

Nashville Farmer Was District Lady's Father

A Nashville farmer, Mr. Charles Williams Sandford, died suddenly July 18th while working on his farm, Mr. Sandford was 75 years old.

Mr. Sandford was the father of Mrs. Albert Presswood who lives near Glen Williams. He is also survived by his wife, Eva Chater, C. E. (Toad) Blanche (Mrs. B. Facer) and Mary (Mrs. Chas. Robson), twelve grandchildren and three great grandchildren. A daughter, Vera (Mrs. Henry Hilliard), died two years ago. The funeral was at the W. R. Scott Funeral Home, Woodbridge. Interment in Nashville Cemetery.

Mr. Sandford was born in England and came to Toronto while a youngster. He sang in St. Stephen's Anglican Church Choir as a choirboy. He moved to Nashville 42 years ago where he had farmed ever since.

On June 29th, 1954, Mr. and Mrs. Sandford celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Miss Miriam Grace and Mrs. David Boxford entertained at a kitchen and pantry shower.

Avro Employees Gain
3 Cents Now, 5 later

A contract agreement reached between Avro Canada Ltd. and the union committee that negotiates for ten thousand hourly rated employees enabled both sides to leave the bargaining table with satisfaction.

Workers many of whom are Georgetown and district residents, gained a package deal in wage increases and fringe benefits amounting to nearly 10 cents an hour.

The company won a two year period of stability and the hope that improved relations between management and workers may end the present union-enforced ban on overtime. Beginning now, all hourly rated employees will get a 3-cent-an-hour pay increase. This is retroactive to April 15, expiry date of the last contract.

The present one cent cost-of-living bonus will be incorporated into the basic wage rate from July 30, 1955.

The company has also offered to pay the full cost of the existing group insurance plan (to which employees now contribute) and to introduce in 1956, at no cost to employees, an improved group insurance plan.

This is a comprehensive welfare plan that will include benefits equivalent to Physicians' Services and Blue Cross schemes.

The agreement is between lodges 717 of the International Association of Machinists, AFL (turbo and aircraft) and Avro's 2 subsidiary plants at Malton, Avro Aircraft Ltd. and Orenda Engines Ltd.

A stumbling block in negotiations has been the union's insistence on one master agreement and a desire on the part of the parent company to divide administration between the aircraft and the engine companies.

A compromise has been reached in which the master agreement covers both companies but is subject in certain respects to separate administration.

Crawford Gordon, president and general manager of Avro Canada, said last night he felt the new contract "will be good for the employees and the companies."

He stressed the fact that the agreement had been reached not through the medium of a conciliation board but by a proposal made by the company to the negotiating committee.

Total benefits, in a full year, will cost the companies more than $200,000.

Employees will receive hourly rates from $1.48 to $2.30 for a 40-hour week.

A company official said this will place Avro and Orenda employees in the top wage bracket of Canadian heavy manufacturing.

When the union first opened discussion with management in February it asked increases ranging from 7 to 14 cents an hour.

The company's comprehensive proposal, made on July 9th, offered three cents an hour. Avro finally agreed to raise this by a further five cents an hour next year.

If the ban on overtime is raised, it will facilitate production of the new CF-105 jet aircraft and the new Orenda engine, PS-13. Avro also produces the CF-100 jet fighter.
