LIMEHOUSE

Knox Congregation Have Annual Meeting

Rev. Alex Calder was chairman for the annual congregational meeting of the Limehouse Presbyterian Church, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Lindsay, on Wednesday evening. Twenty three attended, having reports showing all departments had had a good year. Treasurer A. W. Benton, trustees Joe Ross and F. J. Brown, Jr. were reinstated. Managers appointed for a three year period were K. C. Lindsay and F. J. Brown, Jr. who will be on the board with T. H. Price, A. C. Patterson, H. Norton and W. Linham. Stewards appointed were R. Appleyard, Neil Benton, Tom Ritchie, Bert Benton and Ted Brown and Mrs. Gisby was reappointed record secretary. Mr. T. H. Price thanked the minister for his past service among the congregation, and Miss Ivens thanked the host and hostess of the evening. A social hour was enjoyed at the close.

Communion services were held at Limehouse Presbyterian Church on Sunday with Mrs. F. J. Brown Sr., joining the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks and their two sons, Joe and Billie held a skating party for the Limehouse Sunday School, and the pupils at S. S. No. 9 on their pond on Friday evening. Around a large bonfire they served hot drinks and hot dogs. A few grown-ups also attended and report a most enjoyable time.

Mrs. James Findlay has just returned after spending two weeks in Toronto.

We are sorry to report Mr. S. Kirkpatrick is wearing a cast on his knee, fractured in a fall on Friday night.

We extend sympathy to Mrs. Wilfred Harding whose father, Mr. A. J. Lindsay passed away on Friday last week.

Rev. Kenneth Richardson took the chair for election of new officers, who are: William Korzack, president; Charles Crawford, past president; Russell Miller, vice president; Henry Lorrman, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Crawford thanked members and executive for their cooperation last year and bespoke the same support for the incoming executive. The padre congratulated the men on their work on church buildings and outlined activities that might be undertaken in future for the church.

Nine Straight Wins Midget Hockey Record

Doug Richardson's two goals late in the last period gave Georgetown a hard fought 3-1 win over Milton Midgets last Tuesday.

Spence gave Georgetown the lead with the only goal of the first period. Milton tied the score in the second, setting the stage for Richardson's winning goal. The win was Georgetown's eighth in a row in league play.

Friday night in Acton, the midgets made it nine straight with an easy 9-2 win. Doug Richardson again led the way with 4 goals. Other goal getters for Georgetown were Murray with 2, Davis, Spence and Harrison.

All Legion members remember the election of officers this Sunday, Jan. 29th at 2 p.m. Also initiations for any new members will take place at 1.20 before the meeting.

Longer Staple Wool

Has More Shrinkage

A tendency for longer staple coarse wools to show more shrinkage than the short staple coarse wools has been reported by University of Wyoming. This tendency is a direct reversal of that found in fine wools, where the greatest shrinkages usually are observed in the short staple, or French combing wools.

Longer or staple wools, in medium and coarser grades, from half blood down to quarter blood, shrink more than the shorter wool. This assertion is based on shrinkage determinations and on fleeces of different grades and lengths within each grade which the wool department made on the 1944 and 1945 Wyoming clips.

Shrinkages for staple and French combing wool in three different grades of coarse wool follow: half blood, 62.0, 60.8; three-eighths blood, 60.2, 57.4; and quarter blood, 55.1, 54.6, respectively. The same sampling showed a shrinkage of 62.9 per cent for fine staple wool and 63.6 per cent for fine French combing wool.

Part of the heavier shrinkage in the staple or longer wools of the coarser grades is attributed to a larger content of dirt and sand. The difference in dirt content between the shorter and longer wools in the three-eighths blood and quarter blood grades amounted to around 3 per cent.

California Traces Fruit

Industry to Early Monks

While the history of the California deciduous fruit industry dates back to the beginning of the settlement of Alta California by the Franciscan fathers in 1769, the first real signs of commercial fruit production did not appear until the days of the Gold Rush in 1849. Commercial production of deciduous fruits in California is of comparatively recent origin, according to California Fruit exchange.

The tree fruits which were produced about the early missions of the Franciscan monks were grown chiefly from seeds brought to California by vessels bearing supplies for the missions. As gardens and orchards were planted at practically all of the missions, it was not long before a number of varieties of fruit were to be found there.

As early as 1792 there were growing, near Mission San Jose, apples, pears, apricots, peaches and figs; and at Mission San Buenaventura, in addition to these, oranges, limes, grapes, olives and pomegranates. Although there were not more than 5,000 bearing trees in the various missions at that time, these plantings contributed much to the growth of horticulture in the state.

Makes Bricks from Ashes

A new process has been developed for making building bricks out of hitherto worthless ashes from the smokestacks of public utility plants. American Public Works association reports that the new type bricks were developed at the New Jersey state ceramics station. Raw materials used to make the bricks are fly ash from industrial and utility smokestacks and slag from the bottoms of furnaces which burn powdered coal. The inventors claim their new bricks are stronger and cheaper than those made of clay. Another advantage, they claim, is that raw materials are most plentiful in cities, where building material is most needed now. Industrial plants generally must have fly ash hauled away to avoid creating a smoke nuisance. Utility companies alone, it is estimated, produce about two million tons of fly ash and slag each year.

Eggs Can Breathe

Eggs breathe through the air cell which is immediately formed when the egg cools and almost always at the large end of the egg, says the California department of agriculture. Eggs packed with the air cells up maintain better quality. When an egg is packed with its big end or air cell end down, the weight of the egg tends to compress the air cell and it literally smothers and will lose quality two or three times faster than would be the case if the egg were packed with the small end down. Poultrymen who pack thousands of cases of eggs on their ranches daily can help preserve the quality of their eggs and offer the consumer a better product by packing the big ends up. Eggs with ruptured air cells or displaced yolks caused by improper handling or packing deteriorate faster than the lower grades.

Potatoes Before Rationing

Englishmen who are bemoaning the rationing of potatoes might find some consolation in the fact that many of the greatest Englishmen of history never had a single spud beside their bully beef. Rations carried by King Arthur's men certainly contained no such starchy vegetable. Nor did Robin Hood and Little John ever plot against the sheriff while munching a steaming spud in Sherwood forest. The reason for all this, explains World Book encyclopedia, is the fact that England never had a potato before the 1500s. According to history potatoes were first found in the New World by early explorers who brought the plant back to Europe. Potatoes were eagerly accepted by European farmers because they grow underground and are out of the reach of most crop pests.
