NIGHT SCHOOL APPEALS AS TUESDAY SESSIONS CONTINUE

A most successful night school is filling the three local schools on Tuesday nights as a large group of people learn such varied skills as oil painting, typing and rug making.

The local night school, which sprang from a government sponsored county school in Milton, was operated jointly with Aetna last year. This year, the town branched out on their own and the response in Georgetown was terrific.

A noteworthy fact is that most of the teachers are local residents, showing that practically any craft is available just for the organizing.

Students enrolled in the various classes are:
