HALTON CATTLE OWNERS APPROVE BRUCELLOSIS CONTROL AREA
J. E. W.
Petitions submitted on Saturday by township key men of Halton's Live Stock Improvement Association reveal that Halton cattle owners have approved by a large majority, the establishment of a Brucellosis Control Area for the county. The petition forms will now go forward to the Ontario Live Stock Commissioner and on the recommendation of the Honourable W. A. Goodfellow, will then be sent to the Canada Department of Agriculture, with the request that Halton be designated a Brucellosis Control Area.
While one or two of the canvassers' lists were not complete at last Saturday's meeting, indications were that well over 90% of Halton cattle owners were in favour of Halton taking this forward step in order that the county may retain her share of the United States market for Canada's surplus cattle.
MARCH is Red Cross month. Be generous when your canvasser calls to ask support for the many good works done by Red Cross.

LEGION NOTES
By Leslie M. Clark

The executive have been quite busy lately, and although we didn't make their recent meetings, understand that they are taking over the night of Friday, February 7th as a night for vets of the 1st war, and to present an award, that in our opinion is long overdue. A plaque will also be placed on the portrait of our first president, Lt. Col. Gordon Cousens that evening. The artist, Hal Newman, presented (or is presenting, rather) this to the branch. We believe there will also be a number of guests present who were associated with him and with the man who is receiving the award.
According to Jim Murphy there is going to be a dance, with entertainment before, and something in the way of lunch will be provided.

The executive asked us to approach the first vice president of Provincial Command, Harold Eaton and we did so recently, when we were at headquarters in Toronto. He said he'd make it, weather permitting. By that he meant that he is in New York on business for his company from March 2nd to 5th but will fly back in time. Just to give you an indication of how busy Command officers are, he flies to Sudbury on the morning of the 8th for a Legion meeting. Harold is one of the head men of the Dixon Pencil Co. in Toronto. Also invited is the provincial secretary, Pat Biggs, but as yet he doesn't know whether he will be back from a trip in time to make it or not, but he hopes to be.
It's nice that the executive decided to invite the wives to this affair, and we predict a real nice party for all. We will fill you in on details next week, as soon as we get the information.

Once more we regret the passing of a comrade, Jack McQuarrie. Jack has not been well for quite a few years and has been in hospital lately. Our sincere sympathy to Mrs. McQuarrie and family members in the midst of their sorrow.

The regular monthly meeting is being held on Thursday evening, February 27. Let's see a big crowd at this meeting, when the new executive will have been in office one month. It's nice to give them your support if they deserve it, and on the other hand if you have something to bring up that's the place to do it... not in the beverage room.

There have been many favorable comments about the portrait hanging in the lounge. Not least among them was from an army man, formerly a brigadier until he retired, who is now quite a noted amateur painter. He was in town to see us not so long ago, and as we were not to talk quietly to someone during the day, we invariably go to our lounge in the branch, he saw the colonel's picture. Having known Col. Cousens years ago in the militia, he was most interested and impressed. The picture, as a lot of members know, was painted, depending only on a small photograph, and the artist's memory of him. Fortunately, at one time a few years ago Col. Cousens had toyed with the idea of having a portrait done, and the artist had made several sketches. The results speak for themselves, in a living memory to one who did much for Branch 120. And we feel that each of the members who have come to be known as the old timers should be recognized for their particular work and interest in starting and carrying on Branch 120. Each year that goes by, marks another page in their lives, and with our wishing to be morbid, it is a great deal more fitting to recognize merit and reward ability while the recipient is living, than pay respects after death! We leave this thought with the executive and the membership to dwell on.

A case in point is that of Leo Cunningham, who has been chairman of Provincial Command since its inception. While he did receive at St. Catharines another bar to his meritorious award, yet that could only be but small reward for the work he put into Legion. And while he or for that matter, any of the first war vets, neither look for nor expect any recognition for the efforts put forth to found this organization, yet it is only right that they should be honoured, not only in their own branches, but at Command level!

Frank Connelly and Lorne Cross are extremely busy these days, and we might add, are doing a fine job in zone sports. By the number of notices we see they are really kept busy, too with events each week end.
Where has "Notes" been? It's a long story, but we're back again, for a while at least. And if things keep as busy as they've been the last few months Legion-wise, we think we'll get an understudy for this writing job. Scotty Patterson, who for a number of years wrote a very able "hockey" column for this paper, has offered to help us out at any time, and

Mrs. Irvin Barton of Cookville, Ontario was judged Canada's cook of the year at a grand Bakeoff in Toronto (Tuesday, January 14). She is shown here receiving her cash prize of $2,500 from W. F. McLean, president of Canada Packers Limited, sponsors of the three-month Bakeoff. Mrs. Barton won with a gookle recipe, Apricot Toasties. The top ten cooks, of whom Mrs. Barton was one, were brought to Toronto on an all-expense-paid trip to compete for the big prizes.

4-H Homemaking Clubs Achievement Day Program

J. E. W.
The winter Achievement Day for 4-H Homemaking Clubs took place on Saturday, February 1st, at the Milton High School, with a record number of 125 competitors from 13 clubs in the county.
Climaxing the study of "Meat in the Menu" the day was an exceedingly busy and profitable one for members, leaders, and visitors alike. During the morning all girls participated in identifying meat cuts from pictures and suggesting suitable cooking methods; locating meat cuts on blank charts of beef and pork carcasses; and finally, building menus by filling in diners for four consecutive days when breakfasts and suppers were suggested.
All of these activities put into practice the instruction the clubs have been receiving in general nutrition, meal planning, and selection, care and cooking of meat.
The afternoon programme, consisted of contributions from the clubs which also illustrated what had been learned. The Ashgrove Meat Maids and the Stewarttown Chefs exhibited "Different Ways with One Cut," with Diane Wrigglesworth and Carol McLean as respective commentators. Banookburn Porkers showed "Meat in the Menu", on which Gail Dobbie commented; and both Dublin Eatie Meaties and Omagh-Milton Union Chefs chose "Savoury Dishes" with Left-over Meat. Sharon Blyth and Margaret Whewell commented.
Demonstrations on "Make the Most of our Meat Money" were presented by Betty Kingdon and Peggy Ann Robertson of the Hornby Meat Masters; Helen Brucker and Shirley Downs of the Hornby Teen Chefs; and Paula Jelinek and Audrey Auckland of the Nelson Nibblers.
The Nassagaweya Tinker Belles, with Kathleen Stanley, Carol Freeman, and Kathryn Norris, and the Scotch Block Chefs, with Muriel Newell and Audrey Brown, demonstrated the topic "Let's Cook It Right". A skit on this same topic was acted by the Limehouse Meat Raiders, June and Ann Briggs, Joy Patterson, Audrey James, Gloria Latimer, Linda and Heather Clark and Dorothy Kilpatrick.
Norval Cookettes in a similar skit on "Vary the Meat in Your Menu", used all of their members - Norma Murray, Aileen Harrop, Margaret Miller, Susan Cunningham, Sharon Fishburn and Carolyn McLaughlin. The Palermo Meat Maids also presented a skit entitled "Let's Cook It Right", with Brenda Breckon, Cecelia Carter, June Kingston, Judy VanSickle, and Margaret Atkins.
The afternoon program was well attended by many mothers and other interested Women's Institute members. On their behalf, Mrs. Velma Norris, district vice-president, brought greetings and congratulations.
At the close of the day, presentations were made of spoons, crests and certificates. All attending members who had successfully completed the project received a sterling silver 4-H Home-making Club spoon. New members received the 4-H crest and certificates of achievement were presented for each two units completed.

Those receiving county honours for 6 projects, were: Verna Pickett, Ashgrove; Gail Dobbie, Banookburn; Margaret Nightingale, Dublin; June Rennick, Dublin; Marilyn Rogwaldson, Dublin; Helen Auckland, Nelson; Margaret Whewell, Omagh-Milton; Nancy MacKenzie, Scotch Block.
Provincial honours for 12 homemaking projects, went to Evelyn Bird and Jean Bird of Ashgrove, and Helen Brucker of Hornby.
Halton County's next homemaking club project will be "Clothes Closet Up-to-Date." The Training school for this will be held in the Dept. of Agriculture Office, Milton, on Monday and Tuesday, February 17th and 18th.
In the fall of 1958, "Working With Wool" will be undertaken. The home economist will be pleased to receive any inquiries about 4-H Homemaking Clubs.

NIGHT SCHOOL
BEGINNERS' SEWING
Teacher: Mrs. Robert Hess
Terra Cotta

This class has a high attendance average, and the interest of the students can be seen in the relaxed and happy way in which they set about making their attractive blouses and skirts.
They started the year by turning out a cotton-bouise. Cotton is the easiest material to work with, and sewing a blouse demonstrates many steps in construction, such as putting on a collar and a facing, sewing on buttons and making button holes, and setting in a sleeve.
The students are now making skirts of woollen fabrics, and so are dealing with a more difficult material. They are also learning how to fit, although Mrs. Hess is showing them how to bypass many problems in fitting by making accurate measurements beforehand.

