New Giant Atom Smasher Undergoes Initial Tests

Satisfactory initial tests of the University of Chicago's $2,500,000 synchrocyclotron, a giant atom smasher, have been made after three and one-half years spent on design and construction, Samuel K. Allison, director of the University's Institute for Nuclear Studies, announced.

Deuterons, the nuclei of heavy hydrogen atoms, have been accelerated to an energy of 250 million electron volts, the highest known energy ever achieved artificially with these atomic particles.

Herbert L. Anderson, professor of physics in the institute, and John Marshall, assistant professor, who directed design and construction of the big accelerator, conducted the tests.

Next step in getting the Chicago instrument into final working order will be to produce a focused beam of protons, the nuclei of ordinary hydrogen. In the test, the deuterons were not brought outside the magnetic field.

The energy attained with deuterons indicates the synchrocyclotron will accelerate protons to energies of the order of 450 million electron-volts, making it the most powerful accelerator of positive ions in the western world.

Female of the Species Tends to Outlive Male

The American female contradicts the description "weaker sex" by showing markedly greater tenacity for survival than the male of the species at each year of life.

This is evidenced by the higher death rates that prevail for males as compared with females for every age group.

The advantage enjoyed by females is greatest in the late teens and early 20's, when the mortality among men is almost 90 per cent higher than that of women, and again in the early 50's when the excess in male mortality is about 75 to 80 per cent. The least differences in mortality are in early childhood and at the later ages of life.

"The situation today is in marked contrast with that a half century ago, when the disparity in the death rate between the sexes was considerably less," statisticians report. "Then the greatest excess of male over female mortality occurred in the first year of life, but amounted to only 21 per cent. At many ages the death rates for the sexes were about the same; and at ages 15 and 16 the rate for males fell below that for females."

Use For Lignin

Proof that Lignin, the paper industry's most troublesome waste product, is an excellent reinforcing agent for natural, nitrile, and neoprene rubber, as well as for GR-S, the general purpose synthetic, was offered at the closing session of the spring meeting of the American Chemical Society's Division of Rubber Chemistry. Nitrile and neoprene are two of the major types of synthetic rubber. Added to natural rubber in proportions of 50 to 100 pounds per 100 pounds of rubber, lignin was found to give higher tensile strengths than any other pigment at the same volumes, including carbon black.

Get Type For Purpose

There are various types of interior varnishes. Each is made according to the purpose it is to serve. Generally speaking, interior varnishes are harder — but not as resistant to weather — as exterior varnishes. Floor varnishes, for instance, are characterized by a high resistance to abrasion in order to withstand constant traffic. Another type, furniture varnish, must not soften under the heat of the body.

Three-Way Bed Warmer

A versatile electric sleeping pad which at the flick of a switch can be set to warm the feet only, the back only, or the entire bed has been introduced. The pad is spread over the mattress like an ordinary mattress pad and then is covered with sheets.

Allike Under Skin

The differences between rashes are very superficial. All men belong to the same zoological species, known as Homo sapiens, and their blood is the same. It is not possible to tell by microscopic examination, or by any other known tests, what race of man a given sample of blood came from.

Quick Market

Oysters are one of the many perishable food crops that are marketed by telephone. Cargoes often are sold while they are en route in refrigerator cars. Oysters are grown by oyster farmers in coastal waters. The beds are tended carefully and it takes about five years to mature a crop.

Cleaning Leather

Leather can be cleaned by washing with mild soap and water. Mud is hard on leather, so remove it from shoes as soon as possible; wash it off with warm water, and then rub oil or grease into the leather while it is still damp. This prevents the shoes from drying stiff and hard. For heavy shoes, oils, talow, and grease are good lubricants.

—Marg and Bus Hale and grandchildren.

CARDS OF THANKS
EASON — I wish to thank relatives and friends for gifts, fruit and cards while I was a patient in Guelph General Hospital and since returning home.
—Mrs. George Eason.

LAMBERT — I wish to thank my friends for all their kindness during my recent illness, particularly the Daughters of St. George's Church and my neighbours of Normandy Boulevard. — Sheila Lambert.

RUDDELL — We wish to thank the friends who came so speedily rescuing us as much as possible and protecting our home until the firemen arrived. A thank you to the firemen from Georgetown and Milton who were so kind and capable, also to the telephone operator who assisted so promptly in calling for help. The stranger who ran in from the road, giving early assistance when so badly needed. To the police officer and men who helped him in trying to keep a lane open for the Milton firemen to get through. And a deep thank you to the many friends and neighbours who have given of time and energy, plus the use of tools and equipment needed to fix temporary shelter for our animals.
—Mrs. Arthur Ruddell, Howson and Bill.
