

Six University Students Successful in Their Year

GLEN WILLIAMS

Remembrance Service in Glen Williams Cemetery

A remembrance day service in Glen Williams cemetery Sunday was so successful that it is planned to make it an annual event.

The weather was ideal and a large attendance of district and out-of-town people attended to pay respects to those resting in this beautiful and sacred spot.

Rev. Kenneth Richardson, Georgetown and Rev. G. Lockhart Royal, of Norval, conducted the service. The Larne Scots brass band were also present, and Harold McClure acted as chairman.

In his address, Mr. Royal expressed thanks and appreciation to those who have rendered service and aided the cemetery board in making improvements in the grounds. There were remembrance wreaths and bouquets on most of the graves, adding to the dignity and beauty of the service.

Several Georgetown university students have been successful in passing their college year.

Thelma Hunter will be entering her third year course at Queen's University, Kingston, in Arts and Physical Health Education in the fall.

Marilyn Bell received 2nd class honours in her chemistry course at the University of Western Ontario, London, and will also be a third year student next term. Jane Milne, who also attends Western passed her second year B.A. course.

The Berg brothers were both successful at the University of Toronto, Elling, a second year student in chemical engineering got his year and Ota completed his first year course in Mathematics, Physics and Chemistry.

Bill MacCormack completed his 3rd year course in Pharmacy at Varsity and is working in his father's drug store for the summer.

Two St. John's Services Special Flower Sunday

The children of the Sunday School and the congregation of St. John's United Church held a special "Flower Sunday" last Sunday, when two identical services were held in the morning so that the large Sunday School could attend in two sections and join in worship with the adults.

At each service the children of the Sunday School came forward with carnations, which were placed individually on a specially constructed cross so that when completed the cross was covered with flowers. They were arranged with a central cross of red carnations on a background of white ones. The 50-50 club had decorated the church with many large bouquets of beautiful flowers for the occasion, and Rev. Morgan McFarlane's sermon dealt with the theme "The Message of the Flowers."

In his talk, Mr. McFarlane spoke of the influence of the colour and fragrance of flowers on our life. He stressed that the greatest flower we possess is the flower of our children and young people. They too must have colour, the colour of love and Christian life, and the beauty of holiness. Their fragrance, is the fragrance of kindness, friendliness and Godliness. And just as flowers help in time of sorrow and joy, a righteous way of life will help the children and young people over the difficult places in life.

Assistant Sunday School superintendent Ernie Alcott, assisted Mr. McFarlane in the service. The Junior Choir sang three numbers while the congregation gathered, and led the service of praise with special music. They had been preparing this service for some months, under the leadership of the choir master, Norman Laird. After the children had adorned the cross with flowers, the Junior Choir sang The Lord's Prayer, by Malotte. During the service, the Scripture Lesson was recited by Geneva Delery. Mr. Alcott presented prizes to members of the Junior Choir for attendance and special work done.

REV. ROSS K. CAMERON ANNIVERSARY PREACHER

Rev. Ross K. Cameron, M.A., minister of Dovercourt Road Church, Toronto preached in the morning, and Rev. D. K. Kerr, B.D., M.P.P., minister of Royce Ave. Church, Toronto, was the special preacher for the evening service when Boston Presbyterian Church celebrated its 134th anniversary with special services Sunday.

The church was profusely decorated with flowers, and there were special anthems by the choir at both morning and evening services, as well as selections by the Halton Quartette at the morning service.

FARM NEWS

Agriculture Committee Holds Weed Conference

Keen interest was evident in the weed conference sponsored by the agricultural committee of the Halton county council last week, in the Farmer's Bldg., Milton. The meeting was chaired by Reeve A. R. Service, the chairman of the Halton Agricultural Committee.

"Co-ordinated cooperation necessary in the control of weeds" was the subject of the address by Stanley Young of the Field Crops Branch, Ridgeway.

The part played by Common Barberry and Buckthorn as host plants in life cycles of stem and crown rusts of oats was ably handled by Douglas Kerr, of Brantford. Other weeds which came in for special attention in his discussion were poison ivy, leafy spurge, yellow rocket, and wild carrot. Others participating in the discussion were county weed inspector Thos. Bradley, John Kimmel of the Dept. of Highways; Messrs. Menary and Morgan, representing the Canadian National Railways; Mr. Cain of the Canadian Pacific; township road superintendents Wm. Townsend of Evesham, Harris Bell of Nelson and Stanley Fulton, Nassagaweya; Reeve A. R. Service, Robert Marshall, Wilfred Bird, and Deputy Reeve Fred Walker of Nelson; weed inspectors C. Livingstone of Bronte, and L. E. McManus of Burlington; county engineer Roy Smith; George Currie, chairman of the Halton Agricultural Committee; and agricultural representative J. E. Whitelock.

The programme of the day included an inspection of the wild carrot control plots laid down on the 4th line of Trafalgar by the Halton Crop Improvement Association. At the conclusion of the day's programme all
