

CHIROPRACTIC IN INDUSTRY

Continuing an article taken from Canada's Foundry Journal Vol. 29, No. 6, June, 1956, by Gordon Best.

Back Injuries occur in almost all occupations and are not limited to the heavier industries by any means. The student, housewife, minister, dentist, etc., all suffer their share of low back conditions. They can be just as severe as those brought on by heavier employment. Why is this so? Much time and thought has been spent considering this problem. The answer was finally found during the 61 years the chiropractors have been studying the mechanics of the spinal column. The fact that many people are born with or develop in their early years a fault in the mechanical integrity of their spine or pelvis which predisposes them to a spinal injury at a later date. The injury may never occur and the person may never know of the weakness that has been present almost all his life. Or if the circumstances are right this weak spot will be subject to a strain that will aggravate the original condition to the point of producing pain. At this time treatment is sought. The compensation board will pay for the attack if it happened while at work. The patient has the right to choose the Chiropractor he wants. It would be wise for unions to make a point of obtaining a thorough understanding of the portion of the provincial compensation act that deals with this subject and make the information available to their membership.

Then & Now

Thirty Years Ago

THEN . . . Herald, Sept. 1st, 1926
The town tax rate was struck at 45.8 mills . . . Council approved an expenditure up to $3500 by which Mr. Bunnell and associates would lay out the "new cemetery" . . . a fife and drum band from Georgetown and the Glen was one of the features when county orangemen held a field day in the park . . . Students, listed in the upper school results at GHS included Eileen Bolger, Percy Baily, Lillian Kennedy, Jessie McKay, Garfield Payne, Rowena Stull, Campbell Sinclair, Sam Mackenzie . . . an editorial note says, "Let's get busy this fall and build that much talked of swimming pool. An old town boy was in our office the other day and said he would contribute $500" . . . Miss James, who has taught Moderns at high school will be replaced on the staff this year by Gladys Schell of Bradford . . . Marion McKay has entered nurses' training at Wellesley Hospital . . . John Hepburn and Isabel Thornbury were married in Hamilton . . . At St. George's Anglican Church, Alan Norton and Winnifred James were married . . .

Ten Years Ago

THEN . . . Herald, Aug. 28, 1946
Eric Londesboro came from Toronto to replace Harry Ferguson as personnel officer at Smith and Stone when the latter moved to a new position with Hollinger Gold Mines, Timmins. Mr. Londesboro was formerly with Research Enterprises . . . Sgt. Allan Young and Madeline Perron were married in Ottawa . . . An apartment advertised in the Herald drew note as "something unique" and the advertiser reported 51 replies received . . . Arthur Benton was appointed assessor for Esquimaux Township . . . Members of Georgetown Recreation Commission decided to buy a piano and an oil burner for the old town hall which was being equipped as a recreation centre . . . Mrs. John Robert Daley, mother of Mrs. Reg Broomhead, died in Yorkshire, England . . . Bruce McCartney and Doris Mallarky were married in Toronto . . . The Gertrude Cain school of dancing announced its fall reopening . . .

NOW . . . August, 1956

Eric Londesboro is still in the same position at Smith and Stone, and with his wife lives in Glen Williams . . . Alan Young and his wife and family are now living in Edmonton, Alta., where he is a staff sergeant with the Canadian Army. Alan's father, E. E. Young still resides in Peterborough . . . The Herald is still your best bet for classified advertising . . . and Arthur Benton continues as assessor for Esquimaux Township . . . The Recreation Council has disbanded and all equipment disposed of . . . Mrs. Reg Broomhead, unable to be home at the time of her mother's death, later made a trip to her home town in Yorkshire . . . Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McCartney are living in their new home on John Street, and Gertrude Cain, now Mrs. Jack Fry, Jr., discontinued her dancing school for the role of mother of twins (a boy and girl, and two other boys) . . .
