FARM NEWS

Hurricane Connie and Halton Agriculture

Since we wrote our column a week ago, "Connie" paid us a visit and concern relative to "Diana" coming this way has faded out. In so far as "Connie" is concerned, she brought with her the much needed moisture. Pastures, the new seeds and corn are all showing material improvement. True, some of the better corn fields took a bit of a beating and will present more of a problem silo-filling time. Unfortunately, 40 to 50 per cent of the grain crop was still in the fields and in so far as Halton's general agriculture is concerned, "Connie's" visit was not an unmitigated blessing. Reports would indicate that considerable of the stooked grain is sprouted and in some cases very close to being rotten. With the threshing machine in action, we can anticipate reports of "our grain is heating" in the near future. The grain fields waiting for the combine are a mess. However, perhaps the situation here is not as bad as appears on the surface.

From a farm operator in the Hornby district, we learned that he got a self-propelled custom combine, equipped with lifters is on Wednesday last and to our amazement and his own too, he reports they got 80 bushels to the acre in the granary. True, he further reports they lost considerable in the field. We examined his grain in the granary and again to our amazement, while weathered, it appeared to be in good shape. Certainly due to the great condition of the fields, it is taking more gasoline to operate the combines. One report states 50 per cent more gas — to say nothing about the cutting up of the fields.

Down in the fruit belt, particularly the Burlington area, some of the growers suffered quite a loss. It is estimated by Stewart Carpenter, fruit and vegetable field man at Oakville, that in the Burlington area, particularly along the Guelph line and east of Burlington along the lakeshore, 2 to 5 per cent of the McIntosh, the Greenings and Melbas are on the ground. Pears were hit even harder and here at least 10 per cent are under the trees. In some of the older orchards, there is considerable tree damage — trees with bad crotches were badly riddled. In so far as we can learn, the vegetable growers suffered little loss and benefited much from the rainfall. From the Queen Elizabeth north, the plows are running freely for the first time since early June and there should be ample moisture when wheat seeding time rolls around next month.

Institute Donates $25 To Swimming Pool Fund

Mrs. Francis Thompson was hostess for the August meeting of Ashgrove W.I. which was held Tuesday evening, August 16th at 8:30 p.m. President Mrs. W. Bird opened with the ode and creed. Roll call was well answered with thoughts on the responsibility of a teen-ager. During the business period a $25 donation was made to Georgetown Swimming Pool Fund. Delegates were appointed to the area convention held September 29th and 30th in Guelph. Margaret Bird took charge of a program which included the motto "teen-agers need models not critics" by Barbara Cunningham, piano solos by Verna Pickett, a humorous reading by Jean Bird, and piano accordion solos by Sandra Tindale. Bernice Wilson gave an interesting account of the trip she was awarded last fall for her work in Junior Institute and 4H Clubs. She described the places of interest she visited in Ottawa, Washington and New York. Mrs. Percy Leslie, historical research convenor gave a reading on the life of Pauline Johnson, famed Canadian poetess. Mrs. Thompson and the Junior girls served a delicious lunch. It was a pleasure to see several former members and visitors at this well-attended meeting.
