

LEGION NOTES

By Leslie M. Clark

We were corrected about that Bronte item we had in the column last week. One of the members' "better half" who keeps a pretty good eye on Legion affairs, tells us we were wrong, that the Bronte meeting was Tuesday evening, and not Wednesday, as we stated. We realized we had made the mistake, but didn't bother to correct it, never thinking anyone in Georgetown would know. Just goes to show you!

The kid hockey is now well under way with the usual old faithfuls in charge. We often wonder if the people who send their children down there have any conception of the work that goes into the Saturday morning hockey. Frankly, if they had, surely a few more of them would wander down just occasionally to see how the lad is doing. Why not try it parents? It will be a revelation to you, and certainly would help the morale of the men who spend EVERY Saturday looking after YOUR kids!!!!

The monthly meeting of Branch

120 will be held this Thursday (tomorrow) night and an initiation of new members will take place. This is expected to see a real turnout, because there must be many who have never been initiated. We hope that each new member will make a point to be on hand, as this is rather important, as you must be initiated to have a vote. So be sure and take the time to come out. Another incentive of course is the lucky cash draw, which is responsible for the extra big turnouts, we will wager. The entertainment chairman, Jim Murphy, has made the usual arrangements for refreshments afterwards and we understand that there is going to be another big surprise in something it is expected will be given away that night to every member (who cares for it, that is). This should tantalize our curious comrades enough to bring them out, shouldn't it?

We're not kidding, tho', the Friday afternoon of the Armistice Dinner, we heard the gentleman in question, discussing details with the president and the steward, and as far as could be ascertained, everything will go according to plan. And remember, my comrades, in this weary old world it's not too often you get something for nothing, so better be on hand just in case!

The meeting will start at 8 with initiation right after the opening ceremonies.

We understand that due to a long standing engagement, with a senior executive of our fair community, "old money bags" will not be able to be at the meeting to give his report. Tsk, tsk, Wallace, you better watch it, we understand that some of the boys are going to entertain some "irrelevant" motions to spend your hard earned bank balance. Take it for what it's worth, but we hear Wilcox and Crossi have a motion they are bringing up, asking the branch to provide fur coats for the robins who didn't go south! So you better be on hand or might find the branch treasury NSF!

Had an altercation with James Bradley, self-styled mayor of Normandy Blvd., the other night, and find that he's a little annoyed with our "pear shape" statement of a few weeks ago. He feels that this is practically libel, with such a muscular figure as his. However we had "Duffy" come up with a real good suggestion. He suggested Jim bring a lawyer to the next meeting, and if he can prove he doesn't resemble a pear, well, then, he's got a case! Incidentally, we were talking to his worship and he was quite alarmed to find that Jim was the political big wheel in the boulevard. So we understand he's going to approach Jim to act as his "executive assistant" in the forthcoming town elections. Understand Jim's a hold out over salary, at present, though! Jim says that Neil Ellison and Scotty Patterson went down to see the Russians last Friday night. He wonders who was scouting who?

Seriously, we don't get nearly the amount of news that we used to—those little articles that made the column a bit more interesting. We had a couple of fair-to-middling reporters but they have sadly slipped from them in a long time—nothing printable that is. Chubby gave us a couple of jokes awhile ago, but they were unusable, all except the "Fatnik" one. And our boy John no longer seems to have a nose for the news, the way he once did. Quite understandable, of course, with them both getting older, eyesight failing, and no longer can they hear what's going on several tables away! Such are the liabilities of old age! (Guess we'd better stop before someone asks us when they are to be buried... and we've thought of that at times in the past too!)

It's not often we get a wee bit ashamed of our negligence in this column, but we do owe an apology to Harry Boltons; who gave us a report on zone darts for last week which we didn't get in Harry is always very good to bring us the details of dart tours, and we are sorry we slipped, but that's what we get for putting things in our overcoat pocket and managing to lose track of them.

We promise to do better in future Harry. It was particularly regrettable as the team that won the zone final from Georgetown, was comprised of practically all new members, and they made a remarkably good showing. It took place in Streetsville on Saturday, November 9th. Two teams attended from town.

Local Council Meets At Mrs. Nodwell's Home

The Local Council of Women held their final meeting for this year on Friday at the home of Mrs. Floria Nodwell, 9 Edith St. Mrs. Jack Kerr opened the meeting with silent prayer.

Mrs. R. T. Paul read a very interesting letter from a new Canadian recently arrived from Holland, who pointed out the initial difficulties to be faced in a new land. The writer stressed the fact that the newcomer must be willing to take any work available in order to establish himself, then later he will find a position for which he has been trained; but he must have patience and determination.

Mrs. Ed. Wilson and Mrs. R. H. Jones had charge of an apron and bake sale, also a touch and take table. Members were informed that the Council has purchased a book of the history of the Women's Council, and it is available to all local members by applying to Mrs. Nodwell. Mrs. Clarence Hayes thanked Mrs. Nodwell for her hospitality in opening her home to the ladies and for a delightful tea at which Mrs. F. W. Johnson assisted.

ATTEND AUNT'S FUNERAL AT GLEN MORRIS

Mrs. William Long and Mrs. L. G. McIntock, 53 Market Street, attended the funeral of Mrs. Jack Carswell of Glen Morris last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Carswell who was eighty-one years old had only been ill a week. She was Mrs. Long's aunt and Mrs. McIntock's great aunt. Service was conducted in the Glen Morris United Church with interment in the church cemetery.

HOCKEY BROADCASTS

Arrangements are being made to broadcast most of the Raiders regular schedule games this season by the Oakville radio station. Bob McLaughlin, who handled the commentary in the playoffs last year will be at the mike again.
