WHAT COUNCIL DID

MAYOR URGES ACTION ON STORM SEWERS

Mayor Jack Armstrong urged council at Monday's meeting to take action immediately to correct poor drainage conditions on King Street, where cellars and yards are flooded each time it rains.

The question came up when a lawyer wrote on behalf of Steve Larsen, saying he is holding the town responsible for damages caused by sewers backing up into his cellar, which also creates a health menace.

"There are places on the old Barber Floral property which used to serve as natural drainage areas" said the mayor. "As these are all built up now, there is nowhere for the water to go." He mentioned that the yard of Dolphin-Craft, Ltd. is a sea of water at times, that cellars and yards at the homes of Mr. Ledwidge and Mrs. Crichton are bothered with each rain.

He asked the public works committee to seek some temporary remedy, and the road committee to bring a cost estimate of a storm sewer system to next Monday's council meeting.

PRESBYTERIANS MARK 117th ANNIVERSARY

An excellent congregation at both morning and evening services marked the 117th anniversary of Norval Presbyterian Church Sunday. Many bouquets of flowers beautified the church for the occasion.

Rev. G. Lockhart Royal, who is minister of the church, preached at both services. In the morning, his sermon was based on the text "Passion for Souls," taken from the 9th Chapter of Romans, verse 3. "God So Loved" was his text for the evening sermon, found in John 11, Verse 16.

Special music for the occasion was provided by the Uxbridge Junior Farmer Quartette. In this group, Joan Pearson was pianist and the singers were Hugh Baird, Walter Kerry, Allan Ball and Jack Pearson. At the morning service, they sang "Lord I want to be a Christian" and "Wandering Child." Their selections in the evening were "Beautiful Land" and "Little Talk With Jesus."

ENGAGEMENT

The engagement is announced of Irene Mary Young, daughter of Mr. Joseph Young and the late Mrs. Elsie May Young, to Mr. John William Rossiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rossiter, Poole, Dorset, England. The marriage will take place in Knox Presbyterian Church on Saturday, July the ninth at three p.m.

Nothing is more important than water, when a town gets into big stage development.

In 1948, Georgetown took a major step in abandoning the old Silvercreek reservoir for a deep well system. Until then, town water had been supplied by spring water collected in a reservoir at Silvercreek and distributed through water mains by a pump in the municipal building after arriving by gravity from the reservoir.

The new system provided a constant source of supply to replace the dwindling Silvercreek source, lessened by land clearance in woods and swamps where the water had collected.

Last year, growing demand for water from the new Smith and Stone plastics plant, and a foreseeable increase in other industrial requirements, plus a tremendous increase in domestic supplies needed, caused the town council to plan a second source of supply, a new storage reservoir and other extensive changes. More water was found close to the present supply at the south end of Main St. and tenders for installing the new system are presently being dealt with by the council and consulting engineering firm of Phillips and Roberts.

At Wednesday's council meeting, a letter was read from Mr. Roberts in which he stated that even the new system will not be adequate to take care of the Delrex subdivision when it is completed.

The total daily capacity will be 2,400,000 gallons. Information supplied by the Delrex developers leads Mr. Roberts to believe that eventually the town will have to produce four million gallons of water daily.

Mr. Roberts suggests that exploratory drilling should be planned this year to locate possible new sources of supply.

First reading was given at the meeting to a by-law for a $64,000 resurfacing job on No. 7 highway through town.

If street names are purchased and erected on all town streets, the total expenditure will be $2500, according to Deputy Reeve Allan Norton, who has made a survey of this.

N&G'S WIN TWO AND DROP ONE, LACROSSE

Georgetown N&Gs dropped a close game with Lewiston, N.Y., 13-10 in their first home appearance Friday at the arena.

The Lewiston team, greatly bolstered from last season by Powells, who played several seasons with Peterborough Seniors, picked up steam in the last period after Hillson tied the score with an early goal.

Last night, N&Gs redeemed them selves by walloping Burlington 30-4 in a game which lacked the thrills of the Lewiston match.

To complete a busy week-end, the local team travelled to Onawakeen Saturday where they won a close match.
