Ontario Hydro "Open House"
At Thermal-Electric Plant

Ontario Hydro's Richard L. Hearn plant, the largest thermal-electric generating station in Canada, situated on Toronto's harbour front, will be open for inspection by the public from October 15th to 27th inclusive. Open House at this huge, coal-burning station on Unwin Avenue forms part of the Commission's Golden Jubilee anniversary observance.

Similar open houses have been already at plants in other parts of the province, and others are scheduled to take place during the fall months.

It is felt that special interest will be displayed by the public in the Richard L. Hearn plant as only two such major thermal-electric stations are operated by the commission, and the principle of their operation represents a departure from the hydraulic generation method from which the major part of Ontario's power resources are at present derived.

The Richard L. Hearn Generating Station was in the news recently when the Ontario Hydro announced its intention to increase the capacity of the plant to one million kilowatts within the next few years. Officially opened in 1961, the station was originally designed for use during times of peak load on Hydro's southern Ontario System and to provide a reserve margin of power during service interruption or seasons of low water.

Since that time, increased demands for power in southern Ontario have given the station an even greater significance as an integral unit of Hydro's generating system.

At the present time the plant comprises four 100,000 kilowatt units. The proposed additions call for the installation of one 200,000 kilowatt unit in October, 1958, another in the same month of the following year, and the third in 1960 or 1961, according to the load demand.

Many tons of coal and water are required daily for the operation of this station. Coal is conveyed from an 800,000 ton stockpile to the powerhouse on a conveyor which is 1,100 feet long and rises to a height of 137 feet. The coal then passes through pulverizers where it is ground to the fineness of talcum powder and discharged into the furnaces of the steam generating units to be burned in suspension, giving up its heat to produce the essential steam pressure and temperature. When operating at full capacity each furnace will consume fifty tons of coal, more than one carload, each hour.

The steam generating units, towering to a height of 120 feet or the equivalent of a ten-storey building, contain over 15 miles of seamless steel tubing. Each steam generator is capable of producing 850,000 pounds of steam per hour at a pressure of 875 pounds per square inch at a temperature of 900 degrees Fahrenheit — which is roughly the temperature at which iron has a dull red glow.

This steam is discharged into the turbine, impinging through nozzles against the blades of the rotor and causing it to revolve 1800 revolutions per minute. The turbine rotor is coupled directly to the electrical generator rotor, and this revolving past the complex windings of copper bars in the generator stator, produces the electricity that is transmitted to hydro customers in Southern Ontario.

Gougeon-Buck Wedding
In St. Paul's, Brampton

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's United Church on Saturday, September 1st at 4.30 o'clock, when Helen Jacqueline Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Buck, Meadowland Drive, became the bride of Robert Allen Gougeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gougeon, Brampton.

Rev. J.A. McDermid performed the ceremony in a setting of yellow and bronze mums and gladioli. The soloist, Miss Peggy McLean, was accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Fulton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of lace and tulle. The fitted lace bodice was fashioned with a scoop neckline and long pointed sleeves. The bouffant hooped skirt of layers of tulle over slipper satin had a short draped overskirt of lace, ending in four points. Her three-quarter length veil was held by a headress of sprays of mother-of-pearl leaves. She carried a bouquet of red and white rosebuds.

Attending the bride were Miss Pat Claridge, Orillia, maid of honour, Donna Ella and Mrs. Carol Anshie, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids. The attendants were gownned alike in shades of rust, toast and moss net over taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodices, and waltz-length bouffant tulle skirts. They wore small matching picture hats, and carried bouquets of bronze and yellow mums.

The best man was Jerry Gougeon, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Jim Gougeon and Dave Edmunds.

At the reception, held in the Masonic Hall, the bride's mother received the guests in a rosewood dress of ponce de soie, with brown accessories and a corsage of white roses. The groom's mother assisted in a navy blue dress, with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For a honeymoon trip to Algonquin Park and northern points, the bride travelled in a two-piece beige ensemble, with brown accessories and a corsage of bronze and yellow mums. On their return the couple will live in Brampton. The groom is employed in Georgetown with McClure Home Furnishings.

Out-of-town guests were present from Kitchener, Waterloo, Hanover, Clarksburg, Toronto, Weston and Thistletown.

FARM NEWS

Cunningham, Hunter
Go to International

J. E. W.
Saturday, September 8 saw Halton Juniors staging their annual plowing match, on the farm of C. Rice, Lot 4, 9th Line of Esquesing township. Harvest conditions prevented many prospective plow boys and girls competing in this annual event. Fred Timbers, noted champion plowman of Stouffville, York County, was the official judge and coach. Twelve ridges in all were turned. These ridges were utilized the following Monday by the Ontario Plowmen's Association as the basis for a judging school, which was attended by some forty five official judges from all sections of Ontario.

Team Selected
As in former years, the team to represent Halton in the inter-county class at the International was selected at this event. The successful plow boys were John Cunningham of Hornby and Tom Hunter of Georgetown R. R. 2. In contrast to former years, the inter-county team members must each plow two ridges, one in the two furrow utility class on Thursday, October 6th and the other in the regular inter-county class the following day. The inter-county awards will be based on the combined score for the two days. However, to return to the match of the Halton Juniors, here
