Tenders are Called for New Town Swimming Pool

One of the most important meetings in Lions Club history took place last night when Dick Licata and Ab Tennant of the swimming pool committee informed the meeting that tenders have been called for its construction. A decision on a contractor will be made and work started on the pool, it is hoped within three weeks. The pool, estimated to cost about $50,000 will be built behind the arena in the flats behind Victoria Crescent. The Lions Club is sparking a fund campaign which it is hoped will be joined by other organizations to provide this long-needed addition to Georgetown's recreational facilities. The club has gathered about $8,000 towards the grand total. A program thermometer is being erected in a central place to record the campaign as the total rises. Plans call for a pool 105 feet by 45 feet, with filtration equipment, ladders, diving board and fencing. Town water will be used, and the filtration system provides for using the same water, purified, over and over again, which will keep it at a good temperature for swimming. Lion J. G. Collier reported a total of $658 for the pool from peanut day, and a $145 donation from the Boy Scout auxiliary. Further discussion on the campaign will take place July 5th when members will meet at the home of Ab Tennant.

CLUB MIDTOWN by Georgell

We goofed! Our accomplished accomplice, Donna, went to all the trouble of buttering us up last week and we didn't even show up. (How do you like that, only been with us for a month and already she's bucking for a promotion!) O.K. Donna, this week there will be a little surprise in your pay envelope. (Ed. note: usually she just gets the envelope, this week there will be something in it.) Well, enough of this bickering: let's get down to business. Last Friday night was one of the most misguided (or unguided) efforts that C-M has ever produced. Everybody had fun, mind you, but as far as organization was concerned . . . ! It started with a scavenger hunt at 8. No more was heard of that adventure. (Ed. Note: we told you two weeks ago that scavengers were out of season.) Then, at 9:30 came the hayride, which consisted of a mad race to the Terra Cotta playground. One wagon, driven by Andrew Stull, arrived on schedule, the other piloted by Johnnus Mileham had a flat tire. As far as we know, no one went to the aid of the stricken vehicle, and it could have stayed there all night if it had been depending on the rest of the gang. And here's what irks us (Ed. Note: irk easily, don't you?) Neither driver received so much as a rusty kopeck or devalued franc for supplying $600.00 worth of mobilization for the shindig, yet the powers-that-be had the crust to charge a buck a couple to go on this dewy, dusty escapade into the wilderness. Now I ask you . . . ? (Ed. note: you're supposed to supply the answers, not ask the questions.) We can't find much fault with the food (Ed. Note: Oh!) except that the hot dogs were devoured "sans moutard" unless your fingers were clean. The pineapples were good, too. (Ed. Note: Pineapples!!!) Say, what are we griping about? We all had a lot of fun. Take over, Donna. (Ed. note: Now maybe we'll get a little sense into this column.)
