A Long Way To Go

Results of the community swimming pool campaign published elsewhere in this issue, are not too optimistic for the eventual success of the $50,000 project.

Somewhat over $15,000 is acknowledged in cash and pledges, and while there are many citizens still to hear from, it is a question whether the whole $50,000 will be in hand within a few weeks.

There have been disappointments, as there are bound to be in a public campaign. It is all too easy for one to estimate what the other man can afford to give, and it is unfortunate that names will be banded about as contributing too little. At the same time, there are those who might give more than the published figure, and there are those who prefer to give anonymously and who will be branded as non-givers in some people's eyes.

The bright side of the picture are the donations from individuals and firms who might well not be expected to give at all. A particularly fine gesture by a Newmarket firm was used as the basis of an advertisement in this issue. Others have come from contracting firms doing business in town, and from non-resident property owners. They are all appreciated.

It is certain that every dollar that anyone feels he can contribute will be needed before the happy day when the swimming pool opens. And it is quite in order for a person to reassess his feeling on the matter and to make a further contribution to put it over the top.

Santa Comes in Style

This year's Santa Claus parade in Georgetown will set a new high in popularity if plans of the Lions Club work out.

The Lions received a considerable boost last year from the firemen and senior public school grade, who constructed a handsome sleigh which will be used in future parades.

Now this year, a number of floats have been promised by merchants and industries and the parade will really be a parade, emulating in a small way those of larger centres.

The Santa parade is an event eagerly looked forward to by children in town and the area around. Now it will have more appeal for the grown-ups too, who will gather downtown or along the highway parade route which will start at Lincoln Motors at the old town boundary and continue down the highway and along Main Street.

The efforts of the Lions and other public spirited citizens who, at this busy time of year, spend valuable time in arranging the Santa parade, are certainly appreciated. And we take this opportunity of publicly thanking them.

Will You Be There

Years of attendance at nomination meetings in town and township have made us wonder how interested the large percentage of people are in how municipal business is conducted.

We know, of course, that they are interested, from comments we hear every week about council news in the paper. But seldom do citizens convert this interest into taking an hour or two to attend nomination and hear reports of the year's business from those most qualified to give them — the elected representatives.

Two such meetings are on the agenda next week. Monday night in Esquering Community Hall at Stewarttown, township residents will name candidates for election next year.

Thursday night in town, the public library will be the scene of a similar meeting for Georgetown ratepayers.

We still hope to see overflow crowds at both meetings. What better boost could you give men who have served faithfully the year's term on council than to show you appreciate what they are doing?

Some Statistics for Newcomers

There are so many newcomers to town that it might be helpful for them to briefly review the municipal set-up in Georgetown.

We have a 9 man council, mayor, reeve, deputy and 6 councillors; a 2-man hydro commission; and a 6-man public school board. The complete council is elected yearly, as is one hydro commissioner for a 2-year term; and three school board members for 2-year terms.

Presently on council are Mayor Jack Armstrong, Reeve Stan Allen, Deputy Reeve Allan Norton and Councillors Garfield McGilvray, Thos. L. Lyons, Doug Sargent, Harry Hale, Walter Gray and Irwin Noble. Hydro commissioner Graham Farnell has one more year to serve, while E. W. Binkley's term ends in December. On the school board Ray Salter, Cecil McNamara, and Stan Finlay serve one more year, while Ed Wilson, Harry Shortill and Bob Stewardson are completing their two years.

All the above are elected by general vote, rather than by wards. A resident who is listed on the voters' list as either a property owner or a tenant has the privilege of voting for all.

This year, two questions will be asked — whether ratepayers approve a $1500 annual grant to the citizens' band — and whether they approve the distribution of natural gas at no cost to the municipality.

A person listed as an owner or tenant on the voter's list is eligible to run for any office. His name must be submitted by a mover or seconder during the one hour nomination period, and he must either be present at the meeting or send written notice that he intends to seek office.

An important consideration for one seeking office is that if he is nominated for two things, he must declare his intention at the meeting, or the first nomination will be considered valid.

Nomination period is followed by a public meeting at which council and elected and appointed boards give sketches of the year's business. There is a question period following, at which any citizen has the right to speak.

Hunters Flock District For Four Day Deer Hunt

Hunters from many parts of the province are flocking into Halton today, joining resident hunters in the first open deer season in history.

It is four or five years since there has been any deer hunting here, and at that time licences were restricted in number with a large percentage reserved for residents. The hunt will be concentrated in Esquering and Nassagaweya where deer are plentiful.

Township residents have mixed feelings on the matter, which was forced on them by county council against the objections of municipal officials of the two municipalities. The deer hunt was arranged on request of Halton council. Punalish in Wellington and Beverley in Wentworth are the only other areas in the immediate district where hunting will be allowed.

The hunt will last four days, concluding on Saturday. Many farmers have been placarding their property with "No Hunting" signs in prepara-

Pneumonia Fatal for Baby Ronald Brown

Sick only a few days, the 1 1/4 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, Ronald James, died at his home R. R. 6, Milton, on Wednesday, November 16th. The baby succumbed to pneumonia.

The infant was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who formerly lived in Acton. Mrs. Brown was Saloma Bowman of Elmira before her marriage two years ago. The baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown of R. R. 5, Milton.

The funeral service was held at the Harold C. McClure Funeral Home on Friday, November 18th, at 1.30. A profusion of floral tributes were testimony to the sadness the death of the baby brought to the relatives and the friends. Rev. Reid of the Acton Pentecostal Church was assisted in the service by Rev. Potter of Guelph Pentecostal Church. The baby's two uncles were pallbearers, Orvey Bowman, Stratford and James Brown, R. R. 5, Milton. Interment was in Limehouse Cemetery.

FARM FORUMS DISCUSS LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Mrs. M. J. Brown

With nomination and election time so near, National Farm Radio Forum discussed local government and its effectiveness last week. With the exception of one group all Halton forum reporting, thought local government in rural areas was serving a useful purpose.

The one group decided local government should start at county level, thus avoiding duplication of services. They suggested that in rapidly developing industrial areas, a local on-the-spot governing body might do a better planning job.

However, the majority of groups considered local governing bodies better understood existing problems and conditions and were better qualified to take care of same.