Those taking the course are: Mrs. E. G. Farrow, 15 Norton Cres.; Mrs. Don Herrington, Jr., 12 Sarah St.; Irene Fogg, 14 George St.; Mrs. A. C. Patterson, Limehouse; Mrs. A. J. Miller, 6 Victoria Cres.; Mrs. Frank Evis, 7 Cleaveholm Drive; Mrs. George Stutard, 22 Cleaveholm Dr.; Mrs. Hugh Clark, Norval; Mrs. A. O. MacDonald, R. R. 4; Mrs. C. W. Jones, 55 Main St.; Mrs. Robert Lowin, 36 Market St.; Mrs. T. Armistead, 22 Prince Charles Drive; Mrs. William Mean, 3 John St. W.; Mrs. Stanley Fishburn, Norval; Nancy Fishburn, Norval; Mrs. Clea Smith, Terra Cotta; Mrs. Mary Smith, Terra Cotta.

FARM FORUM
FARMERS AGREE LEGAL ADVICE BUSINESS NECESSITY

Mrs. M. J. Brown
"Let's make it legal," the topic discussed on national farm radio forum February 3rd, aroused considerable interest and discussion in Halton forums. All groups agreed that legal advice is necessary in buying or selling a farm, arranging for a mortgage, father and son or family agreements, expropriations or easements, wills, etc.
In answer to question 2: What part should farm organizations play in providing legal services? The forums felt that though such organizations were not in a position to deal with personal or family problems but they could give valuable assistance where group action was concerned.
One group suggested legal articles based on case histories and published in farm journals would serve a useful purpose.

we may take him up on it. Of course we would still have to have our finger on parts of it... censorship rights, anyway!

NIGHT SCHOOL

DRESSMAKING
Teacher, Mrs. Clyde Stewart
34 Balfour Crescent

At the end of the first term, each student in this class had a smart new frock to wear for the Christmas season. The majority were made of wool, because Mrs. Stewart likes to start people off with this material; 90 per cent of home sewing is done on cotton, and the students come with the idea of getting further experience by working on a new fabric.
By the time the course is over, each student will have made two good dresses. Summer frocks - now being sewn. They will be made in a wider range of materials, including silk and drip dry cotton, for each student chooses the material which most appeals to her.

Among those taking the course: Mrs. R. C. Fisher, 14 Shelley St.; Mrs. J. S. Graham, 12 Shelley St.; Mrs. O. J. Dyson, 53 Edith St.; Mrs. J. Ross, R. R. 1; Ellen Speice, R. R. 1; Mrs. V. L. Eggleston, 68 Hewson Cres.; Miss Toni Lee, 7 Normandy Blvd.; Mrs. P. Brown, 48 Shelley St.; Mrs. Albert Presswood, Glen Williams; Mrs. Lois Norton, 163 Main St. N.; Mrs. D. L. Ezard, 54 Sargent Rd.; Anne Fiddler, 94 Guelph St.; Joan Fiddler, 94 Guelph St.; Muriel Burt, R. R. 1; Gwen Davis, 46 Queen St.; Mrs. C. G. Bishop, Glen Williams.

DRAWING AND COMPOSITION
Teacher, Frank Black

Many artists consider the drawing in pencil, charcoal or pastel is the logical approach to the study of oil painting.
Drawing is in some respects a more exact art. It is the reproduction of the thing that is seen, in the correct proportions and perspective, and teaches the recognition of tone values, and of line.
Black and white drawing has proved interesting to a number of students who prefer pencil and charcoal to colour, and their progress even after a few lessons, has been substantial.
Mrs. J. F. Gillis, 19 King St. W.; Mrs. D. W. Baxter, 41 Charles St.; James Rundle, 7 Gibbons Place; Mrs. Charles McNally, Terra Cotta; John Glynn, Limehouse; Mrs. Gerald McCrea, 14 Sarah St.; Mrs. Elizabeth Carney, 11 Church St.; Lillian Wolf, Terra Cotta; Mrs. Gordon Bell, 36 Market St.; Mrs. M. E. Norris, 2 Dale-Gate; Joe Lash Miller, 70 Maple Ave.; Joe Pokluda, Glen Williams; Mrs. Ken Reeves, 31 Water St.; Mrs. Edward Fingley, Limehouse; Mrs. A. M. McLeh, 40 Market St.; Eileen Kerr, 15 Queen St.; Mrs. R. H. Thompson, 18 King St.
