IT ISN'T EVERY YEAR that the top officer of the Odd Fellows lodge is a bridegroom, so members greeted their Noble Grand, Corey Herrington, with a hilarious mock wedding on lodge night prior to the real event last Saturday. Les Dickenson snapped the wedding principals grouped around the groom-to-be. Aubrey Grant is at the left, standing beside groomsmen Jim Collier, hiding behind the beard. The charming ladies are matron of honour Gord Spence, and the bride, David Hastings. Bridegroom Al Edmunds is at the right and the minister, William Mitchell, Limehouse, just in front of Mr. Herrington. Norman Felker provided the wedding music on his violin. The lodge members followed their fun with presentation of a tie pin and cuff links with the lodge insignia to Mr. Herrington.

FARM FORUMS SAYS FARM FORUM POTENTIAL IS HIGH

"Farm Forum is a tool wired to many outlets and its potential is staggering," Mrs. H. Kell, Churchill, Ontario, told Halton forum members at their annual fall rally held in Fairview school, Lowville, November 19th. Mrs. Kell said even with the best soil and efficient farm management some weeds creep into the ground. Similarly problems arise in various lines and Farm Forum is the place to discuss them. Everyone has the opportunity to express their ideas and benefit from others. The future of farm forum depends on three things, people, ideas and application. Mrs. Kell, who is Farm Forum, chairman of zone three was introduced by Mr. William Hume. Everyone found her address very helpful. The different groups represented contributed to the program — Mr. Speers introduced Janet Hayward who gave a short talk on education, Arlene McArthur played a piano solo. Vocal solos by Audrey Brown and Tom Hunter and a duet by Jack Lons and Paul May were enjoyed by all. Mr. Ritchie of Perth, Scotland, played the bagpipes much to the delight of those of Scotch ancestry. J. E. Whitlock, agricultural representative, spoke briefly stressing the important role farm forums could play in Halton county. Mrs. M. J. Brown gave a few general ideas from the semi-annual meeting. Jack Marchant thanked Mrs. Kell and all who had helped with the program. Mrs. Coulter and H. Speers conducted a short recreation period. Following a hearty lunch the meeting was closed with the National Anthem. Get your float ready for the Christmas parade.
