Lacrosse to the Fore

A remarkable record has been chalked up by Georgetown N&Gs in winning an Ontario lacrosse championship in their first year as a team, and our hats are off to them.

In these days of "imports" even in amateur sport, it is refreshing too to know that all the players on the team are natives of Georgetown and district, something which few Ontario champions in any branch of sport can claim. Not being a lacrosse expert, we can only pass on the word of some who know when they say that the team played a good, clean brand of lacrosse and deserved their win.

While the players can rightfully take the lion's share of credit, there are others whose equally important work behind the scenes stood the team in good stead. A special medal should go to Tom Haines, who with brother Roly sparked the organization and raised the funds which because gate receipts were much below expectations, were so important to the welfare of the team. Like any other sport, lacrosse costs money, especially when competing teams are so far away, and long trips to Sarnia and Wallaceburg not only imposed a handicap on the players, but dug deeply into the club treasury as well.

There were many who helped. Men like Jack Harrison and Wilf Breen who acted as trainers, timekeeper Tom Beckett, Jack Wilson, Clark Lyons and of course coach Benny Harris. There were several who loaned their cars for trips too, all in a spirit of cooperation, and there were merchants who helped sponsor the team by buying equipment.

And going back even farther, perhaps we should give a bouquet to men like Rev. Len Self, now of Midland and Jim Clark, to mention only two, whose efforts a few years ago with teams at Norval developed most of the players who this year brought Georgetown a championship.

Golf Club Big News

Formation of North Halton Golf and Country Club at the former Willoughby property has turned out to be the biggest news of the year in Georgetown.

Never have we noticed so much comment on any single activity in town, and since the announcement of the property purchase by K. M. Langdon and the offering of shares to the public early last month, there is scarcely a day goes by that someone does not mention golf over the Herald office counter.

Pot Pourri

At least one local resident is following the news of Communist trouble in British Guiana with more than passing interest. Roxy theatre manager Bill Leslie lived there before coming to Canada, and says he could see trouble coming several years ago. Demonstration of fire fighting by the local brigade showed public school students last week how different types of fires can be fought, and how it is not only water that is used in modern fire fighting. This was one practical way that the brigade marked fire prevention week. Another activity was inspection of business premises, and recommendations for safety measures, which are always welcomed by merchants. Nature gave us one of the most glorious thanksgiving week-ends yet, and this year the timing seemed perfect. The trees wore their most most brilliant hues and any who motored were struck by the beauty of the countryside. Thanks to those who noticed the lack of editorial in the Herald these last two weeks. One omission was by design, the other by accident. Two weeks ago we took a couple of days off to attend a convention in Hamilton, and we didn't have the ambition to do any but the news reporting when we returned. Last week, in spite of 14 pages, there was so much advertising that there wasn't room for all the news plus editorial, so we thought it better to concentrate on the week's

This week, the deadline for making the club a closed corporation to Georgetown and district expires. Over half of the 225 membership shares available have been subscribed, and it is now the intention of the directors to seek the rest of the membership over a wider area, as definite financial commitments with Mr. Willoughby have to be met. If any local person intends to join and has not yet been in touch with the secretary, we would advise them to delay no longer.

news budget. It was a nice tribute that the Toronto Telegram paid to those who lost their lives in the war in Korea. The paper devoted the entire front page, second section, to a eulogy, naming each soldier who died on the battlefield. It was particularly noted locally because two names were familiar here, Ken Norton and Ron Edmunds. Local pool room proprietors may well take exception to Toronto Argonauts coach Frank Clair who says more kids are interested in being "poolroom johnnies than in working toward football careers." A pro football career is only one way of life, and while we have admiration for those who reach the heights, there is no more pride in a man excelling in a sporting career than a successful profession or trade. Perhaps it is unfortunate that so much emphasis is placed on athletics as compared to other careers. Every man has his place in life, and there can be just as much satisfaction in being a good doctor, carpenter, papermaker or printer, as there can be in being a footballer. As for recreation, playing pool is a pastime, just as is bowling, cards and dancing, and we think Mr. Clair used an unfortunate simile when he singled out poolrooms to use in a derogatory sense. We can say that Georgetown poolrooms are certainly no dens of iniquity and provide a definite service to the community.

A number of ancient English churches are replacing their equally ancient roofs with aluminum. One of these is the Chapel of St. James in the village of Nether Warton, Oxfordshire. Its lead roof, originally laid in 1665, brought £478 as scrap — enough to pay the whole cost of installing the new roof.

It is a neat example of how, while most metals have been getting more expensive through the centuries, the cost of aluminum has been going down. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)
