Could you and your family live out of a suit case?

Not a bright prospect. But many families have to. For they discover too late that their fire insurance isn't enough to cover today's cost of rebuilding and refurbishing a burned-out home. Now is the time to bring your fire insurance up to date. See us.

Questions if Lacombe Boars are Better Than Our Yorkshires

J. E. W.
The Canada Department of Agriculture announces that approximately 50 boars of the new Lacombe breed will be sold this fall for commercial swine production in Canada. The method of draw, has been chosen as the fairest way of distributing the limited number of boars available. The deadline date for receipt of completed applications at Lacombe, Alta., was Monday, September 30th, and the final draw will take place at 2 p.m. on Monday, October 7th.

Frankly, we can't help but wonder if the introduction of this new breed will contribute anything to the improvement of bacon quality in Canada. The Canadian Yorkshire has been our predominant breed in Canada for a good many years. In that breed we have outstanding individuals - some of medium quality and still others which can only be considered of inferior conformation. In our experience the same holds true of all breeds of livestock. Consequently, we can't help but wonder if the introduction of new breeds of swine in this county will, in the final analysis, be a retrograde step. We have followed the progress made in Canada with large English Whites - Landrace - and cross breeds of these two breeds, and we are yet to be convinced that they are superior to our Canadian Yorkshires from the standpoint of quality of bacon. True, hybridation of corn, poultry, etc., has made a worthwhile contribution, but let us not forget that in most instances the parent stock has been kept pure. This crossing of breeds does present possibilities of a better market hog from the standpoint of vigour, rate of gain, etc., but if we keep these cross bred gilts as breeding stock, just where are we going to end up. Perhaps we are just plain old "fashioned", and too slow in adopting new ideas, but until we see an improvement in quality of bacon resulting from these new breeds, we are quite prepared to let someone else do the experimenting.
