Congratulations to Graduates

The Herald is filled this week with stories of young people who have successfully completed their higher education and are embarking on a business career, armed with an expensive, important little document obtained by the blood, sweat and tears of university attendance. The only regret is that there are not more young people who finish high school and seek to become engineers, doctors, nurses, technicians, teachers . . . professional fields where jobs are going begging for lack of trained personnel. Not every one has the ability, or can finance advanced education. Our society is not perfect and does not put the premium on brains without cash which it should. But there are few young men and women who, given the ambition, cannot realize their goal if they try and university is not an unobtainable mirage to people in average circumstances. To young people in high school, we say, continue on to the very limit of your brain power. A job may look enticing when you are at the end of your first or second year. It will still be there a year or two later. The few dollars you may be ahead at the start will be overcome mighty fast when you are armed with a high school diploma, a business college or university degree.

Until Next Fall . . .

Last week saw the end of another year's issue of High Tales, the paper within a paper which has publicized the news of Georgetown High School twice monthly during the school term. It has been a pleasure to help the students gain writing experience by putting the Herald at their disposal. And it is particularly a pleasure to the editor see that, five years after the paper was inaugurated, enthusiasm has reached the stage where a year book is being produced. It is the first such year book since the "thirties" and we have hopes that it will become a yearly event. A terrific amount of work has gone into both the bi-monthly papers and the year book by students and staff and they are to be congratulated on this extra-curricular activity. It will have its dividends in a greater awareness of the printed word, and if it encourages even one student to seek a career in the field of journalism, it will have accomplished much. In this age of television and picture magazines, there is a danger that one of our primary recreations may be lost. Nothing can replace the joys of a good book and all too many children are growing up in homes barren of reading material. We urge parents not to replace Robinson Crusoe with crime comics, to see that your children subscribe regularly to the free library service, and to instill the delights of the printed word into their upbringing.

Bible Society Needs Help

Indications were given at Friday's meeting of the local Bible Society that some sort of fund canvas will be attempted next fall in order to increase giving locally to this important worldwide organization. Several churches each year set aside a day for special donations to send the bible abroad, to have it translated into other languages in order that the most isolated savage may hear the word which much of the civilized world accepts as the gospel. Over the years the best in scholarship has gone into painstaking labour so that the translations may be as accurate in thought form as possible. The work of distribution by the society in itself often represents a story of great courage. A paucity of givings last year can be blamed on inattention, rather than on any lack of willingness among the general public. There is no one who calls himself Christian who would not contribute in some small measure to spreading the bible's influence. The bible society should encounter no trouble next fall in finding several hundred dollars, providing the right approach is used, and the right channels sought. Door to door campaigning need not be necessary if each local church will make a point to bring a campaign to the attention of its church people.

Fine Co-Operative Effort

Monday evening's entertainment combination, sponsored by the Legion, town council and hospital board was a fine cooperative effort which brought pleasure to the hundreds of citizens who crowded the park. Even the weatherman, after providing one of the dreariest holiday week-ends on record, allowed the sun to peep through in the early evening, and tempered the day's chilly breezes to make it not too unpleasant for those who jammed the grandstand to see the fireworks display. There are not enough such community activities when a whole town joins in just getting out and having a good time. Monday's affair and the fall fair are perhaps the only occasions on which Georgetown has a big get-together. Thanks go to all those responsible, and we'll be looking forward to next year.

Barbara Lois Filmore of Winnipeg has become the first non-Registered Nurse to graduate as a stewardess for Trans-Canada Air Lines. TCA recently relaxed its Registered Nurse qualifications because of a shortage of eligible trainees and Miss Filmore was the first to be accepted. She took a four week training course in Montreal and went on line duty immediately. Miss Filmore was born in Winnipeg and attended Gordon Bell High School. She was employed with various Winnipeg firms as a secretary before joining TCA.

Halton Farmers Ready To Battle Warble Fly

J. E. W. A few days ago one of our prominent Halton livestock men commented, "I noticed in your column recently the suggestion that Halton cattle owners should take action to place the County under this Warble Fly Act." It is long overdue, he added, because the individual can't control warbles if his neighbours don't do anything about them. This was substantiated by the number of warble lumps on the backs of a typey bunch of his young cattle we were inspecting at the time. This was the sort of comment we have been waiting for, for some time. As a matter of fact, the subject of Warble Fly Control was discussed with a representative group of Halton cattle owners some three or four years ago. At that time the reaction of the group was lukewarm, to say the least, so nothing materialized. So if there are enough Halton cattle owners who feel and think as our farmer friend does, then we should be ready to go. As intimated in a previous article in this column, Halton is the only county in this section of Ontario at least, which has not done anything about Warble Fly Control in an organized way. In our opinion the Cost Price Squeeze is too serious to overlook ways of cutting costs — and treatment of all cattle for Warbles is one of the ways costs can be cut. So if you're interested, talk it up among your neighbours and we'll get the campaign under way this coming winter.

Damp cold weather kept the lawn bowlers from opening their season Thursday night and forced the 27 members and 3 prospective members inside the club house where they had an evening of euchre. Mrs. John Newson, Brighton, won 1st and Mrs. Ed Tyers 2nd for the ladies and Burton Macdonald and Charlie Harvey 1st and 2nd for the men. The ladies served a lunch to conclude the meeting. BERTHA WATSON SPEAKER AT JUNIOR CHURCH SERVICE

J. E. W. The annual church service of Halton Junior Farmers is always an event which Halton Juniors, their parents and friends like to attend. We understand from Earl Wilson, president of Halton Juniors, that their annual service this year is to be held in Grace Anglican Church, Milton, at 8 p.m. on May 26th. The guest speaker is to be Miss Bertha Watson of the Acton Juniors who was one of the five finalists in the Junior Farmer public speaking competition in Toronto last January. Miss Watson was also one of the four Halton Juniors who brought back the provincial inter-county debating championship to Halton a few weeks ago. As in former years, music for the service will be provided by the Halton Junior Farmer Choir under the leadership of Mrs. George Newell.

STEWARTTOWN SUSIES

May 21st, Stewarttown Susies held their sixth meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Armstrong. The girls reviewed their work on first air after the meeting opened with the H pledge and the reading of 4 minutes by the secretary.
