At Long Last A Yearbook . . .

Don Southar

After much parley and plans it has been tentatively decided to take a stab at producing a year book for G.H.S. The staff of this paper will help in producing it as well as other officers yet to be appointed. Yours truly will be the editor and the material appearing in High Tales will be reviewed and summarized for part of the year book. Advertising will be sold and it is hoped we will get as much cooperation in this endeavour as we have received in the production of High Tales. It has been decided that the Student Council will help finance the cost of the Year Book but the financing will be extremely tight due to the smallness of the school and the funds. We will try to do our best with the material at hand. As was mentioned above it is hoped that advertising space can be sold in quantity with a view toward helping GHS.

For years a year book has been needed because of its value to all who attend the school. It is a cherished thing to be able to look back on your classmates in later life and remember the times you had "way back when." Mr. Hehn has agreed to do the printing and others have offered help already. We are still in need of an experienced photographer to take all the pictures for the book and we hope a local person can be found to do this work. This book should prove an extremely good experience to all who are connected with it and with a little help we believe we can produce a good Year Book for GHS.

It was impossible to keep High Tales on one page. Readers will find that it starts on this page and continues on pages 3 and 7.

GRADE 9 REPORT

Robert Hill

With rugby fading out of the minds of the students of GHS I'm sure most of us must be looking forward to colder weather and the Canadian winter sport of hockey. As far as minor hockey goes, the town of Georgetown is rated tops in Ontario.

We are very fortunate in having an arena with artificial ice and in having ice time made available for our benefit. We are also lucky in having such a fine organization as the Canadian Legion behind the kids of our town.

It has been brought to my attention that there might be a high school hockey league organized, providing it could be arranged to get the ice at a satisfactory time. A league such as this might run smoothly if formed in the same pattern as the football teams which play at noon hours.

Another student of GHS brought it to my attention the other day that there could be a rink formed on the Volley ball courts. This could be made use of if the ice is not available at the arena.

Four Schools Combine For Dance in Acton

Bill Hardman

On November 19th a dream turned into a reality when the students of Acton High School catered to the students of Preston, Milton and Georgetown in an Inter-School Rugby Dance in the Acton Public School auditorium.

The whole affair started at the Milton High School "Sadie Hawkins Dance." A remark was passed at the lack of inter-school social activities in the North Halton District. An inter-school dance was suggested and with Acton being the central school, Wayne Arbie, the president of Acton High School's Student Council agreed to make the arrangements for the dance.

The dance was originally planned for November 12th with an orchestra to supply the music but due to a misunderstanding the dance was postponed. There was, however, excellent music supplied by the records donated by the Acton and Preston students.

The Georgetown students did a good job of supporting their school with approximately sixty attending. There were mainly round dances with a few schottisches for variety. A bus was chartered for the occasion and from all the reports, "a wonderful time had by all."

Unfortunately Milton High School had their annual commencement on the same night and only a few managed to come up from there. The dance was definitely a great success and it is hoped that the schools can get together again around Christmas or in the spring.

The Acton Student Council made a very large profit on the dance which might be a hint to the Georgetown Student Council. Who knows, we might even get enough to help pay for the publishing of a year book.

I would like to send out a big THANK YOU to Mr. Blair Armstrong for his school spirit. Mr. Armstrong was the teacher who represented the staff of Georgetown High School at the inter-school dance.

A few inquisitive females from Preston brought up this question "Who is the guy sitting over there with the teachers?" "He is our commercial teacher," was the reply. "Teacher? Him? I'm moving to Georgetown!"
