still those with a great deal of courage and perseverance who are willing to sacrifice comfort and safety, self if necessary, to attain some high ideal, something always before them which has not been conquered or reached hitherto. And even with Mount Everest conquered, there are still many things left to try the resources of man, for though he has overcome so much of our physical earth and sky, learned how to fly even faster than sound, to send words and pictures through the air in a matter of seconds, yet he has not learned to live with himself nor with his brother man as he should, often not even as he has a great desire to do, and feels he should. He has still enemies to conquer in the living of his own life and in living with the rest of the world, and most of these are enemies from within. He needs faith like the climbers of Mount Everest, that even though there may be many failures, still the goal can be reached. And he should know that God is his best helper, that God is able to help, He knows the way and is able to impart that knowledge to us through Jesus through His own Word, through our waiting upon Him, and so give us strength and guidance to accomplish our high aims.

More than that God desires to help. That is why He sent His son Jesus to live amongst us, even die for us, showing His great love for us, and desire to be our helper, so that we can the better be able to conquer the enemies of our faith and reach the heights of living He wishes for us. And let us be assured that God is available and we can have His help for the sincere seeking and asking, again through Jesus His Son, through His example and teaching. God was always available to Jesus, and carried Him through to complete triumph over the greatest enemies of our faith and lives. And such is His wish for us. One enemy we need to overcome is the loss we have sustained of the sense of true values, and try and regain it. Too often security, ease and comfort get first value; even making a living, vital necessity though it may be, cannot rightfully claim first place.

Jesus said: "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these necessary things will be added unto you." They will follow in their rightful value. Nor can we afford to let the enemy of indifference have its sway. Too often it is: "Let someone else do it," when those who are doing, have more than they can handle to do the work fully.

And so it becomes an individual matter again; that we hold fast our faith; gather steadfastness, strength and courage, so that with God's help and guidance we too can conquer the height before us, the height of great living, which will bring great peace and satisfaction to our lives and a great boon and blessing to our whole world. "They that wait on the Lord shall renew their strength."

The choir anthem was "Still, Still with Thee." Sally McDonald sang a solo "Trust God," the words for the three verses of which, she wrote herself, and were set to music by Mr. Norman Laird.
