Prominent Baptist Church Lady Dies

Death of Mrs. Robert Freeman Bessey, 91, in Milton last week severed one of the last remaining links of First Baptist Church, Georgetown and the family which contributed so strongly to its organization.

Her husband and his brother were primarily responsible for the building of the present structure in 1869. Robert Bessey, who died in 1924, became a member well over a century ago, in 1849.

Mrs. Bessey, who was the former Jessie Eugenie Webb was born at Hathnam Centre and was a daughter of James and Mary Ann Root Webb. She spent her youth in Osprey and after her marriage lived in Georgetown. She was a resident of Halton Centennial Manor at the time of her death. She retained a keen interest in the town where she lived for so many years, and occasionally wrote letters to the Herald on topical matters, while keeping in touch locally by reading the newspapers and chatting with friends who visited her in Milton.

Predeceased by two brothers and three sisters, she leaves one sister, Lucy, Mrs. H. Whiteside of Brimley, Sask. one brother Irwin Webb of Guelph and several nieces and nephews.

Rev. Alfred Barker conducted the funeral service Thursday at the McClure Funeral Home, Georgetown, which was followed by interment in Greenwood Cemetery.

Harold Henry on District School Council

Harold Henry, principal of Georgetown's Chapel St. School is one of three county teachers nominated a representative on the District Council.

With Marshal Mayes, Burlington and R. M. Acheson, Nelson he was chosen for this office when Halton branch of the Public School Teachers Federation held a dinner meeting last Wednesday at the Estimmet, Burlington. The president Marshal Mayes, presided.

Guest speaker was Rabbi Baskin from Hamilton, who formerly lived in New York City. His talk on "How Can we Best Measure Life?" was inspirational and left the teachers with many thoughts on which to ponder.

R. M. Acheson outlined briefly the new district organization and Edward Sanderson, the district secretary, spoke briefly, saying he would like to see all the men turn out and work, and so measure up to their responsibilities.

Mr. Balfour reported on the benevolent fund, with members agreeing to accept the fund in principle. L. L. Skuce and R. Bornhold, public school inspectors, spoke and complimented the teachers on an excellent attendance. It was decided that at the next meeting the chairman of the teachers' qualification committee would be asked to report on what qualifications are required in Ontario.

A social function will be held in early January, with the Women Teachers' Federation invited. Future meetings were set for Jan. 12, Mar. 9 and May 11.

FABIAN

of SCOTLAND YARD

Luck takes a hand and the body of a man found in the Thames is identified after more than a year of enquiry. Fabian's investigation then takes him into an emotional domestic drama, and a chase across the rooftops of Fleet St. Then the Yard breaks a 'perfect alibi' with a splinter of wood. And an act of manslaughter is exposed. From the files of Scotland Yard comes this story of 'The Unwanted Man' especially prepared for television.
