A "Weekly" Newsman Tells About Coronation

by R. G. Simpkin

This is another letter from R. G. Simpkin who is doing a Coronation Year series of articles for the Georgetown Herald and other members of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Associa-

London, England:-

Today there are millions of visitors in this city of already millions - where they stay is a mystery. London, with thousands of homes a blown off the map has been crowd-_ ed for years and yet the visitors pour in by train, auto, bjeyele, and

Last night a large number were Calgary, Alta. all set to sleep on the Thames embankment. They brought tents, food, and blankets. However, the police moved them out, no one knows where.

Today in Trafalgar Square buses, cars, taxis, and pedestrians all strove to move in all directions. There were so many people there was little room for the famous pigeons to feed.

By the way, If you want a chap will take your picture feeding the pigeons. He will supply a few grains while you kneel and shortly your picture will be ready for 2,6. They were doing a real business until so many people came the pigtons could not find a place to light. London police are marvellous to watch as they handle traffic jams and street crowds. This Coronation will be the biggest police problem ever handled and it is estimated 15,000 police will work 16 hours that day.

At the gate to the Tower of London two guards in uniform of the House Guards were endeavouring to pace back and forward They could not because of the jam of humanity around them and everyone trying to take their pictures . . .

Like Statues

They stood like statues until some kid pinched one and he turned quickly and said "Beat it you . . ." All along the parade route stands or bleachers have been erected. They are constructed of two inch steel piping and clamps similar to scaffolding used on construction work. There must be miles of this piping and millions of feet of plank-

Today workmen are protecting plate glass windows along the route with similar construction over which is placed a type of wallboard some green, others red, and some white; all works in with the decorating

The streets are beautifully decorated. Fleet Street, which is mostly newspapers and insurance offices, is . the most magnificent. From a high crown ruffled white streamers six inches in diameter fall and loop in fives to each side. These are about 200 feet apart the full length of the street. Plus this there are the flags and most every building has its own decorations. Although Fleet Street is not on the parade route a remarkable number have walked to view it.

Canada House

Canada House from where I will be watching the Coronation procession is completely enclosed in scaffolding on two sides.

The top gallery where the press are located will command a splendid view. We will see the going and the returning. We will spend the entire day, meals and everything However, this is not free. Seats are 6 pound and meals 2 pound. While I spent a few minutes awaiting a seat which the High Commissioner had authorized after receipt of a cable from the Ontario Division CWNA manager Werden Leavens, I heard several replies to phone enquiries 'Sorry there is not another seat available."

Mr. Moody's secretary said when turned in the bleacher seat ordered from Canada, "There will be a scramble for that."

Scats at 6 a.m.

Instructions say be in the building at 6 a.m. in order to be sure to get through the crowds.

The night of the Coronation promises to be one night of fun-New Orleans with the Mardi Gras will be tame to this. They are promising among other things a fireworks display the like of which has never been seen before. I wonder if this takes in the Canadian National Exhibition which is a top notcher for fireworks.

All business in London closed down last Friday night and will not

HORNBY

WHEEL CLIMBS HOUSE IN FREAK ACCIDENT

A freak accident last week saw a wheel roll off a car, crash into the Lee residence, breaking the door frame, bounce off and hit the roof, then roll off to a safe stop in a flower bed. Wesley Fendley, Glen Williams, was driving down the 7th Line when the accident occurred; and managed to bring his car to a safe stop.

Rev. George Leck and family will be leaving the community the end of July, Mr. Leck having been called to another charge of the United Church in Grand Valley.

Garnet Howden, garage operator, has started work digging out the cellar for a new home which he will build here.

Edward and Ross Robertson, Glen Saunders and Robert Neilson were away to Larder Lake on a fishing trip over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Drew-Brook, recent newlyweds, visited with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Thompson over the week-end.

Miss Mary Brain, Toronto, was home for the week-end. We are pleased to report that Frank Stark is able to be about again after being a patient in Milton Hospital.

Scotland Yard

I wandered into Scotland Yard on a walk this afternoon and got talking to an officer there. He said they already had over a hundred characters locked up. Today, he said, there had been more than 300 ambulance calls.

Speaking of Scotland Yard, heard the following conversation on the street. A photographer who takes pictures and passes out a card saying where the picture may be obtained handed one to a chap ahead of me, "Got my picture 'ave you?" the fellow enquired. "Well, Scotland Yard 'as two, a real good 'un, profile as well. Want to get a profile of me, too?" By this time the photographer could think of no good answers so dodged through the laughing crowd.

Although pubs are open Sunday afternoon I never saw anyone who even slightly appeared to have been drinking and a glance in the door of any pub showed they were doing a real trade. Tonight more of London's own

MASSEY-HARRIS MACHINES

Using scientific apparatus for stress analysis, research engineers put Massey-Harris machines over the Massey-Harris full-scale test track, specially designed and built for studying and proving the design and construction of modern power farming equipment.

This electronic equipment records the inside story of strains and stresses set up in frame members and working parts in operation-such information is most helpful in the development and production of new machines and improvements.

In design and construction, Massey-Harris machines offer the latest developments in modern engineering and research, bringing advantages that enable work to be done easier, quicker, and at less cost.
