Knox Choir Sings the Stainer's Crucifixion

The choir of Knox Presbyterian Church presented Sir John Stainer's "The Crucifixion" at a Lenten service in Norval Presbyterian Church Good Friday evening.

Rev. G. Lockhart Royal introduced the visiting choir to the audience. They were directed by Mrs. Edgar Gowland, who played piano accompaniment for this fine musical story.

Edgar Gowland, Dick Packer, Rev. Alex Calder, Mrs. Herbert Brown, Mrs. Herb Hartlow, Jr. and Mrs. Emmanuel Karn sang solo parts. There were also four guest soloists from Brampton, William O'Hearn, Morley Hallett, Pat Clark, George Dixon.

A mixed quartette, Mrs. William Cromar, Mrs. Victor Torrance, Mr. Gowland and Mr. Packer also took part. Other members of the choir are Miss Hettie Lawson, Miss Jean Ruddell, Miss Anna Spitzer, Miss Barbara Cromar, Mrs. Donald Burns, Mrs. Lykly DeVries, Miss Grace Broadfoot, James Linton, Nick Homan, Emmanuel Karn, Frank Brown and John Allen.

The choir was entertained afterwards at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Royal.

Lenten Play Presented Young People's Group

The Young People's Union of St John's United Church presented a Lenten play "Release" in the church auditorium Good Friday evening.

The play, directed by Mrs. Tom Trouten, depicted the capture of Barnabas and the two thieves in the dungeons, and subsequent release of Barnabas whose cross was the one on which Christ was crucified.

Taking part in the play were: Peter Darlington, Barnabas; Jan Hansen, Gail McGilvray, thieves; Douglas Wrigglesworth, centurion; Bev Stewart, soldier; Marilyn Souther, Barnabas' mother; Judy McCumber, Barnabas' sister; Ross McGilvray, another thief.

Rev. Morgan McFarlane introduced the play. A special musical feature was the appearance of the high school girls' choir, conducted by Kenneth R. Harrison who played piano accompaniment for two sacred selections.

Sunrise Services For Church Groups

Young people of four local Protestant churches were up early on Sunday morning, when they attended Easter sunrise services.

The AYPA of St. George's Anglican attended corporate communion followed by breakfast in the parish hall.

Young People's groups from St. John's United, First Baptist and Knox Presbyterian had a joint service in St. John's Church where they heard Professor Rueben Moses of Indore Christian College, India, whose talk was followed by a communion service conducted by Rev. Morgan McFarlane.

Eleanor Schenk sang Open the Gates of the Temple and Rev. Alfred Barker of First Baptist pronounced the benediction. The service was in charge of Irene Fogg of the Baptist YPU and Jan Hansen welcomed those present on behalf of the St. John's group.

Afterwards the group went to Knox Church where they had Easter breakfast together.

BUILT-IN LININGS
SNAGS IN CLEANING

Have you ever had a dress that cleans beautifully but looks horrible after it is pressed? Frequently the trouble lies with the built-in lining fabric — and this season there are many dresses designed with the built in lining.

The National Institute of Dry Cleaning, Silver Spring, Maryland, explains it this way. The dresses are made of a variety of fabrics, satin, taffeta, peau de soie, silk barthea. The lining fabric, usually a rayon marquisette or a marquisette made of rayon and nylon, is built into every seam of the garment. The dress fabrics used in these dresses are dimensionally stable, they do not shrink or stretch in drycleaning. But the lining fabric does shrink when it is dry-cleaned, causing the dress fabric to pucker at the seam lines. There is no way to press or finish the dress properly unless the entire garment is ripped apart and made over.

You may ask "Who is responsible for such a problem?" Certainly the complaint cannot be levelled against the method of cleaning, because both fabrics are cleaned together, in the identical manner. The dress fabrics perform satisfactorily, the lining fabrics unsatisfactorily. The problem goes back to the dress manufacturer and the fabric manufacturer. Perhaps the dress manufacturer made an unwise selection of fabrics to combine in the same garment; perhaps he did not request that the fabrics he wanted to use be guaranteed against shrinkage — although he can purchase fabrics that meet the specifications of the American Standards Association. Control of the shrinkage problem rests with the fabric manufacturer.
