HEALTH NURSE EXPLAINS COUNTY UNIT OPERATION
 In spite of very cold weather, the January meeting of Silverwood Institute held at the home of Mrs. Marchington was well attended. The vice-president, Mrs. W. R. Norton took the chair, and the program was arranged by Mrs. D. Williamson, health convener. Roll call was "A recent discovery in medicine" and current events were read by Mrs. R. Corbett. County health nurse, Mrs. Jamie-son then spoke on the county Health Unit, telling the ladies that it was organized in 1933 to aid in community health problems, and to assist doctors during epidemics. Dr. Bull of Milton heads the unit, which now consists of a dental hygienist, twelve full time nurses, two part time nurses and a supervisor, a public health veterinarian, six sanitary inspectors and chief, and a clerical staff of eight. Dr. Brillinger of Oakville also conducts a mental health clinic for problem children. Canada stands eleventh in the number of maternal deaths, a fact of which we cannot be proud, and extra emphasis is to be placed on pre-natal work, and pre-school children. The school-age group is at present the healthiest of any age group in the country. Plans were made for a euchre to be held at the Stone School on Friday, January 18th, and a letter read from the new Provincial President, F.W.I.O., Mrs. Jas. Haggerty of Napanee.

A social half hour followed the singing of the National Anthem, with Mrs. R. Corbett and Mrs. Bert Corbett as lunch conveners.

Her delay walked up to the front and delivered his or her talk on the subject drawn. In the finals which were held the same evening in the Crystal Ball Room, the five finalists were given a choice of five entirely different topics for their impromptu—5 or 10 minutes to consider their topic, and then up they went. Who was Halton's representative? Why Miss Bertha Watson, of the Acton Juniors—and Halton may well be proud of her.

Quartettes and Choirs
 In another auditorium in the big hotel the competitions open to ladies' trios, mixed quartettes, Male Quartettes and choirs, were also in progress. The Halton entries here were trained by Mrs. George Newell. Unfortunately, we were unable to be in two places at once, so did not hear them. However, according to all reports they gave a very creditable performance and while none of them were declared champions, they were well up in the standing in their respective competitions. Halton's representatives were as follows: Ladies' trio—Dorothy Marshall, Lorna Woodley, Marilyn Leslie; mixed quartette—Dorothy Marshall, Audrey Peacock, John Eves, Tom Hunter; male quartette—Tom Hunter, John Eves, Stuart McFadden, Howson Ruddell.
