NORVAL

W.I. Gifts Exemplify The Christmas Spirit

Members of Norval Women's Institute had the Christmas spirit at their meeting last week when they answered roll call with a number of gifts. Each member brought a gift for the Children's Aid, as well as one which will be sent to residents of Halton Centennial Manor. There was also a shower of children's books for Norval school.

The members met at the home of Mrs. W. H. Reid, their last such meeting in this beautiful home on Georgetown's outskirts which will soon be converted into an office for Drexel Developments.

Mrs. E. Burk, the president, told a Christmas story, carols were sung and each member read a seasonal verse or message.

OAC Offers Special Poultry Short Course

The annual Poultry Show, Course at the Ontario Agricultural College is scheduled for the period January 10 to January 21. This is a two week's course and in the first week emphasis is being placed on Egg Production, which includes such topics as Rearing and Housing, Feeding and Management, Disease and Culling; and Egg Marketing. The programme the second week will centre around Meat Production -- broilers, turkeys, capons, roasters, rearing and management, dressing, eviscerating, packing and merchandising. While 1954 has in the main been a disappointing year for poultrymen, history over the years would indicate that 1955 should be the year to be in and not out. Consequently this programme should have much of interest and value to Halton poultry folk.

McLaughlin, Bell Top Golf Club Executive

Donald R. McLaughlin was elected president of North Halton Golf and Country Club at a meeting of shareholders last Tuesday in Georgetown Library.

He succeeds Kenneth M. Langdon, first president of the club which was organized this year to purchase the J. A. Willoughby summer home on the edge of town. Other officers of the club are: John W. Bell, vice president; Ern Batkin, secretary pro tem; and directors James Linton, Ross Duncan, Jack Malcolm, William McNally, James F. Evans, E. W. Binkley and Russell Woods from Georgetown; Cecil Doble, Dr. Carl Martin and E. A. Henry, Milton; and Wesley Wolfe, Ken Blow and John Gordon, Acton.

George Hewson acted as chairman for the election.

Mr. Langdon spoke about the progress of the club since its organization and reviewed a financial report which showed the club's position. Jack Malcolm also spoke briefly. Two unexpected disasters during the year were destruction of a considerable portion of the fairways by white grubs, which meant a considerable expense for re-seeding in the fall, and washing out of two dams during Hurricane Hazel, which will also mean an expense to restore the ponds which add to the beauty of the property.

The 127 acre property was purchased by a group of men from Georgetown, Milton and Acton a year ago for $125,000 and since then $500 membership shares have been sold to residents in three towns and golf and social activities enjoyed during the season by a large number of members.

The golf course was laid out by Mr. Willoughby in 1910 and has been used as a private course for his family and friends, and for some years until World War 2, was also available as a club for district residents.

The club owns all the property, which includes three cottages, a barn and the former large Willoughby summer home which has been converted into a clubhouse.

HALTON DEBATERS LOSE TO HALDIMAND

"Resolved that the best interests of the Ontario farmer requires that Ontario farming be considered primarily as a business and not as a way of life," was the subject of the inter-county debate held at the Rural Life Centre at Kohler, near Cayuga, on Thursday evening of last week.

Halton debaters, namely Joan Wragglesworth and John W. Pickett, both of the Hornby district, upheld the negative while Bill Saunders and Audrey Tucker of Haldimand had the affirmative. The judges, namely Messrs. Smith and Jackson of Caledonia and Simcoe respectively, and George S. Atkins of Bronte, by a split decision awarded the debate to Haldimand. All four debaters gave an excellent presentation and the twenty Haltonites who journeyed down to Kohler were justly proud of their team members. In our humble opinion the Halton team had the edge on argument with perhaps the margin going to the Haldimand team largely due to their greater experience and maturity.

In any event, it was no disgrace to be defeated by the Haldimand team and they should with any luck still be in the ring when the finals roll around.

Halton Jerseymen Are in the News

In the last issue of the Canadian Jersey Breeder, we were interested but not surprised to note of the achievements of two Halton bred Jerseys which are now doing a great job for their present owners. Rock-Ella W. R. Lady, bred by Ken Ella of Hornby, has just been awarded her Ton of Gold Certificate. She has produced in four consecutive years 2,135 lbs. of fat. We also note that Rock-Ella Lady has on three occasions won a Silver Medal, and one Gold Medal. She is now owned by G. H. Tillman, of Churchill, Ontario.

We also note in the report of the Eastern Championship Show held at the Ottawa Winter Fair, that Lindale Basil Princess bred by M. C. Beaty and sold by him in the 1952 Sale of Stars for $3,000 to W. R. Aylesworth of Kingston, is continuing her winning ways for her present owner. Princess won the mature dry cow class and went on to take both the senior and grand champion female award of the show. As we recall while still at Lindale as a three year old Princess was grand champion female of the Halton Show in 1952 and won her class of the same year at the Royal.

Lindale Basil Princess is by Brampton Basil Ward, former herd sire by Lindale, who as you may recall sired the winning senior get of sire for M. C. Beaty at the 1954 Royal.

We also note in the same article Dr. W. R. Armstrong of Ottawa had first and reserve junior champion male on his senior yearling son of Lindale Beacon Bas, which he purchased from Mr. Beaty a little over a year ago.

In short, it would seem that no matter what breed of livestock or branch of agriculture you review, Halton has a lot of toppers.
