Build Haliburton Church in Record Two Days
A church which was built in record time in Haliburton has a close association with Georgetown, for several cottagers there are from town.
The church, which will be used for summer worship and community activities at the Eagle Lake cottage development, was built in a record two days by the combined efforts of the summer residents there. Property and material was donated by Haliburton Lake Development Co. The building was started on a Friday and that same Sunday it was dedicated by Rev. John M. Smith, who though he now lives in Whitby is only a few weeks removed from Georgetown.
Other local people who have cottages at the lake are the A. M. Nielsens and the Frank Whitmores.

FARM NEWS
Wild Carrot Creates Problem in the County
J. E. W.

Drought or no drought, wild carrot or Queen Anne's Lace, continues to flourish in Halton. Too many Halton fields are practically white with this weed. On the other hand, here and there, one finds a farm where the owner has it under control and not a specimen is in sight. On the township roads, despite the effort being made by the respective township road superintendents, wild carrot is the problem weed.
According to weed authorities, wild carrot is stated to be susceptible to 2, 4-D and easily controlled. In fact they would have us believe that Halton is the only county where any difficulty is being met in controlling this weed. Be that as it may, we do know that in Esqueving Township, they got very satisfactory control of wild carrot in 1951, which was the first year their township roads were sprayed. Their control in 1952 was not so good — we would say nil in 1953 and we question if it is any better in 1954. This is no criticism of their efforts, because we have every reason to believe they have consistently done a good job of spraying.
This year, in the hope of getting to the bottom of the trouble, the Halton Crop Improvement Association laid down some plots on the third line of Esqueving. Six plots each roughly 200 feet long, were sprayed on May 31st. 2, 4-D both of the Ester and Amine types were utilized at different strengths and volumes. Frankly on only one of the plots did we get control and that was where we utilized what would be called a brush spray, consisting of 1 pound 2, 4-D acid plus 1 pound of 2-4-5t per acre. We know of a lane on one of our Trafalgar farms which has been sprayed annually and this year has had three sprays with no control. On the other hand on the farm of Robert Hurren and Son, near Campbellville, a rough pasture lot was sprayed for the first time in June of this year, with at least a 90 per cent kill of wild carrot.
As a result of the problem being encountered in Halton with control of wild carrot with 2, 4-D, the Ontario Department at the Ontario Agricultural College, laid down a number of plots in early July on the farm of Medforth, Peewee. Insofar as one can determine at the moment, the results do not appear very promising. We are badly puzzled but rest assured the Halton Soil and Crop Improvement Association is endeavoring to get to the root of the trouble. Certainly there is considerable evidence to show that the first time an area is sprayed, 2, 4-D gives very good control of wild carrot but the following year similar treatment on the same area fails to give corresponding results. This would appear to indicate that we, in Halton, may have a resistant species of wild carrot from the standpoint of 2, 4-D. However, they say "Every cloud has a silver lining" so here's hoping we can get to the root of the trouble in the near future.
