Graves Decorated at Annual Oddfellow Parade

On Sunday members of Orlon Oddfellows Lodge and Verdun Rebekahs joined in their annual church parade in the evening, which was preceded by a grave decoration service in Greenwood Cemetery.

Lodge members marched behind the Girls Pipe Band in the afternoon to the cemetery where earlier in the day flowers had been placed on each grave of deceased lodge members. A service was conducted at the Oddfellows plot under the direction of chaplains Mrs. Robert Jepson and Jim Collier. Gordon Spence and George Greensward were parade marshals for the Oddfellows and Mrs. Gordon King, Mrs. Irwin Noble and Mrs. Elmer Dron headed the Rebekahs. Lodge heads Andy Ritchie and Mrs. Jack Presswood took leading parts in the service. Jack Armstrong and Reg Ryall played for the hymn singing.

In the evening, the lodges paraded again, this time to the Baptist Church where Rev. Alfred J. Barker conducted a special service to mark the occasion. Light refreshments were served to pipe band girls and lodge members afterwards in the Oddfellows Hall.

Mr. Barker based his meditation "The Warm Heart" on the second link symbolic of the Oddfellows emblem, interpreted "Love." His sermon presented three aspects to the word Love: it must be true to itself; the redemptive task of love; and the great need for redeemers in love. The choir anthem "Just As I Am" arranged by Bowles, was sung unaccompanied.

Arrangements for the day were made by a committee composed of Mrs. Harold Cleave, Mrs. J. P. Reid, Gordon Spence, Godfrey Collier and George Greensward.
