FARM NEWS

TWILIGHT WEED MEET IS WELL ATTENDED

The first weed meeting of its kind ever held in Halton was staged on Friday evening at the farm of Medforth Pewtress in Trafalgar Township. Despite unfavorable weather conditions, some sixty were on hand for the excellent programme. Stanley Young, fieldman for the Crops, Seeds & Weeds branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, was the special speaker. Certainly it was a programme which anyone interested in weed control could ill afford to miss.

In the county of Halton, weeds are costing hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. Municipal authorities in the county in many cases are spending anywhere from $1500 to $2,000 annually on roadside spraying. Some are doing an excellent job and others quite the reverse. It would seem logical to us that in the future when such a meeting is being held, that township and county authorities might well see to it, that those charged with the responsibility of controlling roadside weeds are in attendance. Chemical weed killers mark one of the greatest advances in agricultural science of the past ten years. However it is very obvious as one goes about the county that there is a tremendous difference in the results being secured. In short $15.00 per mile in some municipalities is giving much better control or results than $30.00 per mile in others.

WINS TELEVISION SET AT LACROSSE MATCH

Frances Deans, of the post office staff, had a pleasant surprise when she attended a lacrosse game in Brampton last week. Admittance tickets at the game entitled the winner to a 17-inch Admiral television set, and when the draw was made, Miss Deans' ticket was the lucky one.

Bell Service Meets the Challenge of the Tornado through

worst night...

Truly there are times when no price can measure the value of your telephone service — ready when you want it most. Such a time came to Sarnia on May 21st when the tornado ripped through the downtown area. That night, Bell equipment — the telephone building itself — built to stand up in emergencies, came through one of the toughest tests.

An emergency power unit kept building and equipment alive. Dial mechanism, properly housed, remained undamaged. Light from the Bell — shown above streaming through the building's shattered doorway — was for hours the only electric light in downtown Sarnia. It became a beacon that told of service working for nearly all of Sarnia's 12,000 customers. Less than 1200 telephones were put out of action and by the end of the next day all but a few of these were back in service — thanks to telephone men from Sarnia, Windsor and Chatham. Outside wires suffered little damage because they were either underground out of harm's way or overhead in rear-lane areas, safer from falling trees.

When the tornado hit, window glass, dust and debris blasted into the room where operators were working at the long distance and information switchboards. Some of the girls were cut by the flying glass; all were ordered to another floor where it was safer. Even before they were asked to go back, Marna Levan (left above) and Pearl Roberts (right) returned on their own to their switchboards.

Chief Operator Alice Edwards (shown here directing an off-duty volunteer to her post at the switchboard) found all but those more seriously cut anxious to go back to their switchboards, and when the room was made safe by plant men, they did. In addition, girls off duty came in without being called, and rendered first aid, gathered food, cooked meals, and refused to leave until they were no longer required. One girl from Quebec on vacation in Sarnia came in to help. As one newspaper columnist wrote, "the Bell operators were the heroines of the Sarnia disaster".

THE MORNING AFTER — the Bell building stands as a symbol of continuing telephone service.
